GOV. ROOSEVELT RENEWS ATTACK ON '4 HORSEMEN'

New York Crowds Cheer Him and Al Smith.

G. O. P. Record Made Target of Many Thrusts.

Academy of Music, Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt walked arm in arm with Alfred E. Smith to a four-minute ovation tonight and told several thousand persons that the administration of government under the present leadership in Washington had been distinguished "by destruction, delay, deceit and despair."

For more than an hour after they had entered the flag-draped stage of the Academy of Music the Democratic presidential candidate and the nominee of 1928 took turns about in calling for the repudiation of the present administration and the election of Democrats straight down the line from the Presidency to State tickets.

While several thousand other persons sought to penetrate closely drawn police lines to make their way into the hall, the doors of which were closed two hours before the meeting began, Mr. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith came together in a political rally in keeping with the long-standing Democratic custom of ending their campaign in the New York City area.

Reiterates "Fear" Charge.

Gov. Roosevelt referred again to his assertion that the administration was seeking to spread a "gospel of fear."

"I have pointed out and driven home by straight argument, based on undisputed facts, that the administration of government under the present leadership in Washington has been distinguished by destruction, delay, deceit and despair," Mr. Roosevent said.

The Democratic candidate referred again to the monetary tariff and governmental economy policies he had described in previous speeches and said that he had offered the "practical common sense" of the Democratic platform.

In a speech bristling with satire, former Gov. Smith said that the administration not only had failed to bring about governmental economy but "Hoover himself with the aid of a Republican Congress further bedeviled the situation by creating in four years 35 new departments and boards."

Ridicules Hoover Warning.

"At Madison Square Garden on Monday night the President made the extraordinary statement that if we did anything to the tariff the churches, the schools and the hospitals would decay and grass would grow on the principal streets of our great city," Smith said.

"So what do you think I did about it? I immediately made arrangements for a putting green."

"Mellon was a wise fellow," he added a few minutes later. "He took to the tall timbers before the crash."

"It has been a campaign of fear, of threat, of intimidation," he continued. "And the reason why they can not appear upon the record is that the record shows a rather dismal failure."

Vigorous applause greeted Mr. Roosevelt's declaration, "I have been scrupulously careful to make no idle promise, to raise no false hopes, and at the same time to engage in no personalities, no unfair innuendoes, no

Farley Hints Hoover Feels Defeat in Air

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Democratic Campaign Chief James A. Farley declared today the "obvious deduction" from President Hoover's Springfield speech is that he "feels his reelection is exceedingly improbable and that he is therefore prepared to give his successor the earliest opportunity to save the country."

Before making this comment in a formal statement given out at national headquarters, Farley said:

"I was particularly interested by his (Mr. Hoover's) reference to Lin-

VON PAPEN ASSAILS HITLER AS TRAITOR

Chancellor Says Recent Nazi Criticism Was Stab in Fatherland's Back.

Berlin, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Chancellor Franz von Papen declared in a nation-wide radio broadcast tonight that Adolf Hitler's criticism of the government's foreign policy amounted to a "stab in the back."

The chancellor's address was his final appeal before the Reichstag elections Sunday. In the Reichstag campaign last July each political party, with the exception of the Communists, was permitted to go on the air, but this time no party speeches have been allowed.

Much of the Von Papen address was devoted to an attack on Hitler and his national Socialist party. The Nazi leader, the chancellor said, had disappointed Germans, who had expected him to combat Marxism successfully and to assist in the reconstruction of the nation.

"Strikes as which the Nazis are arm-in-arm with the Communists are disturbing the economic peace and are a crime against the Nation," Von Papen said.

"Party bureaucracy has split Germany into two big camps—on one side the Marxists of all shades, and on the other the rest of German citizenry. The issue is the establishment of a new system of guiding the state, namely by the cooperation of a Parliament capable of working effectively with an authoritative government.

"Bolshevism is death to our millenium-old culture. No means can be sharp enough to eradicate the teachings of its false prophets."

While the chancellor was presenting the government's case, the party leaders addressed mass meetings in various parts of Germany. Among the headliners were Hitler, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist; former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, Centrist, and Ernest Thaelmann, Communist.

U.S. TO OPPOSE LIMITATIONS OF NEUTRAL RIGHT

French Interpretation of Stimson Stand Held Exaggeration.

CURB WOULD APPLY ONLY TO AGGRESSOR

Paris View Seen as Another Move for Support of Security Pact.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States will not subscribe to any limitation of the rights of neutrals that is outside of the purview of Secretary Stimsqn's foreign relations speech of last August 8, it became known here last night.

Interpretations of the speech in French semiofficial circles have recently gone much further than the Secretary of State intended. Joseph Paul Boncour yesterday in Geneva before the Disarmament Commission's steering committee explained the French disarmament plan and made significant reference in this expose to the projected abandonment of neutrality.

Termed Exaggeration.

This was not the first time the French interpretation of neutrality has been put forward, however. In the caucus of Premier Herriot's party last Thursday, the same idea was developed as part of the new scheme of disarmament which will be brought before the disarmament conference in its general committee.

Shortly before Secretary Stimson left to go to his home in New York last night, it was authoritatively learned that these interpretations do not reflect the purpose of Col. Stimson and are in fact an exaggeration of the true import of his remarks.

In his speech of August 8, Secretary Stimson traced briefly the history of international law with respect to the obligations and rights of neutrals in war time, before the Kellogg-Briand pact came into being. He then said:

Meaning Is Clarified.

"By that very act we have made obsolete many legal precedents and have given the legal profession the task of reexamining many of its codes and treatises." The French interpretation of obsolescence of freedom of the seas and the rights of neutrals derives from this speech chiefly.

The explanation that was made

Report for Return To Gold Standards

Experts Declare Debt and Trade Problems Should Be Solved First.

Geneva, Nov. 4 (U.P.).—Return to the gold standard throughout the world will be recommended by monetary experts in a preliminary report being prepared for the London Economic Conference, it was learned today.

Reestablishment of the gold standard should follow fulfillment of certain preliminary conditions, the experts will say. These conditions include:

1—Restoration, to a reasonable degree, of freedom of trade. 2—A solution of intergovernmental private debts. 3—Central banks undertaking to prevent gold movements influencing either the country losing gold or the country receiving it by changing the discount rate or by open-market transactions.

Report Would Abolish French Import Quotas

Toulouse, France, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Abolition of the import quota system, which has caused protests from American business interests, was recommended today in an economic report submitted to the congress of the Radical Socialist party.

The report also suggested that the 40-hour week be established, with the provision that it be accepted internationally. Debate was adjourned until tomorrow.

China Would Resume Relations With Russia

Japanese Envoy at Moscow Says Soviet Has Been Approached.

Tokyo, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Resumption of diplomatic relations between China and Soviet Russia was recently proposed by the Chinese the Japanese foreign office said today.

Foreign office spokesmen said that upon inquiry Eiji Amoh, Japanese charge d'affaires in Moscow, had been told by the Soviet foreign commissariat that W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate at Geneva, had approached Maxzim Litvinoff, the Soviet representative in Geneva, on this subject.

Soviet officials told Mr. Amoh, the foreign office said, that Mr. Yen made his proposal on the basis of the Treaty of Peking signed in 1924 in an attempt to adjust affairs between Russia and China.

Moscow officials were further quoted as saying there was no further progress in this connection, although M. Litvinoff was understood to oppose revival of the 1924 treaty. It was said that Mr. Yen favored resumption of relations pending negotiation of a new treaty.

It was intimated in an official manner that Japan wonders whether China and Russia, the northern and southern neighbors of Manchukuo, would come together before Russo-Japanese relations could be ironed out.

The official Tokyo position is that Japan is in no hurry to conclude a nonaggression pact with Russia or to persuade Moscow to recognize Manchukuo.

INQUIRY IS STARTED IN NAVY YARD BLAST

10 Foundry Workers Burned by Molten Steel; One in Critical Condition.

Spouting suddenly from an 8-inch gun slide casting at the naval gun factory yesterday, molten steel splashed over a crew of foundry workers, critically burning one man, painfully searing three others and causing slight burns to six more men.

Joseph Clark, 54-year-old moulder, of 507 Seward Square southeast, was in a critical condition at Providence Hospital last night, his body and face a mass of second degree burns.

W. H. Smith, moulder, 51, of 1728 B street southeast, was also admitted at the same hospital for treatment for first degree burns.

Harry G. Hill, moulder, of 3809 Veazey street northwest, and Herbert Murray, 1732 B street southeast, were also treated at Providence and sent to their homes.

Six other workers were slightly burned and received treatment at the navy yard dispensary. The more seriously burned were taken to the hospital in the navy yard ambulance.

A naval board of investigation was designated a short while after the accident by Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, commandant at the navy yard, and immediately began taking testimony of witnesses.

The foundry workers, all civilians, were grouped on a platform about 6 feet above the ground, when the white-hot metal splattered over them.

Naval officers and foundry officials said that a gas accumulation in the casting, too large for emergency vents to dispose of, probably caused the metal to gush up as it was poured from a 40-ton crucible.

The workers were all assisting in the pouring. The bulky ladle, brimming with the molten metal, had been discharging its burden into the casting for approximately 3 minutes when the searing fluid geysered up.

Striking the rusty bottom of the crucible, it splashed on practically

Filipowicz's Transfer To Tokyo Predicted

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Political critics predicted today that Tytus Filipowicz, ambassador at Washington, will be transferred to Tokyo and that his successor will be Stanislas Patek, now the Polish Minister at Moscow.

Several important diplomatic changes were announced. Count Edward Raczynski, departmental chief at the foreign office, was named permanent delegate to the League of Nations, succeeding the late Frank Sokal. Count Jan Sjembek, minister to Rumania, was appointed Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs.

GANG SUSPECT GETS TERM OF FOUR YEARS

Convicted on Auto Charge; Five Others Refuse to Talk of Activities.

Hindered by the refusal of five suspects, arrested in connection with a series of robberies credited to the dreaded "Black Shirt" gang of Southern Maryland, to discuss their activities during the past month, Charles County, Md., authorities last night pressed forward their investigation, with the conviction of one man on stolen automobile charges and the turning over of another to Cecil County officials.

One of the suspects, Herman Meredith, arrested three days ago on information furnished by a sixth man, who was apprehended last week following a gun battle near the Pennsylvania State line, was sentenced to four years in the Maryland State House of Correction yesterday, on charges of using stolen automobiles.

Preston Swan, reputed leader of the "Black Shirts," was turned over to Cecil County, Md., authorities. He is wanted there on charges of highway robbery, according to Sheriff Robert L. Cooksey, of Charles County.

The five suspects, Meredith, Preston Swann, Sherman Swann, Griffith Swann and Frank Grayson, were arraigned yesterday before Justice of the Peace R. E. L. Reich, at La Plata, Md.

Three of the men are being held in the La Plata Jail, while the sixth suspect, Blaine Swann, is in the Elkton, Md., jail. Blaine, arrested following a gun battle, is said to have confessed to a series of holdups and implicated the other five men.

Meanwhile, authorities are preparing to resort to every possible means of identification to link the remaining suspects with robberies in several nearby Maryland counties, Sheriff Cooksey said.

It was disclosed that the prisoners are descendants of one of the oldest groups of inhabitants in America. They come from the quiet, strange "We Sort" tribe a race of Indians, fast disappearing. Many dark-skinned residents of Southern Maryland claim to be descendants of this tribe.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Nov. 4 (A. P.).—The city hall and courthouse at the important Atlantic seaport of Trujillo were destroyed and a judge was killed yesterday by a group of men who terrorized the city.

The invaders were armed. The government is taking measures to safeguard against any repetition of the attack, which was given no political importance by commentators here.

$500,000 BLAZE SET AS FELONS RIOT IN CANADA

Torch Applied to Prison as Outbreak Begins in Tailor Shop.

Knives and Clubs Used in Fierce Attack, Quelled by Royal Mounted.

St. Vincent de Paul, Quebec, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Rioting convicts in the penitentiary on the Island of Jesus set fire to the prison tailor shop today, attacked their guards with knives and clubs and slunk back into their cells when the royal Canadian mounted police arrived.

Three guards and one prisoner were injured severly enough to require hospital treatment, and the property damage was estimated at $500,000.

It was the third such disturbance in a Canadian prison in two weeks. This one started in the tailor shop where two guards were supervising the work of about fifteen prisoners. Everything looked normal.

Peculiar Yammering Begins.

Suddenly, one of the guards said later, the men drew knives and clubs as though by signal. A Negro convict named Crossley rushed a guard named Aube. He beat the guard with his club and in a moment there were screams and curses and that peculiar yammering which seems to mark a prison riot.

The men in the tailor shop threw down their tools. Several of them set fire to the building. They rushed out as the flames swept the wall. Prisoners from other shops gathered around in a menacing mob.

The guards went to their fire stations. Several manned the hose. Convicts with knives cut the line.

Telephones for Help.

The warden telephoned to Montreal and fire apparatus raced over the 9 miles from the city. The fire was extinguished an hour after it started, but the roof fell in and the building was ruined.

It was not until a detachment of the mounted police galloped through the gates that the men themselves submitted.

Quickly they were herded back to their cells, all but Crossley, the man

Woman Kidnaped From Gypsy Camp

Her Infant Also Is Taken by Abductors; Roads Being Watched.

A gypsy camp on the Columbia pike at the Relee Station, near the Washington-Richmond highway, was thrown into a turmoil late yesterday when a woman and her 3-month-old baby were kidnaped by a man who threw them into a car and sped away while members of the camp looked on.

It is reported that a car bearing a Missouri license, No. 268070, in which it is believed two women were also riding, drove rapidly up to the camp. The man leaped from the car and knocked down the woman, Anne Stevens, who was holding her baby in her arms. Snatching the baby, he is said to have tossed it to one of his companions and then picking up the woman he had bowled over, he put her into the car, which sped away, going toward Fredericksburg.

HOOVER CHARGES ISSUES EVADED IN CAMPAIGN OF FOE

Election Eve Talk Slated By Coolidge

Chicago, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Republican campaign headquarters announced tonight Calvin Coolidge will take part with President Hoover in the final drive of the campaign on election eve.

Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican national committee said in making the announcement that hundreds of requests had been received for Coolidge to make one more speech in the campaign. The former President will speak from his home at Northampton, Mass., his remarks to be broadcast on the same program on which President Hoover speaks en route to Palo Alto, Calif.

Brands as Untrue Statements on Slump.

Democrats Vague on Dry Law, He Says in St. Louis.

St. Louis Coliseum, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Before a throng that filled this auditorium, President Hoover tonight declared the Democratic party was conducting "a campaign of avoidances" and "vague promises," and that its "evasions" extended even to the prohibition question.

The Chief Executive asserted directly that Democratic leaders were seeking to win votes through the "deliberate misrepresentation" that the Republican party was responsible for the depression.

He called upon Franklin D. Roosevelt to answer more than a dozen political questions. He was cheered for more than five minutes as he appeared and again as he stood up to speak.

Receptions Delay Train.

Noisy and protracted receptions given Mr. Hoover throughout the first day of his coast-to-coast dash placed his train far behind schedule.

At Springfield, Ill., where he spoke after laying a wreath upon Abraham Lincoln's tomb, the crush and rush was so great that part of his party was left behind.

In his first direct bid tonight for Missouri's votes, the President told for the first time publicly "the story of the Dawes Bank in Chicago," to which the Reconstruction Corporation recently made a large emergency loan.

Had not action been taken by himself and Federal Reserve officials in two cities between a Sunday afternoon and 3 a. m. Monday, several months ago, the President said, the huge bank headed by Charles G. Dawes would have been "unable to open on the following Monday morning." He said 122,000 depositors and 22,000 banks were indirectly involved in that one institution.

President Appears Tired.

In accordance with his usual custom, the President changed his phraseology frequently in the reading of his manuscript, but never departing from its general sense.

Although he spoke with a strong voice, the Chief Executive appeared tired from his arduous day of campaigning which began before breakfast this morning.

Mr. Hoover half smiled when the crowd laughed and yelled at his remark that Roosevelt was "misinformed about 300 per cent," in his statement that "when our boom collapsed all but 20 per cent of the people of the world were in a state of prosperity."

Boos roared over the big hall, as the President mentioned the names of Senators Wheeler (D., Mont.); Norris (R., Nebr.), and Long (D., La.), and William Randolph Hearst, saying the country should know whether Roosevelt would support or repudiate "their long continued efforts to put government" into business.

"We're with you," one of the stronger gallery voices shouted.

In discussing prohibition, the President omitted three words from his text apparently by oversight. When saying that his opponents knew "that their own Democratic strongholds in the South, if no other, will not accept the proposal for outright repeal of the eigneenth amendment," he left out the words "in the South."

Coercion Charge Discounted.

Asserting that "no one can coerce a voter" in connection with his assertion that the Democrats were making "another false issue over supposed coercion of voters by employers," the

INSULL BECOMES ILL, BUT REMAINS IN JAIL

Fugitive Magnate Has Heart Attack as Extradition to America Nears.

Athens, Greece, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Samuel Insull, under indictment in Chicago on charges which grew out of the collapse of the Middle West Utilities Co., was arrested today pending extradition.

They took him to police headquarters and kept him there for the night, despite his attorney's plea that Mr. Insull, now 73 years old, is suffering from heart trouble and ought to be in a hospital.

The public attorney appointed two physicians to examine him and report tomorrow. He will decide then where Mr. Insull will have to stay during his period of detention.

When it was announced yesterday that the Greco-American extradition treaty had finally been made effective by the formal exchange of instruments of ratification, it was certain that Mr. Insull's visit to Greece would be interrupted.

Barrie, Ontario, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Extradition proceedings against Martin J. Insull, former Chicago Public Utilities official, were adjourned for two weeks when he appeared today in Somcoe County court.

Mr. Insull was indicted with his brother, Samuel, after the collapse of the Middle West Utilities Co. Since his arrest here a month ago he has been at liberty in $50,000 bail. The bail was continued.

Ammonia Fumes Cause Stampede

Apartment House Sleepers Are Routed by Bursting Refrigerator Pipe.

Sleeping tenants in an apartment at 1218 Tenth street northwest were awakened by acid fumes and sent scurrying to their windows for air last night when the ammonia line of an automatic refrigerator burst in the apartment of C. E. Hitchfield, on the third floor of the five-story building.

The fumes rapidly spread through the halls and into apartments when doors were opened. Most of the tenants were coughing at the windows when the rescue squad arrived. Others fled to the roof.

It was reported that between 40 and 50 persons were affected by the fumes and had to have medical treatment.

12,000 See G. W. Triumph Over North Dakota, 20-0

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Outplayed during the first quarter, George Washington University's football team dealt its aces, Johnny Fenlon and Nig McCarver, from the bottom of the deck last night to ram three touchdowns across under the floodlights and remove North Dakota State University from the ranks of the unbeaten with a 20-to-0 victory.

Harried from the outset by the threatening attack of the Dakota Bisons, George Washington assumed the offensive in the second quarter, and with McCarver and Fenlon operating in an attack that was masked by forward passes, pressed on to a touchdown on the last play of the half. The same pair then collaborated to score twice more in the final quarter to make the victory conclusive.

With the 12,000 in the stands fearing momentarily that the elusive Hansen and the plunging Goves would open up another menacing attack from the Dakota back field, the Colonials took the play away from the Bisons with sustained offensives on their own account and held Dakota to one first down after the first quarter.

Balked once in the second quarter when Baker's attempted placement kick from the 12-yard line was blocked by surging Dakota linemen, George Washington quickly returned to the attack to shove across its first touchdown on a 34-yard march that was not interrupted.

Fenlon, sent into the game a moment before, immediately opened up with the Colonials' passing pyrotechnics and a 22-yard heave found McCarver securely on the other end, to advance the ball to Dakota's 12-yard line. Fenlon's next move was a lateral to McCarver for a 6-yard gain.

Mounted Police Unit Aim To Quell Disorders Here

Planned by Brown to Cope With Radical Disturbances Scheduled at Capitol; Success in Handling Crowds Elsewhere Affects Decision.

The formation of a mounted police patrol for use in the suppression of riotous disturbances which may occur at the Capitol, incident to demonstrations being planned by radicals, is being considered by Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown.

Preliminary steps toward the organization of the mounted unit were taken yesterday by Maj. Brown, who sent inquiries throughout the precincts, asking for the names of policemen who formerly were in the cavalry, or who are accomplished equestrians.

The use of mounted police has been especially effective in quelling riotous demonstrations in Union Square, New York, in the past year, and more recently in London, where the mounted policemen halted a march on Parliament.

It is an axiom of police work that a mounted policeman is more effective in quelling disturbances than fifteen foot patrolmen. There was a mounted patrol in the District department until two years ago, when it was discontinued.

The hope of Maj. Brown is that such a patrol can be organized before the end of the month, because a demonstration of "hunger marchers" is scheduled to be held in the Capitol grounds on December 5. The plans of Communistic organizations are to bring four columns of hunger marchers to the Capitol on that day to create disorder.

What may disrupt the plans for the new patrol is the absence of a provision in the appropriations for the department for such use.

Not only would the proposed patrol be of assistance in quelling disorders, the police head believes, but it would be invaluable in the handling of parade crowds.

Millions in Rent . . . .

Washington retail merchants expend $14,489,372 yearly for rent, or in rental value, of business properties. This sum contributes heavily to the taxes that maintain various public services as well as to a fair return on capital investments of property owners . . . When you buy outside of Washington you are contributing in a similar degree to the welfare of a community foreign to your personal interests . . . DEMOCRATS CERTAIN TO WIN, SAYS RASKOB

5-Point Recovery Program, Including Beer Tax, Is Outlined.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—John J. Raskob, in a Democratic campaign address tonight, said he considered the election already won by the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, and then outlined a five-point program 'that can be quickly accomplished and will greatly facilitate a quick return of prosperity and morality in our country."

His program, as outlined in an advance copy of his radio talk given out at Democratic national headquarters, is:

"1. Pending repeal of the eighteenth amendment, liberalize the Volstead law to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of light wines and beer.

"2. Levy an excise tax on beer and wine designed to produce a Federal revenue of $1,000,000,000 annually, instead of having the public pay twice this amount to bootleggers for poor products illicitly made.

"3. Make radical reductions in the high surtaxes on incomes, and impose a general sales tax of 1½ per cent, if this is necessary temporarily to balance the budget.

"4. Drastically reduce all Federal expenditures, by forcing the Government to economize in all directions, exactly as every individual citizen has had to do, and in this way.

"5. Balance the budget."

Folger Library to Stay Open Saturdays to 4:30

The Folger Shakespeare Library will remain open on Saturday afternoons until 4:30 o'clock instead of closing on that day at 1 o'clock as in the past, it was announced yesterday by the director of the library, William Adams Slade.

The reason for this is to permit the Government workers and others in Washington the opportunity, not previously theirs, to visit the library on Saturday afternoons after work.

Commerce Bureau Open Election Day

All Other Major Units Are Expected to Close to Permit Voting.

The Commerce Department yesterday was the only major Government agency which had definitey refused to grant employes leave on which to go to their Maryland and Virginia residences and vote next Tuesday.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the War Department employes were yesterday notified that they would be excused for two hours without loss of pay in order that they might vote.

It was reported that the Agricultural Department and the Postoffice Department were in favor of releasing employes but no official order had been issued. The Government Printing Office will be closed all day Tuesday.

Democrats Celebrate At Ball at Mayflower

The "Victory Ball" of District Democrats was held last night, with a capacity crowd, at the Mayflower Hotel. The ball climaxed activities here of the Democrats toward the election of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

During the ball a fashion show was held, with Washington and Baltimore debutantes acting as models. Proceeds of the ball will be used for defraying expenses of the District campaign.

(Associated Press.)

Subscriptions aggregating $229,939,000 for $75,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills maturing February 8, were announced yesterday by Acting Secretary Ballantine, of the Treasury.

The highest bid was 99.962, equivalent to an interest rate of about .15 per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.941, equivalent to an interest rate of about .23 per cent. The average price of the bills was 99.945, and the average rate on a bank discount basis, .22 per cent.

Opening of U.S. Archive Building Bids Postponed

Because the contractors did not clearly state their estimates on alternate bids the Treasury Department has again postponed the opening of the bids on the superstructure of the Archives Building. It is now planned to open them on Thursday.

Bids have been asked for both limestone and granite work, but a decision as to which stone will be used can only be made after comparative costs are studied. The foundation work has now been completed on the project.

Hijacker Gets Three Years.

Despite his story that the gun he used when he attempted to hold up Arthur J. Middleton at a filling station last month was an old one that had not been fired in ten years, Thomas E. Cheney, colored, yesterday was sentenced to serve from three to five years when he was brought before Chief Justice Wheat in the District Supreme Court.

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Following is the text of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's address tonight at Brooklyn:

I have returned to the State of New York to spend the last four days before election among my neighbors and it is to me a happy home-coming. I have visited 37 States, traveled thousands of miles, and I cherish with a deep feeling of appreciation the courtesy and enthusiasm with which literally millions of my fellow-Americans have greeted me.

I have returned with the first-hand knowledge that the Nation in every part is stirred by a great human crisis. The outpourings of humanity in the great cities, and in the agricultural communities brought to me an even deeper realization of the responsibility I face.

Because of what I have seen, I have been scrupulously careful to make no idle promises, to raise no false hopes, and at the same time to engage in no personalities, no unfair innuendoes, no baseless charges against the President of the United States.

In simple terms I have attempted to say to the people of this country that the way out of disaster and depression is a battle to be fought by the people; that the task of rebuilding must come from the resolute action of millions of men and women who belong to all parties; but at the same time that leadership is essential to provide for them plans of action and to keep vividly before them the definite objectives.

Offers "Common Sense" Of Democratic Platform.

Leadership looking to action is the greatest issue to be decided on election day. If the voters of the United States are content with the President's slogan, "It might have been worse!" they will give him the opportunity to pursue his present policy of merely preventing things from getting worse. If, on the other hand, they are unwilling to stop there, and believe that vigorous leadership and planned action will make things better, then the Democratic national ticket will receive an overwhelming mandate in every section of the land to proceed with the task.

I have built, as the weeks have passed, a program of action for the Federal Government—no Utopia to delude us again with the thought of magic things still hidden — just around the corner—no glittering generalities to make us believe that all has been done that could have been done; and, above all, thank God, no gospel of fear and panic to sweep away the fine patience and sane courage that I have seen everywhere.

Instead, I have offered the practical common sense of the Democratic platform, a document which will live in history as a model for brevity and clarity. A document which by contrast with the thousands of words of bombast, of evasion and of deception in the Republican platform, set the keynote for the whole campaign and started four months ago the surge to Democracy which will result in a victory that will be heard around the world on Tuesday next.

I have pointed out and driven home by straight argument, based on undisputed facts, that the administration of government under the present leadership in Washington has been distinguished by destruction, delay, deceit and despair.

When I think of the innumerable people I have seen in this campaign, patient, steadfast, though bitterly hurt in the collapse of our economic life, I feel that to take advantage of their deprivation to spread among them a gospel of fear is about the most reprehensible act of a campaign that has yielded many examples of unscrupulous appeals for votes. The business men of the country, battling hard to maintain their financial solvency and integrity were told in blunt language in Des Moines, Iowa, how close an escape the country had some months ago from going off the gold standard. This, as has been clearly shown since, was a libel on the credit of the United States.

Advocates Sound Currency at All Times.

No adequate answer has been made to the magnificent philippic of Senator Glass the other night, in which he showed how unsound was this assertion. And I might add, Senator Glass made a devastating challenge that no responsible government would have sold to the country securities payable in gold if it knew that the promise, yes, the covenant, embodied in these securities was as dubious as the President of the United States claims it was. Of course, the assertion was unsound. In the reiterated apologies for it that have come from the administration, many words have been added, like leeches to suck from the original statement its deadly meaning. But this administration is not content with adding words to make a bad case look good. It also knows how to take words away to make a bad case look better.

One of the most commonly repeated misrepresentations by Republican speakers, including the President, has been the claim that the Democratic position with regard to money has not been made sufficiently clear. The President is seeing visions of rubber dollars. This is only a part of his campaign of fear. I am not going to characterize these statements. I merely present the facts.

The Democratic platform specifically declares, "We advocate a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards." That is plain English.

In discussing this platform on July 30, I said: "Sound money is an international necessity; not a domestic consideration for one nation alone."

Far up in the Northwest, at Butte, I repeated the pledge of the platform, saying, "sound currency must be maintained at all regards."

In Seattle, I reaffirmed my attitude on this question. The thing has been said, therefore, in plain English three times in my speeches. It is stated without qualification in the platform and I have announced my unqualified acceptance of that platform.

So much for that misrepresentation!

I can not take the time to give adequate attention to the entire range of the President's panic-stricken recital. It would be a dreary, though amazing record. We are able, however, to determine the quality of a candidate's representation to the country by the process of sampling. I have given you one sample. I shall add another.

The President, at Madison Square Garden on last Monday night, not only misrepresented me, but misquoted himself. The President stated:

"In my acceptance speech four years ago at Palo Alto, I stated that:

'In America today we are nearer a final triumph over poverty than in any land. The poorhouse has vanished from among us; we have not reached that goal, but given a chance to go forward we shall with the help of God, be in sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this Nation.'

'Our Democratic friends have quoted this passage many times in this campaign. I do not withdraw a word of it * * *'

Asserts No Such Utterance Made.

No more surprising statement has been uttered by a man occupying the highest office in the gift of the American people. No Democrat has ever quoted that passage because no such utterance was ever made by the President in his acceptance speech at Palo Alto.

Democrats and many others have quoted the statement made by the President in his acceptance speech four years ago as it appears in the Republican campaign book of 1928, and also in the book entitled, "The New Day," which contains the campaign speeches of President Hoover.

As officially presented in these official source books the President said:

"We in America today are nearer to the final triumph over poverty than ever before in the history of any land. The poorhouse is vanishing from among us. We have not yet reached the goal, but given a chance to go forward with the policies of the last eight years, and we shall soon with the help of God be in sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this Nation."

I beg you to observe how the President has misquoted himself. First, he has eliminated the word "yet," which indicated that the millenium was soon possible.

Second, he has eliminated the word "soon," which gave to the people the hope that his election would accomplish its arrival.

Third, he has eliminated the words "with the policies of the last eight years," which were then used to indicate that the arrival of the millenium would be thought about only by a continuation of the policies of the Republican administrations preceding him.

Certainly, I subscribe, and all citizens will subscribe, to the ideal expressed by President Hoover in his speech at Madison Square Garden Monday night. But we do not subscribe to the absurb promise of Candidate Hoover in 1928, nor can we understand how the candidate has in this amazing way misquoted himself.

Quotes Business Journal On Concealed Figures.

I can not completely recount the extent to which this administration has misinterpreted the facts in order to retain its power. I pointed out the fallacious and ruinous business administration that has characterized its budget transactions. After the President and the Secretary of the Treasury had purported to answer my arguments, a staid and impartial business journal, The Analyst, justified what I had said in the following words:

"Specifically and foremost, the Federal budget is in a shocking state. The Washington administration knew quite well that it was not even 'substantially' balanced when Congress adjourned last June. The actual deficit for the current fiscal year, amounting now, in the middle of the fourth month, to $700,000,000 or more, has been concealed as far as possible by the administration. Returns from new taxation have discredited practically every forecast made by the Treasury."

This conservative and dependable journal likewise speaks of the unreliability of the President's utterances with regard to other subjects. It says that in his eleventh-hour campaign he has made "loose, if not completely misleading, references to recent and current records." It speaks of inaccuracies in his statements with regard to building contracts and freight loadings; moreover, it challenges the assertion of the Federal Reserve Bulletin about a decrease of hoarding and finally, it publishes an article with something close to editorial indorsement, which sadly upsets the sweeping assertion that the depression began abroad. This feeble alibi I destroyed in my Louisville speech. So far as I know, the administration has failed to controvert me.

I have said that the present administration has abandoned even the historic principles of the Republican party.

What, for example, would William McKinley, James G. Blaine or William Howard Taft, if they were alive today, say to the insistence of President Hoover that reciprocal tariffs are unworkable and unsound?

I note once more that the President ridicules a Tariff Commission set up in harmony with the principles laid down by President Theodore Roosevelt and enacted into law by President Wilson. I proposed that kind of a Tariff Commission in my Sioux City speech six weeks ago, and I wonder if President Hoover has ever read the address of President Roosevelt at Sioux Falls on September 3, 1910, where President Roosevelt proposed as a way to end tariff log-rolling in the Congress, the very measure that President Hoover now declares will encourage log-rolling.

I wonder, too, if the President thinks that the country is satisfied with the present method of operation of the Tariff Commission?

Says Tariff Officials Considered Bicycle Bells.

During two long years, President Hoover's tariff commission has investigated the duties upon only 73 commodities—73 out of many thousands. Eighteen schedules were reduced and 13 were increased, and it is worth noting that among the articles investigated the tariff commission has busied itself with pipe organs, peppers, eggplants and bicycle bells. A careful estimate shows that at the present rate of progress President Hoover's tariff commission will complete its examination of schedules and report upon them by the year 2005.

At Pittsburgh I stated that there must be a reduction in the cost of government and set forth in detail the means by which it could be accomplished. In reply the President states it can not be done. The people of America demand a reduction in Federal expenditure. It can be accomplished not only by reducing the expenditures of existing departments but it can be done by abolishing many useless commissions, bureaus and functions, and it can be done by consolidating many activities of the government.

The people of the State of New York well know the efficiency that can come through reorganization of government departments. The long fight of Gov. Smith with a Republican Legislature ended in a constitutional amendment which brought about this end. The same kind of reorganization ought to be effected in Washington. Many bureaus overlap that should be merged or consolidated. It is not necessary to create a new commission to secure the information necessary for this reform. Such information has been in the process of collection in Washington for 22 years. What is needed in this, as in many other things, is the will to do. There is no need for delay in this matter. The President has power under the law to recommend to Congress the abolishment of bureaus, and the absolute power to consolidate certain specific bureaus. He has done nothing. In the process of consolidation I propose to apply the lessons of economy and efficiency that we learned so well in the State of New York and through the striking experience of reorganization in other States of the Union. I am convinced that through such reorganization there can be a very substantial reduction of expenditures.

While I am on the subject of government, I want to repeat what I have suggested before—that of late years, and especially during the administration of President Hoover, the relationship between the Federal Government and the State governments has been almost wholly forgotten. I know from practical experience as governor of the most populous State of the Union that in many instances a different attitude on the part of the President would have brought about much closer cooperation between Washington and my State capitol, and this without any interference with the rights of the States. It is entirely possible and entirely practical for the President to solve and to simplify many governmental problems by contact and discussion with the governors of the several States.

For the last four years I have also been a member of the executive committee of the conference of governors. And the thoughts of many of my fellow chief executives coincide with mine—that great opportunities for constructive action, for cooperation and mutual effort have been overlooked by the present national administration.

Lehman Is Declared Qualified for Duties.

This is one of the many reasons why I have great hope that if I am elected I will know that my long-time associate and friend, Lieut. Gov. Lehman is directing the affairs of the State of New York as its chief executive. Col Lehman is eminently qualified for the governorship. Gov. Smith knows, and I know from long experience, that discharging the duties of the office of Governor of the State of New York is no easy task—that it calls for wide experience and wide knowledge of the State and its problems.

The voters are going to elect Col. Lehman because they apply to him the two simple words, "best qualified." You and I know that he is familiar with every section of the State, with every institution of the State, with every department of the State, and furthermore he has an intelligent understanding of the relationship between the Legislature and the office of governor.

In leaving the governorship I want to see the office of governor held by one who has the courage to be his own master, but who at the same time thinks of the public good in the same broad terms as Gov. Smith and myself.

May I also urge upon you the high importance of reelecting Senator Robbert F. Wagner. In his case it is not alone the interests of the State of New York which are involved. He is known throughout the Nation as a Senate leader who has made himself an expert on that vital subject of relief for the unemployed. I shall need him in Washington.

The lessons of this campaign are plain enough. I am confident that the overwhelming majority of the voters of the Nation seek unity, seek ordered progress, seek the security that comes from these things. These are what the people expect from a united Democracy, and from a leadership that is committed to progress through action.

Help us keep the faith. Help us to fight the good fight. Help us to attain the goal.

Hoover to Make Last Address at Elko, Nev.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The Evening Gazette says it has learned President Hoover will make his final radio broadcast of the campaign at Elko, Nev., between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. (Pacific Coast time) Monday. Word was received at Elko late today, the Gazette says, that the President's special trail will halt there for the broadcast.

Center of a large stock-grazing area, Elko is located on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad in northeastern Nevada and has a population of approximately 2,000 persons.

FARLEY HINTS HOOVER FEELS DEFEAT IN AIR

coln's memorandum on the eve of the election of 1864, which Mr. Hoover quoted as follows:

"'This morning and for some days past it seems exceedingly probable that this administration will not be reelected. Then it will be my duty to so cooperate with the President-elect as to save the Union between the election and the inauguration.'"

Farley continued by saying:

"Mr. Hoover's graphic recital of the events of the dark days of the War between the States, as a parallel to the economic and industrial gloom of the past three years, may be a permissible expedient in a desperate political situation.

"I do not recall, however, that in the dreadful period in the Nation's history to which he referred, President Lincoln stumped up and down the land, trying to scare the country to death by his repeated reiteration that only by his election could national chaos be averted.

"Instead, President Lincoln purposed that if McClellan won the Presidency to do all he could to help his successor save the Union."

Farley also said:

"President Hoover * * * had, I suppose, a right to compare himself to Lincoln, although I do not remember that any other President compared himself to the heroic historical figures in our history. * * *

"I guess we better just dismiss the Springfield address as just another campaign speech. The President has to say something in these last days of the campaign, and the coincidence of his being at Springfield, where Lincoln's tomb is, suggested his hooking up his plight with that of the great President, just as on another occasion he invoked the picture of Washington at Valley Forge, to indicate the gravity of his problems and suggest another modest parallel."

Jahncke Sees Majority Of 14 Votes for Hoover

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke, at Republican Eastern headquarters today, predicted President Hoover will defeat Gov. Roosevelt by about fourteen electoral votes.

He also predicted the President will carry California by 100,000 popular votes and Pennsylvania by at least 200,000.

Second Victim of Auto Accident Here Expires

Mrs. Elizabeth Lloyd, 71, of Alexandria, Va., died at Casualty Hospital yesterday from injuries which she suffered when an automobile struck both, her and her husband William Lloyd, while they were crossing Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, on September 18.

Her husband died about a week after the accident. Sylvan W. Burnett, 18, of Clarendon, Va., driver of the vehicle, was exonerated by a coroner's jury, who found the collision unavoidable.

Visit Marks Lincoln's Wedding Anniversary

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—President Hoover's visit to Springfield today was the ninetieth anniversary of the marriage of Abraham Lincoln and Mary Todd.

Lincoln, a 33 year-old circuit riding lawyer, was married on November 4, 1842, in Ninian Edwards' home here. Thirty guests braved a downpour of rain.

Johnson Deplores Policy of Hoover

California Senator Questions Big Business Right to Exploit People.

Chicago, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Senator Hiram Johnson, in an address prepared for delivery here tonight, asserted that the Hoover administration had conducted "our affairs as if therg were a divine right of big business to exploit all the rest of us."

The California Republican, supporter of President Hoover in the 1928 campaign, spoke in behalf of the Democratic candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The philosophies of Government which clash in this struggle," Senator Johnson said, "are exactly the same which led to the glorious progressive Republican adventure of 1912. The one represents, and this is his (President Hoover's), the 'divine right' of big business and of the international bankers and of great corporations to maintain, operate and conduct our Government; and the other represents, and it is Roosevelt's, the right of all the people, high and low, big and little, rich and poor alike, to share in the blessings of Government," Senator Johnson said.

Political Symposium Will Be Held Tonight

The final political symposium in Washington prior to the election will be held in the ball room of the Gordon Hotel, 816 Sixteenth street northwest, at 8:15 o'clock tonight, under the auspices of the League for the Larger Life.

It is announced that Judge Theodore G. Risley will speak for the Republican party; Charles S. Douglas, for the Democratic party; the Rev. Thomas E. Boorde, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, for the Prohibition party, and Marx Lewis, for the Socialist party.

Darrow-Wilson Debate At Auditorium Tonight

Final arrangements are complete for the debate tonight at Washington Auditorium between Clarence Darrow, noted criminal attorney, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Eleanor Patterson will act as presiding judge. The debate will begin at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Darrow and Dr. Wilson have been friends for years and have entered into debate on prohibition many times in the past—once several years ago in Washington. Churches throughout the city have been asked to support Dr. Wilson in his contention and leaders of several local organizations have promised their support to Mr. Darrow.

baseless charges against the President of the United States."

Roosevelt said President Hoover's remark at Des Moines that the country last summer was close to going off the gold standard "has been clearly shown to be a libel on the credit of the United States."

The crowd frequenly applauded Mr. Roosevelt's utterances, particularly his declarations that the candidates and the party platform are committed to "sound money."

Laughter interrupted the speaker when he said "the President is seeing visions of rubber dollars."

Former Gov. Smith smiled broadly when Roosevelt, at one point said, "As Gov. Smith would say, let's look at the record."

From the gallery came a voice shouting, "I hope we'll soon see it," when Mr. Roosevelt quoted a passage attributed to the Republican campaign book of 1928 which said:

"We shall soon, with the help of God, be in sight of the day when poverty will be banished from this Nation."

Tariff Work Rapped.

His auditors laughed and applauded when Mr. Roosevelt, referring to the Tariff Commission's investigation of schedules, said that body had looked into the duties on 73 commodities in two years, adding, "It is worth noting that among the articles investigated were pipe organs, peppers, eggplants and bicycle bells."

In sarcastic tones, Gov. Roosevelt continued:

"A careful estimate showed that at the present rate President Hoover's Tariff Commission will complete its examination of schedules and report upon them by the summer of 2005."

Gov. Roosevelt closed with indorsements of Herbert H. Lehman and Senator Robert F. Wagner.

Smith was introduced as the "best known and best loved man in America."

The "happy warrior" waved down a demonstration. As the audience shouted to Smith, Roosevelt laughed. Smith turned and made several remarks to Roosevelt.

"I am taking for my text tonight, 'By their fruits ye shall know them,'" Smith said, and the crowd laughed.

Cites 1928 Promises.

"I am going to recall a few of the promises of 1928 and part of the performances. First, in glowing letters—economy promise. What's the fact? This Government is costing the people more today than at any peace time since the Civil War. Now let Hoover, Mills, Moses or any Republican orator between now and Tuesday dispute that."

"Four years ago the boast was made that the finances of the Government were efficiently handled," Smith went on. "Yes, they were—under cover."

"What would you do with an employe who would conceal a deficit?" Smith asked.

"Oust him," a voice called from the gallery.

"Well, that's exactly what will happen next Tuesday," Mr. Smith added.

Commenting upon Republican declarations on foreign debts, Smith said, "No country except Great Britain has included the debts in their budgets."

"We're kidding ourselves if we think we'll get that money," he continued. "No, I'll take that back. Washington is kidding us."

Smith's Thrusts Draw Laughs.

Illustrating his assertions with mimicry and gestures, Smith brought gales of laughter from his audience in which Roosevelt joined, when he said, "The Republicans always are sad when talking about Europe; they make us feel that when Europe has a toothache, we have one."

Referring to a commission named by the President, Smith said he served "with my old pal Cal."

"Mr. Hoover would not need to make fourteen speeches a day if he had talked plainly to the people during the first part of his administration," Smith said.

"Why," he continued, "for a long time the only thing you got from the White House was where Dolly Gann was going to sit."

One of the preliminary speakers, Senator Wagner, answering President Hoover's speech to Californians, brought laughter from the crowd as he said Mr. Hoover argued he should receive California's votes because he went there as a boy, worked in California mines, built a home there after the war, visited there once a year since the war and planned to return there after his public service.

"He's going back there all right," shouted a voice from the gallery.

VETERANS' BUREAU COST REPORT NEAR

Gen. Hines Is Likely to Send Data to Congress for Clearer Policy.

Formulation of a simplified national policy on soldier relief, capable of general application to veterans of all wars, probably will be recommended to Congress by the United States Veterans' Administration.

Director Frank T. Hines is completing an exhaustive survey of soldier benefits covering every dollar spent for veterans' aid, preparatory to hearings late this month before the joint congressional committee studying veterans' costs.

Whether the administration will line up with business interests seeking drastic cuts in the present outlay, favor the legion's defensive position or remain neutral, neither Gen. Hines nor his aids will say.

This much was learned authoritatively, however—any recommendations the administration makes will point to the need for a unified policy coordinating the complex maze of veterans' laws.

Compilation of Laws.

The administration's study is virtually complete. Facts and figures, supplemented by pointed observations of Gen. Hines, will be ready whenever the joint committee of five senators and five representatives decide to hold its initial meeting.

Aside from its cost survey, inspired primarily by the joint committee's investigation, the Veterans' Administration has just finished the first complete compilation of all laws relating to veterans.

Annotated and conveniently indexed, the codification was made on order of a concurrent congressional resolution, sponsored in the Senate by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska.

Copies Available Soon.

Copies will be available in December, in time to furnish members of Congress with a thorough background for the veterans' fight ahead. Prints will be supplied each unit of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Spanish War Veterans.

To date, Gen. Hines has remained silent on proposals of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Economy League to cut veterans' appropriations $400,000,000. He has made no statement since John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, charged the bureau with giving out "half truths" about veterans' costs.

His answer, if one is made, will come from the witness stand at joint committee hearings. Meantime the committee's study of veterans' relief inequities has gone steadily forward, supplanting the study the joint committee itself was supposed to have pressed during the summer recess.

Younger Students For War College

Gen. Bridges' Order Cuts Down Age Average of Officers.

Youth is to be served more generously in the Army hereafter, it was indicated yesterday with publication of an order from Adjutant General C. H. Bridges to the chiefs of arms and services, stipulating that one-half of each service quota enrolled in the War College next year shall not have reached the age of 44 by September 1, 1933.

The average age now of War College graduates is 49 years.

Gen. Bridges determined upon the radical move with the full approval of Secretary Hurley.

Seventy-five officers of the Regular Army will be detailed to begin the War College course next September, and recommendations are to be made before December 1, 1932.

Social Surveys Here Are Urged

Studies by Welfare Board to Safeguard Interests of Children, Aim.

A recommendation that the Board of Public Welfare make frequent surveys of "the social and environmental conditions" of the District in order to "further safeguard the interests and well-being" of the children of Washington was made to the District Commissioners yesterday by the Monday Evening Club.

"The growing seriousness of the relief situation in the District" led the club to adopt a resolution urging the board to put into full effect a section of the act creating the agency, the letter explains.

"By means of such research it is hoped that the board will be able to indicate present trends in unemployment, destitution, crime, housing conditions, and the lowering of living standards of those dependent on public or private aid, for the purpose of recommending to the Board of Commissioners necessary remedial measures to meet existing needs."

FRENCH SPOKESMAN SUBMITS ARMS PLAN

Paul-Boncour Says World Safety Should Rest on Security Treaties.

Geneva, Switzerland, No. 4 (A.P.). Joseph Paul-Boncour, French minister of war, outlined France's new arms plan today and coupled it with an eloquent bid for American support.

He presented the plan, parts of which already had been revealed in Paris, to the steering committee of the world disarmament conference.

The war minister asked the nations of the world to organize international security by a series of three pacts. He praised the Hoover disarmament proposals and attempted to show how they could have maximum application under the Paris plan.

The second pact would be a reaffirmation of loyalty to the covenant of the League of Nations and specific acknowledgement of the covenant's provisions for penalizing an offending state.

The third would be a regional agreement for mutual assistance against an aggressor.

This plan, the war minister said, would do much to establish a basis for the reduction of existing armaments. He also outlined to the committee a system of army conscription in all the European countries which presumably would involve abolition of the German reichswehr. He explained this would permit creation of defense forces upon a basis of equality —approximating what Germany demands. He added that recruitment in countries "with powerful populations" would require certain restrictions in order to prevent disproportionate strength.

One of the fundamental bases of the three pacts, the Frenchmen told the committee, would be the constitution of a strong League of Nations armed force equipped with the most effective weapons and able to aid an attacked nation.

Heads of the important delegations reserved comment. They said they preferred to await the more complete presentation of the French idea which Premier Herriot will make next week.

Bay State Hamlets in Race To Report Vote First in U. S.

New Ashford, Which Reported Results in 1928 at 6:26 a. m., Has Rival This Year in Neighboring Village of Peru; Sleep Will Be Cut Short Tuesday.

Boston, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Long before the doors of polling places in many States open next Tuesday morning, Massachusetts will tell the world the outcome of the voting in some of its communities.

One tiny hamlet in the Berkshire Hills—New Ashford—hopes to win again the honor it has won in every presidential election since 1916 by completing and announcing its vote before any other community in the United States.

This year, though, it has a rival, a not distant town—Peru—whose citizens are out to beat their fellow voters of New Ashford.

In much of Massachusetts, where the town meeting of colonial days is still held, the township is the voting unit. New Ashford and Peru are towns, each a separate voting district. The law permits the election officials to count the vote as soon as the ballots of all registered voters have been cast.

New Ashford, with a 1930 population of 75, has 34 registered voters on its rolls this year; Peru has 65.

New Ashford has the advantage in the race. Not alone because of its smaller number of voters, but from the fact that the polling place will open at 5:45 a. m., whereas Peru will not open until fifteen minutes later. And every citizen able to be out, will be waiting when the doors open.

In 1916, New Ashford reported its vote at 10:10 a. m. That was late, so four years after a greater effort was made and the result was announced at 7:38 a. m. In 1924, the time was 7:01. Four years ago another record was established, when the vote was announced at 6:26 a. m. The result then was 28 voes for Herbert Hoover and 3 for Alfred E. Smith.

Mount Washington, another small town, set out four years ago to beat New Ashford, but lost by 19 minutes. They recorded 25 votes for Hoover and 8 for Smith. The Mount Washington citizens decided not to try this year.

Peru's vote four years ago was Hoover, 36; Smith, 22.

New Ashford has 19 men voters and 15 women, while Peru has 40 men and 25 women.

Down on Cape Cod there are some early risers also, but they don't expect to win the race. Mashpee, for instance, gets its vote in usually soon after noon. Four years ago it had 160 voters, 83 Hoover and 17 Smith.

lowed closely on latest developments in the case. It has been known for some time that increasing friction has arisen between Smith and Sheriff Richard Hammett.

The sheriff's demand that Smith turn in his badge was fulfilled Wednesday. For more than three weeks St. Mary's County was the center of terrorizing depredations. Citizens at that time criticized lack of activity on the part of the sheriff's office and a demand was ade for Sheriff Hammett's resignation.

Asked if the subsequent investigation into activities of the "Black Shirt" gang had anything to do with the sheriff requesting his resignation, Smith said last night:

"I wouldn't be surprised."

PRISON SHOP BURNS IN CANADIAN RIOTING

who appeared to have started the trouble. He was discovered later in an adjoining building and locked up.

Another prisoner, who took no part in the uprising, nearly died. He was locked in a cell on one of the upper floors of the workshop. While the fire was hottest the guards below saw him through the bars on his cell, throwing his body against the door.

When the fire was sufficiently under control two guards went up and carried him out unconscious.

There were indications that today's trouble had its roots in overcrowding of the prison. There are 1,105 inmates, a considerable increase from the total of 1931 when the prison population was 889.

On October 19 and 21 there were serious riots at Portsmouth penitentiary during which five prisoners were injured and damage estimated at $10,000 was caused. Last April one man was killed and a number were injured in the prison at Stony Mountain, Manitoba.

Campaign Closed By County G. O. P.

Rover Is Speaker at Rally Held at Cherrydale; 200 Attend.

The Republicans of Arlington County closed one of the most extensive campaigns ever waged with the seventh of a series of rallies in the auditorium of the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall, with more than 200 persons attending, last night.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney for the District of Columbia, the principal speaker, declared that President Hoover has greatly relieved unemployment by the Federal building program which he advocated and has been put into operation.

Among other speakers were Edgar Snyder, United States marshal for the District of Columbia; Miss Helen Cunningham, of Washington, and William Moseley Brown, of Arlington County.

U. S. RENEWS STAND FOR NEUTRAL RIGHTS

yesterday clarified the intention of the Secretary with regard to these specific points and clearly indicated that the United States reserves full liberty of action with regard to either or both of these principles of international law. The limitation inherent in the Secretary's remarks applied to the nation that would be adjudged the aggressor under the terms of the Pact of Paris. This nation would not be allowed to invoke the benefit of neutral nations as under the terms of the new international legal concept it was an outlaw beyond the pale of international intercourse.

The injection of the neutrality issue in the French disarmament thesis is regarded here as another avenue of approach to the security pact against which the United States has already definitely declared.

The revision of the doctrine of neutrality is so important to all nations concerned that no change in its provisions could be made by any one nation without the general concurrence of all.

Aggressor Ruled Against.

Under the terms of the Kellogg-Briand Pact, the role of the aggressor nation has become branded with infamy. Before this agreement was signed by 58 nations, the code of international law established certain precepts to be followed by all the nations in time of war. There were the belligerents' rights and the neutrals' rights. But the two nations at war were treated with scrupulous neutrality.

Any change in the law of neutrality would have to be carefully planned out and discussed to make it sufficient to cope with every case and all emergencies.

It is believed here that soon after the elections Secretary Stimson will make a corrolary statement to his foreign affairs speech which has excited such foreign comment and misinterpretation.

The forthcoming sessions of the disarmament commission will undoubtedly reveal other interpretations of the doctrine of neutrality and of the principle of maritime freedom.

Aims of U. S. Delegations.

The American delegation has been more interested in the practical advantages to be won from the conference than in the discussion of theoretical principles of international law.

The extent to which the United States will go in meeting the legitimate demand of the French delegation for a security understanding will probably be circumscribed in the terms of the same speech of the American Secretary of State. At that time it was announced that the United States considers the Kellogg-Briand agreement a moral obligation to consult with other nations in time of stress.

This was followed by the United States at the time of the Shanghai incident when the United States sent first the American consul general at Geneva, Prentiss Gilbert, to the league council's meetings, and secondly when American Ambassador Dawes was instructed to attend the final meeting of the council in Paris.

Depression College Fails To Attract Enough Cash

(Associated Press.)

The advisory board of the proposed "Depression College" at Port Royal, Va., announced yesterday it had recommended a postponement in the opening date. Early plans called for opening the college by next Monday, but the board announcement said only fifteen students able to pay $250 for a year's instruction were ready to join the college by that time. There was a "lack of enough students to assume financial and educational success," the announcement said.

The skeleton organization of the college is to be maintained, it was announced, "in the belief that if the depression continues an experiment of this sort will meet a real need."

"It is hoped," the announcement said, "that the college may open February 12, 1933."

Dr. A. C. C. Hill, jr., sponsor of the institution, commenting that he believed there is a need for such a college, said:

"Either the depression is more depressed than ever or among American youth the coonskin coat continues to take the place of the coonskin cap."

Hill's idea was to bring together unemployed teachers and students unable to meet the expense of attending other colleges. The faculty would have furnished its service without pay in consideration of quarters and board, while $250 was set as the fixed charge for students to cover all their exxpenses.

Manila, P. I. (Saturday), Nov. 5 (U. P.).—Tman Ibba, leader of revolting Moros on the Island of Sulu, was killed in a pitched battle with the Philippine constabulary today, headquarters here was advised.

The troops, led by Capt. Angeles, forced the Moros to flee from their recently established stronghold. Today's victory, it was believed, would end the revolt of the tribesmen.

Two of Ibba's lieutenants, named Saccam and Nahamud, were believed killed in the fighting. None of the constabulary was killed.

The plane sank. The pilot was rescued by the U. S. S. Broome, which was nearby. It was the third plane lost in night operations here in 48 hours.

2 Stills and Rum Seized As Agents Hold 2 Men

Two 300-gallon stills were seized and two men arrested early yesterday when Federal dry agents raided an illicit distillery near Mount Zion, Md. These arrested gave their names as Thomas Gross, of Tracys Landing, and Herbert L. Hayden, of Alexandria.

The agents reported that in addition to the stills they found 6,250 gallons of alleged mash, 10 cases of whisky in an automobile at the still and two cases near the place.

Tokyo May Urge Delay of Report

Japanese Envoy at Moscow Refuses to Discuss Lytton Findings.

Moscow, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Japan may press the League of Nations to postpone again consideration of the Lytton report, members of the delegation, which is carrying Japan's reply to the report to Geneva indicated here today.

The League Council set November 14 for the discussion, but members of the delegation said additional documents, now en route to Geneva by special courier, could not reach there by that date.

Yosuke Matsuoka, head of the delegation, conferred today with Maxim Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs, and his assistant, H. M. Karakhan. They held long talks both in the morning and afternoon and in the evening attended a reception at the Japanese Embassy. The Japanese envoy said his presence in Moscow was "merely a formal exchange of courtesy, without diplomatic significance. I am empowered to negotiate at Geneva, not here," he said.

Commons Debate Jobless Remedy

British Parliament Deeply Worried Over Growth of Unemployment.

London, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—United in their desire to do something for the country's unemployed, members of the House of Commons erased party lines and turned themselves into a sort of council of state today as they debated unemployment.

George Lansbury, veteran leader of the Labor party, who has opposed the government on many occasions, started the discussion. "I am a Socialist," he said, "and I want to organize it my way, but organize it your own way so long as you organize it some way."

He submitted a resolution to the effect that the House "views with concern the present volume of unemployment and will welcome all proper measures for dealing with it." Three days has been allotted to the debate. While the Parliament got down to work the "hunger marchers" prepared to go back home. Six hundred of them from Scotland and northern England are leaving tomorrow.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

San Francisco, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Because 6-year-old Maureen O'Connell can never weep again a superior court jury awarded her $5,000. The judgment was against Elden S. Gordon, driver of an automobile involved in an accident in which Maureen was injured, necessitating removal of her tear ducts.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Running aground in a 30-foot bank skiff containing 116 cases of choice liquors, four alleged rumrunners were captured by coast guardsmen in Brigantine Inlet at 5 a. m. today. They said they were George Callen, Straudsburg Terrace; John Williams, George Stevens, of Bivalve, and Andrew Anderson, of St. Augustine, Fla.

El Reno, Okla., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Ten tons of Oklahoma beef simmered over fire pits here today in preparation for tomorrow's largest rally of the Oklahoma Democratic campaign. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the principal speaker, will fly here from Little Rock.

Monroe, La., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—W. B. Spencer, jr., 23, said by officers to have been obsessed with a fear of losing his mind, today shot and killed his 60-year-old father and then himself, after firing their home near Collinston, near here. Police said the killings fulfilled a threat young Spencer had made publicly several months ago.

Monroe, Mich., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Donald Rich, member of the city fire department, was killed and three other firemen were injured, one critically, today when their truck crashed into a Michigan Central freight engine at a crossing here while responding to an alarm.

Democrats Plan Campaign Windup.

The Democrats of Arlington County bring to a close one of the most extensive campaigns ever waged in the county in the interest of the national and congressional ticket tonight with a mammoth parade to be followed by a rally in the auditorium of the Washington-Lee High School.

Scotch Book, Due Years, Back in Fineless Week

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4 (A.P.). Fineless week at the Cambridge public library today resulted in the return by John Mackintosh of a book, "The Story of Scotland," 38 years overdue.

Fines on the book, which originally cost the library 65 cents in 1890, would have amounted to $290 —the sum the borrower escaped paying by virtue of the cancellation offer. The book was returned by mail by an "old gentleman in Wilmington." Records showed he borrowed it in 1894.

TWO SLAIN IN BERLIN TRACTION WALKOUT

Trolleys and Buses Smashed as Police Halt Rioting of 15,000 Strikers.

Berlin, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Two men were killed and two women were critically wounded today in disorders arising from the transportation strike in which 15,000 men are participating.

The first death occurred early in the morning when police and strikers clashed at a car barn in Schoeneberg. Later police fired on a mob of strikers in the Schoeneberg district, killing one man and wounding two women.

The second victim was a Nazi storm trooper. His comrades appeared later at the spot where he had fallen, carrying their Swastika flag. Ceremoniously they dipped the flag in his blood, and carried it away.

All day long trolley cars and buses were kept running with great difficulty. About 3,000 men returned to work, but the strikers who stayed out pelted trolley cars and buses with rocks. Buses which ran the gantlet were damaged. About eight out of ten were wrecked.

This strike began without the authorization of the union over a pay cut of about ½ cent an hour. There was an unsuccessful attempt to arbitrate, and the operating company announced that men who failed to appear for duty after 2 p. m., today would be automatically discharged.

DRY ACT FACES TEST IN PRINCE GEORGES

Demurrers Are Filed in Two Possession Cases to Clear County Statute.

Demurrers questioning whether the Prince Georges County dry law prohibits the possession of liquor have been filed in two cases by Attorneys J. Wilson Ryon and Frank Hall.

The demurrers were filed yesterday in the cases of James Hammond, of Brentwood, and Ralph Sparks, who were indicted on possession counts by the fall grand jury. They will be argued before a full bench of the three judges on the Prince Georges County circuit. The indictments were brought under a liquor law which applies only to Prince Georges County, Maryland having no State-wide prohibition statute.

According to the attorneys, the law is very indefinite in its clauses relating to possession, although it specifically prohibits the sale, transportation or keeping of liquor for sale. They will argue that the possession indictments, to be valid, must show that the liquor was kept for sale, or was being transported when seized.

The law also will be attacked on its constitutionality, as the title of the act makes no mention of prohibiting ordinary possession of liquor. In one section, however, it bears "the transportation or possession" of more than a quart. Furthermore, according to the lawyers, search warrants for possession alone can not be issued by magistrates, by strict interpretation of the search warrant section.

If the demurrer is upheld it will have the effect of invalidating most of the other liquor indictments now pending. In addition, it will allow the possession of any amount of liquor except when it is kept for sale.

Man Wounded, Another Being Held in Fairfax

Floyd M. Good, 25, of Burke Station, Va., was taken to the Alexandria Hospital last night with a gunshot wound in his side, and Chester G. O'Loughlin, 31, of Walter Reed Hospital, was being held in the Fairfax County Jail in connection with the shooting.

According to Sheriff E. P. Kirby, who made the arrest, O'Loughlin went to the house where Good was staying near Clifton Station, called him to the door and shot him without warning. It is reported that bad feeling had existed between the men for some time.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., today announced his support of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President, "chiefly because of Mr. Hoover's attitude on prohibition."

Du Pont in a formal statement said he would support the candidacy of Gov. C. Douglass Buck, a Republican, for reelection. Two weeks ago Lammot du Pont, a brother and president of the Du Pont Co., announced himself in support of the Republican national ticket.

Davis Urges Aid Cash Spent On Materials Made in U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, has written to Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation board, asking whether the corporation could not insist that money loaned be spent only for materials of American manufacture.

"Since the adjournment of Congress," said Senator Davis, "I have traveled extensively through Pennsylvania and I find that both the manufacturers and the workingmen of the State are deeply concerned over the ultimate goal of the money authorized for expenditure under the (reconstruction) act.

"There is some apprehension that contractors who receive projects of a public or a semiliquidating character through the disbursements of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may take advantage of the deflated currency of foreign nations and purchase materials abroad.

"Recalling that throughout your public career you have been a sturdy defender of American institutions and American enterprise, I am moved to solicit your cooperation to bring about, so far as the provisions of the act permit, the employment of American labor by purchase of American materials."

Man Admits Running Still On Houseboat on Potomac

Edward Monroe, of Fort Washington, Md., yesterday pleaded guilty in Marlboro police court to charges that he operated a still on a houseboat in the Potomac River, moving the boat from time to time to escape the notice of police.

Monroe's guilty plea caused similar charges of manufacture and possession against Edward Green and Earl Johnson to be dismissed. The other two, arrested during the raid, also live at Fort Washington.

Monroe told Judge J. Chew Sheriff that he had been making whisky for five years, beginning when he was 16, and that he had made about 300 gallons in the last two weeks. Of this, he said, he had sold 75 gallons, leaving 225 gallons hidden on the Virginia shore of the river. He was fined $75 and committed to jail for 60 days in default of the fine.

Calvin C. Walkling, of Hughesville, was fined $50 for possession of 10 gallons of liquor he said he was taking home to age for Christmas. Lester Hawkins, of Chapel Hill, Md., was also fined $50 for possession of 6 cases found in his car on the Livingston road, and sentenced to 30 days in default of the fine.

Curtis Says Campaign Lie Pace Is Fast One

Emporia, Kans., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—As Vice President Charles Curtis views the situation, "it's too late in the campaign to write speeches more than an hour or so before they are given."

"They're telling so many lies that they have to be nailed," he explained as he left a train here today. The Vice President was en route to Winfield, Kans., to speak tonight.

TUMULTY SUGGESTS THAT HOOVER RESIGN

Cites Wilson's Plan to Quit in 1916 in Event of Defeat by Hughes.

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Joseph P. Tumulty, who was secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, today suggested President Hoover has it in his power, if defeated at the polls next Tuesday, to clear the way for immediate ascension to the Presidency of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, his Democratic opponent.

In a formal statement Tumulty said that in 1916, the War President, "in a spirit of magnanimity," decided on such action. Tumulty's statement follows:

"Mr. Hoover recently called attention to the chaos and uncertainty that will prevail between November of this year and March 4 of next should he not be reelected.

"I recall the memorable days of 1916 when, facing a similar situation, my devoted chief, Woodrow Wilson, in a spirit of magnanimity, considered and determined upon a course of action should the American electorate turn away from his policies and accept Republican leadership.

"At all events, he decided that by no selfish holding on to power should America's progress toward normal action be retarded or held in check. I recall distinctly his program.

"He decided gracefully to retire from the Presidency and to resign; and, with the resignation of the Vice President, he determined to select Mr. Hughes, the president-elect, (Charles Evans Hughes) as Secretary of State so that at once by Constitutional process, the new administration might begin to function under the leadership of Mr. Hughes.

"In like fashion, may I suggest that Mr. Hoover has it in his power, in case of his defeat, to make this fair exchange and, gracefully yielding, add to his prestige in the Nation by a generous act of sacrifice on his part.

"To relate this story is merely to point the moral to Mr. Hoover."

DEMOCRATS EVADING ISSUES, HOOVER SAYS

President interpolated to say "no one except a political machine."

As he went into great detail to tell of his own efforts together with officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and Federal Reserve officials to save the Dawes Bank in Chicago, the President departed from his text to say:

"Now I would not tire you with this information, but it is important that the country should understand it."

When he revealed to the crowd that he was talking about the Dawes Bank, the President said, "Now I want to point another moral."

Then he continued with his text saying the Democrats had made use of this incident in the campaign.

Speaking of loans to the bank, the President said they had been "largely repaid," and interpolated in his text to add, "and they will all be repaid."

Applause greeted his statement that "the misrepresentation of this episode for political purposes by Democratic politicians is a slander upon men of their own party as well as cruel injustice to Gen. Dawes."

The saving of the Dawes bank, he said, required instant decision, "bold and courageous action," and he added to his text, "a human heart."

When he said that the Reconstruction Corporation had intervened in 8,000 towns with a population of less than 25,000 under similar circumstances to save banks, the President again departed from his text to say "and thank God that day has gone by."

Despite his obvious hurry to finish, the President still had quite a little of his speech left when 9 o'clock arrived and Roosevelt was scheduled to take the air.

He was cut off the radio to permit his opponent to go on.

Hall Is Crowded.

Arriving in St. Louis long behind schedule, the President hurried to the Coliseum through a hard rain that he might deliver his speech within the time allotted to him on a Nation-wide radio chain.

President Hoover and his party arrived at the Coliseum shortly before 8 o'clock, twenty minutes after he was scheduled to begin his address.

The gigantic hall, with a standing and seating capacity of 11,000 was jammed from end to end and top to bottom.

President Hoover's entrance was a signal for an echoing ovation that lasted betwen five and ten minutes. Dr. E. B. Clements, national committeeman who was presiding, held up his hand repeatedly to still the demonstration, but without success for some time.

Earlier at Springfield, Ill., President Hoover harked back to the Civil War reelection of Abraham Lincoln and in the city holding the tomb of the Great Emancipator declared "The same alternatives are before the country today that lay before it in that momentous campaign of nearly three-quarters of a century ago."

Campaigning toward the West Coast through Indiana and Illinois before crowds estimated by Republican leaders to total more than 150,000 the Chief Executive delivered his first major address of the day at the Springfield Arsenal. Then he headed on toward St. Louis for his address tonight. Declaring in Springfield that in 1864 voters "declined emphatically to turn aside to untried policies and experimental leadership," the President asserted, that then as now the people's choice must "be made on November 8."

Says Fight Must Go On.

"The turn in the tide of the Civil War was made at Gettysburg. The turn in the tide in this crisis was made in the last winter, and just as after Gettysburg long months of continual battle were required to bring about the saving of the Union in the same manner we must continue the fight today to recover our prosperity and to preserve the social and political principles for which Abraham Lincoln stood."

Earlier in the day the Chief Executive briefly spoke before a dozen audiences.

At Gary, Ind., where a crowd estimated by Republican leaders at more than 30,000 overflowed the station and an adjoining park both the President and Mrs. Hoover were jostled and pushed about by a friendly crowd as they left their train.

At Peoria, Ill., the last major stop before Springfield, a throng estimated by police at well over 50,000, gave the President a riotous reception. Flags were waved and whistles blown. The crowd spread solidly over the railroad tracks on both sides of the train and in places reached up side streets for [illegible].

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN ADDRESS AT ST. LOUIS

Coliseum, St. Louis, Nov. 4 (A.P.). Following is the text of President Hoover's first Missouri campaign address:

From the Congressional elections in 1930 down to the present moment the strategy of the Democratic party has been an effort to implant in the unthinking mind through deliberate misrepresentation the colossal falsehood that the Republican party is responsible for this world-wide catastrophe. They then appeal to distress, hardship, and radicalism by nebular and inconsistent promises. These are the reasons they gave why the Republicans of the country should desert their party and why the Nation should abandon a constructive program with its accomplishment already demonstrated in overcoming the crisis. Theirs is not a campaign of issues; it is a campaign of avoidances, and I propose tonight to discuss the nature of their campaign, its false premises, its vague promises, its shifts of position; and I shall also touch upon their destructive actions which have delayed recovery.

Despite the fact that Democratic leaders announced after the Congressional elections two years ago that they would have a real program to end the depression, they produced no program, then or now, although the crisis at one time rose to a degree which endangered the Nation. Instead of a constructive program the Democratic leaders passed a number of bills through the Democratic House of Representatives designed to appeal to discontent and sectional cupidity and indeed of the type that would have destroyed the very foundations of our American system. Its threats to confidence set recovery backward. Their candidates have sought constantly to distort the facts as to the depression; they have sought to minimize the measures by which the administration saved the United States from a generation of chaos. They fail ever to mention the effect that these measures are having day by day in the steady recuperation of our economic life.

Depression Is Compared With One 50 Years Ago.

Their leaders have taken no patriotic satisfaction in the fact that a million men have returned to work since the malign influence of the Democratic House and their allies was removed by adjournment of Congress and the Republican measures and policies had an opportunity to work.

The whole campaign has many aspects parallel with a campaign which took place in a former depression, of which I will read you a short description from a journal published in Washington during that time. That journal said more than half a century ago:

"The circumstances on which the Democratic party base their hope of success in the present campaign is unquestionably the hardness of the times. Their expectation is that Republican voters will quit their party or at least remain at home on election day because they find themselves in straitened circumstances. Even the ravages of the grasshoppers, damages to the crops by drought in some sections and excessive moisture in others are to be traced by some mysterious process to the maladministration and extravagance of the Republican party."

Later on that journal reviews the discussion of expenditures of the Republican administration during that distant period of depression, pointing out that the House of Representatives was Democratic as it is at present. It stated that—"There had rarely been such ignorance joined with a stubbornness more mulish than that which characterized the action of some of the leaders of that body."

And that—

"Their economy was of the brilliant description which consists in saving at the spigot and losing at the bung."

They likewise today repeat their promises of economy in the face of the attempts of the Democratic House last winter to fasten $3,400,000,000 of added expenditures upon the Government. The country wisely supported the Republican party in that election and made rapid recovery.

Unceasing Appeal To Discontent Scored.

A circular placed in my hands since coming to this State, issued by the Democratic national committee, says this depression was man-made, and that the man who made it was myself personally. They express no gratitude that in my manufacture of this world crisis I have let this country off easier than Russia and western Europe and South America.

In this campaign of 1932, also despite overwhelming proof to the contrary but in order to make unceasing appeal to discontent, the present Democratic candidate and his corps of orators repeat down to the last 24 hours their unceasing statement that the Republicans are responsible for the depression and all that has happened in it.

In the earlier part of this campaign the Democratic candidate held up the horrors of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act and of the stock market boom as being the sole causes of this world catastrope. At Des Moines, Detroit and Indianapolis, I established the complete absurdity of his tariff bill argument and the governor has since, at Wheeling, Baltimore and Boston, uttered such confused changes in his tariff views that he can no longer consistently or conscientiously state that the tariff had anything to do with the world-wide catastrophe. If he will make his contradictory statements on the tariff consistent it will have the disastrous political effect of requiring the delection, so my statisticians tell me, of over 10,000 eloquent words from what he has said upon this subject. In order to continue the false premise on which the Democratic campaign continues to be based; that is, that the Republican party brought on the depression—he is now thrust back as his sole remaining explaination, to the boom of 1928. He urges now that if there had never been a boom there never would have been a slump, and if there never had been a slump in the United States there would never have been a depression in the world.

If by maintaining the prosperity of the country over a long term of years the people become so overconfident of the future and thus overoptimistic, the Republican party might be praised at least for the period of prosperity. The collapse of the boom brought about great losses, but I beg to submit that some of the greatest leaders among the boom promoters of that period belonged to the Democratic party, and the Democratic candidate himself assisted actually in promotions during that period which he now so warmly denounces. I do not criticize his acts. He was merely participating in the prevailing mood, like the former Democratic candidate who undertook the construction of the tallest building in the world at the same boom time.

Of more importance, the governor in his speeches conveys the impression that as President I should have stopped the boom. He does not describe the method by which I should have stopped it. Of course there is no constitutional nor statutory authority to Presidents to stop booms. If the President should have attempted to stop the boom one of the persons he would have needed to warn is the present Democratic candidate.

The only way I can see that a President could even tilt with a boom would be to turn himself personally into a blue sky law and go on the stump analyzing balance sheets and stock market prices and proving to the people that their investments were overvalued. I have little taste for this proposal that the White House should be turned into a stock printer's office. I earnestly object to the idea that such form of dictatorship should ever be set up over the American people even if they do get overoptimistic. Even the Democratic platform does not seem to accord with the governor, for it says: "We condemn the actions of high public officials designed to influence stock market prices."

This type of reasoning led the governor to propose in this city that the presidential influence shall be used in municipal finances. He said: "If necessary they must be compelled to walk in the way of municipal honesty and efficiency," and added: "this is what I propose to do toward the credit represented by the 17 billions of municipal bonds." It occurs to me we should need to revise our whole form of government and the Constitution in a dozen places if the President is to supervise mayors and municipalities.

Federal Blue Sky Law Is Vigorously Opposed.

The governor seems to have some idea of creating a Federal blue sky law to prevent booms and control the issue of all sorts of securities. The full constitutional authority for action of this kind rests, of course, in the State, and I am advised that this is not within the constitutional authority of the Federal Government. In any event, I doubt whether the people in any State in the Union would like to have another board in Washington, distant from their own close inspection and understanding, dealing out certificates as to issue of securities and thus controlling the industries of their States. In any event his plan would be centralization of Government beyond anything we have hitherto witnessed and does not seem to accord with the forgotten Democratic theory of State rights. All of this has been within the power of New York State, not only to protect its own citizens, but the citizens of other States, and the governor seems to have forgotten it until this campaign.

Many years ago the Democrat party undertook to remedy this whole question of booms and slumps by the creation of the Federal Reserve System. That was the new discovery of its founders and far from wanting the President to do this job they stipulated that this board should have these powers entirely independent of the President by making the board bipartisan.

It was indeed promised by Democrat leaders at the time the Federal Resreve System was created that they had found the solution to prevent booms, slumps and panics. I could quote from a multitude of speeches at the time of the passage of the act and further from the assurances given in political campaigns as to this enormous accomplishment of their party.

I find in speeches of President Wilson, Secretary McAdoo, Senator Carter Glass and other leaders of their party the recurrent idea that through the control of interest rates and other authorities the Federal Reserve System would prevent booms and consequently slumps and panics. A few of their expressions are of interest:

"We shall have no more financial panics."

"Panics are impossible."

"Business men can now proceed in perfect confidence that they will no longer put their property in peril."

"Now the business man may work out his destiny without living in terror of panic and hard times."

"Panics in the future are unthinkable."

"Never again can panic come to the American people."

The whole country went along for years with much confidence in these statements and, although no one can say with certainty, it is likely that this confidence contributed to the building up of the boom which led to the crash.

Federal Reserve Warned Speculators.

The governor will discover his errors in connection with responsibilities for this boom if he examine its relation to the Federal Reserve System. That system did loyally endeavor to restrain speculation. Many months before the collapse it issued warnings to the banks about loaning money for speculative purposes and gave these warnings to the public. It placed restrictions on rediscounts and they did force up the interest rate for speculative money to 15 and even to 20 per cent. But that did not stop the mania for speculation. I do not criticize the Federal system. I believe in it. All the point I make is that using its utmost powers it failed in the face of a great mass movement. Now the blame is to be transferred to the Republican party for having failed to do the job which they promised would be done by the panacea of their own institution.

I could go further with this argument of futility by pointing out that the leading Democrats did not discover the Republican responsibility of this depression until it reached a vote-getting state. Gov. Smith, two years ago, implied that neither he nor any man takes the position of placing the responsibility for the business depression on the President or the Republican party, and Gov. Roosevelt, before he was nominated, made a characteristically vague statement of the same character.

Gov. Roosevelt also, in a recent speech in defending his boom argument, said that when our boom collapsed all but 20 per cent of the people of the world were in a state of prosperity. If he will examine carefully a statement of the National Bureau of Economic Research, whose authority no one denies, he will find that the booms of the following nations had already collapsed:

Germany, Australia, Japan, Mexico, Turkey, Roumania, Bolivia, Brazil, India, Poland and Bulgaria, embracing 600,000,000 people, and that coincidentally eleven other nations had been affected by those collapsed—that is, the United States, the United Kingdom, Canada, Hungary, Italy, Argentina, South Africa, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Peru, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Spain—had begun to decline; if he will check up the portion of the world included in those nations, he will find he has been misinformed about 300 per cent.

As a matter of fact, if the Democratic candidate actually wants to put the true causes of this situation before the American people, he should withdraw all this multitude of conflicting, confusing, and misleading statements and disclose to the American people that the most tremendous fact in modern history was the Great War and its aftermath. It would be only fair to point out that the difficulties we are now struggling with even domestically in the United States consist to a large degree of the tremendous increase in public debt, the foreign war debts and liquidation of war inflation, the necessity to maintain a larger army and navy to protect ourselves in a greatly disturbed world. This war having come on during a Democratic administration, and they having spent the money, they should not have forgotten that the undertakings of that period are what create a multitude of the difficulties of this country today.

They ought frankly to recognize the problem with which the American people are faced. They should not be appealing to discontent on a basis that ignores their full participation in the real causes. If they wish to find solutions for the guidance of the American people through these times, they should not continue to ignore these great burdens imposed upon the United States nor the effect on the world, ourselves included, by the enormous blotting out of lives in foreign nations by the World War, the fabulous waste of their property, the fabulous increase of their debts, and the fabulous increase of armaments, and the continued friction and hate that have arisen among them out of harsh treaties.

The Democratic candidate should not continue to ignore the panics which overtook these nations when their citizens recognized the fact that all property and material wealth must be readjusted in values from war consequencies. He should not overlook the frantic attempts of these governments to reduce the expenditures of their people by reducing the import of goods; the scramble of their citizens to turn what property they could into gold; the ultimate results in dictatorships and upsets in governments. He should not continue to ignore the effect of these things upon the United States and the dangers which so accumulated that we became the last fortress of world economic stability, and at one moment we held even that by the narrowest of margins. He should recognize the effect of the stoppage of the import of goods by these governments, not out of tariff reprisals to the Hawley-Smoot bill, but out of their public necessity. He should recognize the effect upon our credit system of the foreign withdrawal of $2,400,000,000 of credits and gold from the United States.

Says Wave of Hoarding Aggravated Depression.

He should recognize the fears which these events produced in our own citizens causing them to draw out $1,600,000,000 and put it into hoarding; and he should cease to ignore the fact that we were faced with a crisis of such dimensions that unless strong action had been taken in the passage of a bill for which Democratic members of Congress voted, with the full knowledge of the facts, we could not have held the gold standard. And he should recognize that unless we had taken other strong and unprecedented measures we could not have prevented the collapse of our insurance companies, our banks, the foreclosures on millions of homes and farms, the strangulation of credit which would have brought about almost total unemployment. It is true the Democratic members voted for the measure giving increased authority to the Federal Reserve System, creating the Reconstruction Corporation, the support of mortgage banks, and if they did it without a knowledge of the facts of which they now appear to be so innocent, they are an easier group to persuade into legislation than I have hitherto believed. They now fail to admit that these measures which we have put into motion have begun to bring about stability and prosperity in the United States, of which there is one great word of proof. That is that since the adjournment of the Democratic House of Representatives last July, down to the present moment, over 1,000,000 men have gone back to their normal jobs. They are going back at the rate of 500,000 a month unless they are intercepted by a change in policies.

Now all of this statement that I have given to you has importance in four respects—first, because it proves the falsity of the foundation of their campaign; second, because it shows their utter confusion of mind, and either their insincerity or their utter lack of grasp of the forces loose in the world, and consequently the danger of placing men who have such a lack of penetration into the control of the Government of 120,000,000 American people; third, because the continuous broadcasting of misinformation, although it is daily of conflicting character as to where this calamity came from, indicates an irresponsibility which does not promise well for the Government of these same 120,000,000 people; fourth, because they should as a responsible political party cease to appeal to unthinking people for votes based upon their suffering by misleading them as to its causes.

Having again disposed of the futile misrepresentations and evasions of the origins of this depression and the false basis of their appeal, I shall now consider some of their other evasions which have developed in the campaign. The Democratic candidate, in his speech of acceptance, says he will leave no doubt or ambiguity as to where he stands on any question of moment now before the country.

Notwithstanding this disarming promise, the people are still unable to find the method by which he will execute his six-point program for farm relief. It is one of the great mysteries of this campaign. It is a certainty that there will be six doors of exit from this attractive house although he refuses to disclose the other specifications and the walls have not yet been built.

Asks Explanation Of Plans for Economy.

The people have yet to learn what he proposes to do in respect to the soldiers' bonus. He seems to think that a cash sum of $2,300,000,000 to be paid thirteen years hence is no different from cash, but he says he intends it should be paid when there is a surplus in the Treasury with which to pay it. That means a surplus of $2,300,000,000. I assure the veterans that so long as there is a Democratic Congress there will never be a surplus of $2,300,000,000.

The people deserve to know more of his promise to take $1,000,000,000 off the expenditures of Government, and before they can even start figuring on this question they must know whether he repudiates the Democratic proposals for $3,500,000,000 additional expenditures in the last session of Congress. Does he repudiate the pork barrel and other expenditure bills?

The people deserve to know why, even at this late date the Democratic candidate has not disavowed the bill passed by the Democratic House of Representatives to issue more than $2,000,000,000 of greenback currency, which bill, so far as Mr. Garner is concerned, remains upon the calendar as unfinished business of the Democratic House.

The people deserve to know why he has not yet stated his position on the proposal to put the Government into personal banking as provided in the bill passed by the last Congress under Mr. Garner's leadership, which I vetoed.

The people deserve to know his views on the rubber dollar provided for in legislation passed by the last House of Representatives.

The people deserve to know what all his phrases and reservations about the Hawley-Smoot protective tariff mean. He condemns it on every occasion. He gives 100 per cent support to the competitive tariff for revenue. He gives nebular implications at Wheeling, Baltimore and Boston that he will protect certain groups. Now the tariff is composed of different schedules. If he is sufficiently informed on the tariff law to debate its merits he must be sufficiently informed to say at once which schedules are too high. If he will do so we will at once have them examined by the Tariff Commission, as to the truth of his assertions, and we can give quick remedy. His only answer seems to be that we should do away with the Tariff Commission.

The people deserve to know whether, as he proposes to negotiate reciprocal tariffs, he will omit the agricultural commodities from these agreements.

The people deserve to know whether the Democratic State committee of Oklahoma has his authority for their promise to secure Federal legislation which will pour into that State $150,000,000 for liquidation of long-since repudiated Indian claims at the expense of the Federal taxpayer.

The American farmer deserves to know whether he is going to withdraw from the Shearon letter the proposal to vastly expand reclamation of land and thereby increase their surpluses despite his assurances that those surpluses must be reduced.

Stand of Roosevelt On Dole Plan Asked.

The people deserve to know whether he will support or repudiate Messrs. Wheeler, Norris, Huey Long, W. R. Hearst and others in their long continued efforts to put Government into large business undertakings.

The people deserve to know more details of the promise set out in the Shearon letter that the whole of the unemployed in the United States will be at once given a job by the Government.

Are the people to assume that he does, or does not, indorse the system of national doles advocated in Congress by his present supporter, Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin?

The people deserve to know whether he has accepted the proposal of his supporter, William R. Hearst, for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for nonproductive public works to be paid for out of the Treasury.

They deserve to know if he joins with the same William R. Hearst in his opposition to the disarmament conference now in progress. Does he join with Mr. Hearst in his opposition to the promotion of peace by the Kellogg pact?

The people ought to know if he still holds to his promsie to solve the foreign debt problem by permitting foreign nations to sell goods in this country with which to pay sums owed our Government. In other words, are we, by giving up part of our market at the expense of our own workmen and our farmers, to furnish our debtors with profits necessary to make payments to us?

He has been very emphatic on the provision of distress relief. That is also perfectly safe because the Government has provided for loans to the States in need of help to provide such relief.

The evasions and misleading character of the campaign of the Democratic party are not less evident in their program for dealing with the eighteenth amendment than in the other questions they have discussed. They know that their own Democratic strongholds in the South, if none other, will not accept the proposal for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment with the consequent return of the saloon, and its resultant lack of protection to dry States.

I stated in my acceptance speech what I believe is the only practical common ground with adequate protection on which this whole question can reach solution. That statement was the result of three years of intensive study and responsible experience with the problem, it was delivered to probably the largest audience of the radio and press ever gathered together in the United States. It is known to you. It is a matter of public record.

Our Democratic opponents are trying to make another false issue over supposed coercion of voters by employers. In the first place the ballot in the United States is secret, no one can coerce a voter. In the second place the interest of employer and employe is identical in securing business upon which they mutually live. The Republican employer has the same right to publicly express his opinion on the election as has the Democratic employer and the Democratic orator.

It is with sadness that I see attempts to mislead the people and avoid the real issues at an hour which demands a campaign of the most serious character.

I do not have time tonight to present the whole great constructive measures of the administration by which we defended the American people from acute danger of a generation of chaos from this world disaster. These measures are now placing us upon the road to recovery. They are vast and complicated. I think perhaps I can best illustrate the working of two only of them by short examples.

I would like to have you picture a group of gentlemen sitting in the boardroom of the Federal Reserve Bank in one of our important cities 1,000 miles from Washington. Another similar group is seated in the boardroom of another Federal Reserve Bank in a city some 200 miles from Washington. A group of advisers is seated with the President of the United States. Both of the city groups included governors of the Federal Reserve Banks, directors of the Reconstruction Corporation, together with the leading bankers and merchants of these two cities, embracing men of both political parties. It was Sunday afternoon and all had been summoned on a few moments notice to meet a grave emergency. These three groups were continuously in communication by long-distance telephone.

During the preceding week there had been a general run upon the banks in one of these important cities. All of the banks had felt the pressure of these unreasoning withdrawals. On Saturday morning the situation had become critical in the extreme. The financial districts were thronged with excited crowds of frightened and hysterical depositors. They filled the lobbies of the banks and stood in long queues upon the sidewalks. When the doors were closed for the day, there were still crowds demanding their deposits. Throughout Saturday evening and Sunday panic increased and began to spread like a contagion to the whole district.

The banks were under heavy pressure because of the frightened depositors and the inability of the banks in the midst of the crisis to make a quick sale of their long-term securities without such tremendous sacrifice as to imperil all of the depositors, or in turn to force the payment of notes of an army of borrowers without in turn forcing them to sell their homes, and business at half price. It was found that one of the banks in one of these great cities had been weakened more than the others by these panic-stricken depositors. Without assistance that bank would be unable to open on the following Monday morning. The failure of this bank to continue business would have added to the panic which threatened to bring down other banks in that city and spread in turn to other cities and involve many trust and insurance companies. The immediate problem was to provide before Monday morning a sufficient sum of money to quiet unreasoning fear and give absolute assurance that funds were available to pay every depositor in full without question.

Had Ample Securities If Times Were Normal.

In the course of inquiry into the condition of the bank it was found that they had ample securities, which in normal times could have paid out their depositors leaving a large margin. But the securities could not be instantly sold at any price, or at least at a price which would produce sufficient to pay all depositors and they could not collect instantly from the notes. In the inquiry into the condition of the bank it developed they had 122,000 depositors of whom 105,000 were savings depositors; that the average of the savings deposits was only $140 each; many of them working, women and children; that the safety of these depositors could not be separated from the other depositors of the bank.

It was found that there were 17,000 commercial depositors, most of whom were men and women engaged in small businesses, whose deposits represented the money necessary to meet their pay rolls, the purchasing to meet materials, and the discharge of obligations to others incurred in the course of business. Jeopardy to them meant that many thousands of men and women in factories and stores would be discharged into untold hardships.

But these were not all who were dependent upon the maintenance of this bank. It was found that among the 17,000 commercial deposits, 755 were country banks, the great majority of them in towns of less than 5,000 people. If this bank should fail many of these country banks must fail.

In the complex system of our economic life, things that on the surface seem unrelated are in fact under the surface inextricably tied together. A farmer in a small town in an agricultural State might feel no concern for the safety of this important bank in a great city. The widow with a small deposit in a small bank of a town of another State might know of no relationship between her bank and the city bank. But the farmer in one State and the widow in another, even though they did not know it, had a direct financial stake in the fate of this city bank. For the country banks must conduct business with the city banks in the ordinary conduct of trade and must carry their reserves with the city banks in order that they may draw interest upon them which they in turn pay to their depositors.

Millions of Depositors Involved in Concern.

Now, it was found on examination that these 755 depositing banks had 8,500,000 depositors scattered over fifteen States. But that is not all. There were 21,000 other banks scattered throughout the country, which had deposits in the 755 banks depositing with this particular city bank, and in these 21,000 banks were more than 20,000,000 depositors, and they involved widows, orphans, workers, insurance companies, manufacturers, and merchants.

And in addition to all this, there was the position of the borrowers from all this mass of banks. If this city bank should fail, there must be immediate demand for the payment of the money due from its borrowers. If any of the banks dependent upon it should fail, their borrowers in turn would be compelled to make immediate payment of money due and to realize upon their property at a time when property could not be turned into cash at anything like its real value. In this city bank and in the 755 banks who carried their reserve deposits in this city bank, there were 695,000 men and women and institutions owing money on their notes. They were scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land. They were on the farms, in the cities, the villages and hamlets. Most of all, these groups of people were unaware of their danger. They were in their homes and in their churches, concerned with their own affairs—but they were not being forgotten.

The men who had conducted this bank over great numbers of years were men of high esteem in the whole community. To their credit be it said that their chief concern was the preservation of these hundreds of thousands or millions of people from disaster. They were not asking aid for themselves.

The investigations and the conversations occupied many hours of continuous communication from these two cities to Washington and back again. Remember this was on Sunday when the normal processes of business were difficult to conduct. Countless difficulties were encountered and solutions worked out. They were working against time.

R. F. C. Loans to Bank Largely Repaid Already.

Finally, at three hours after Sunday midnight, the task was completed. The assets had been valued by the examiners of the Reconstruction Corporation. The banks of the two cities joined in lending assistance and the Reconstruction Corporation agreed to furnish a sufficient sum to assure that this bank could open without fear and meet every demand of its depositors.

At 10 o'clock on Monday all these banks opened for business as usual. Public announcement was made that ample funds were on hand to pay every depositor. As had been anticipated, immediately excitement and panic subsided and confidence was restored. The crowds melted away—deposits began to return. The situation was saved, not only in this bank, but in the other banks which had been subject to heavy withdrawals.

The loans offered by the cooperating banks and the Reconstruction Corporation were never fully called for and have since been largely repaid, and every danger in connection with that episode is now over.

The central human figure of that bank was a man who had served his country for 40 years in many high capacities, who in recent years had been absent from the country in a position of first importance to the American people.

That is the story of the Dawes bank in Chicago. You know the use our political opponents have made of this incident. They ignore the fact that Gen. Dawes resigned from the Reconstruction Corporation three weeks before, on his first news that attacks were being made on the bank with which his name had long been associated. He resigned to try to save that bank without calling on the Reconstruction Corporation, of which he had been a director.

He knew and appreciated the use that would be made in this campaign of such calumny. He sought to avoid it, and you should know that when that Sunday meeting started, Gen. Dawes stated that he could not bring himself to ask for assistance from the corporation in which he had so lately been a director, but it was upon the insistence of the two Democratic members of the Reconstruction board, sitting in the Federal Reserve Bank meeting in Chicago and, upon the insistence of the leading Democratic Banker of Chicago, who was then mentioned as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States, and upon the insistence in New York City of the leading Democratic banker and a leading Democratic manufacturer, also mentioned for the Presidency, upon insistence of the other Democratic members of the Reconstruction Corporation that this was no case of the personal feelings of Gen. Dawes or the effect upon my administration, that it was solely a case of national necessity, and those men, then and there jointly offered to take the full responsibility for the action.

Insults and Slander Charged to Democrats.

These men acted not because they were Democrats or Republicans but because they were loyal citizens of the United States. The situation demanded broad vision and comprehensive understanding of the problem, instant decision, bold and courageous action. Only by this was a major disaster averted, and I may tell you that not only were these loans adequately secured, but in the ordinary course of business they are being paid off.

The constant misrepresentation of this episode for political purposes by Democratic politicians is a slander upon men of their own party as well as a cruel injustice to Gen Dawes. It is a characteristic example of the character of this campaign. It is an insult to the American people to substitute this sort of political action for competent discussion of the grave issues which lie before our country.

And I may tell you that this is but one of six similar episodes in great financial centers in the United States, the direct result of the shocks and fears which we received from the collapse of foreign nations. But such action by our Government agencies has not been limited to great financial centers. In over 5,000 towns of populations under 25,000 the Reconstruction Corporation has had to intervene to save their banks under similar circumstances. Beyond that they have made loans to insurance companies with 15,000,000 policyholders, loans to 736 building and loan associations with over a million and a half members, loans to several hundred farm and home mortgage companies, agricultural credit associations, live stock credit corporations, all of them for the purpose of preventing the loss of hundreds of thousands of homes and farms and the destruction of their family life. The totals today aggregate millions of men and women who were not forgotten.

I may also remind you of one thing in respect to these loans. The law requires that they should be made on adequate security. The loans have been so made. Large amounts have been repaid. It is not a burden upon the taxpayer. But it is the salvation of millions of jobs to men and women.

I have gone into this matter at such length to illustrate to you by actual example what the operation of the Reconstruction Corporation has meant. This is an example of the meaning of my oft repeated phrase about the use by the Federal Government of the full power of its credit in time of great national emergency for the protection of millions of families.

Roosevelt's Criticism Of R. F. C. Answered.

The Democratic candidate for President has since the beginning of the campaign been going up and down the country criticizing the Reconstruction Corporation and maintaining that its actions have been for the benefit of large corporations and not for the benefit of the ordinary citizen.

Can he honestly believe that in the incident I have described to you and in the countless similar cases, the action was taken for the benefit of the bank and not for the depositors and borrowers. If he does not so believe, then I say in all solemnity that his action in fostering a spirit of discontent in a political campaign by the use of erroneous information merits just condemnation.

One of his first utterances to this effect was immediately challenged by a prominent citizen of his own State, a former superintendent of banks, who addressed a letter to him setting before them the real facts and requesting a retraction. Weeks have now elapsed and that request has been met only by silence upon the part of the candidate.

Now I wish to picture to you another episode in this supreme battle to protect the American people, the last fortress of stability in the world, but at the same time to extend a helping arm of assistance to another great nation.

In the latter part of May a year ago Ambassador Sackett made an emergency journey from Berlin to see me to present to me the desperate situation of the German people. His evidence showed that under the burden of unbearable debts and the cost of war, that great nation was rapidly disintegrating and the people desperately discouraged. They had made a courageous effort to meet these obligations, but their discharge was inexorably undermining their whole economic and social structure. In desperation those who had fought manfully to comply with the obligations imposed upon them had lost all heart for the future and were steadily coming to the conclusion that nothing short of a revolution such as that which had taken place in Russia offered them any hope of deliverance.

Moved by the Ambassador's picture of what was happening to the common run of men and women in that country, I took up that problem, not alone from the interest of this great mass of humanity but knowing that if that nation should fall, the reactions upon the rest of the world and the United States would be irreparable. President Von Hindenburg knowing of Mr. Sackett's visit sent me an appeal of a character between heads of nations without precedent in diplomatic history. That appeal was, for preservation of a great people, that I should use the good offices and prestige of the United States for their rescue.

In order to give a year in which the world, particularly European nations, could come to a comprehension of what this disintegration was doing to civilization itself, I proposed the postponement of all international debts of one year.

This was not easy to accomplish. The bitterness of war hates and nationalism, still rampant in Europe, made its acceptance doubtful. In order to make sure that it would be accepted in our country I interviewed the leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties, and upon display to them of what was transpiring, secured their approval in sufficient number to assure that we could complete the measure on our side. I then resolved upon a bold course. I published the proposal within 24 hours after communications to the other countries in order that politicians of the world might not thwart it through processes of diplomacy.

Used Transatlantic Phones for Moratorium.

Immediately after this act, for the first time in the history of the world, I made personal, hourly use of the newly installed transatlantic telephone and talked with our ambassadors in the presence of the leaders of the nations. I received wholehearted and immediate response from Signor Mussolini, of Italy; the same sympathetic response from the prime minister of England. Furthermore, the governments of Belgium and Poland, which you might think would have retained more bitterness from the war than any other nations, responded instantly.

The arrangements were not easy, as existing contracts were complicated in their relationship between many nations and it involved unequal sacrifices. Day after day, night after night, I was in communication first with one ambassador and then another, proposing methods to meet difficulties which arose, building up adjustments amongst different nations, until finally that year of postponement was secured.

And it was not merely a postponement of a year in the payments on debts for which I was seeking. I was seeking for a year in which Europe could solemnly consider the situation into which she was drifting. I was seeking to remove from the mind of the world the fears of debacle in civilization which were breaking down all security of credit and to bring to their attention the healing powers of international cooperation.

Prevented Tragedy To Whole of Civilization.

You yourselves are familiar with the history of the year which followed. I know that the proposal of the moratorium diverted the entire current of thought and changed the history of what otherwise would have been a tragedy to the whole of civilization. It brought to new understanding the realization of the burdens under which Germany had been laboring.

Under the impulses of these agreements and the recognition at least of the peril in which they stood, there came out of this agreement a great measure of redemption to the German people, a sense of greater security to the world from the agreements at Lausanne.

That agreement and the humane sympathies which were evoked by that new understanding of the post-war difficulties in the world has served greatly in the healing of the wounds of the great war.

There lie in many events of the last three years great dramas, great tragedies. I have told of but two of them. But overriding all these incidents, the world has witnessed the courage of men and the willingness to place their fate and their political future at stake for the world's progress. No man can go through these episodes without belief that there is a great regeneration in the courage, confidence and intelligence of men for the guidance of this world back toward stability and common interest in the development of human welfare.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR MISS PIERCE: I never had a facial and am thinking of getting one. Do you think it is good for the skin? Also, I never creamed my face because I always thought, by putting the cream on my face, it makes deep pores, and dirt is liable to get into the skin and cause blackheads. NORMA.

Dear Norma: I know of nothing finer than a facial, both for its effect on the skin and the luxuriously restful feeling it gives one. It is an excellent way to get the complexion off to a good start, particularly after a strenuous summer. Then do follow up with proper home care. Don't hesitate to use creams, choosing the type suited to your own skin's needs. If you follow the use of cleansing cream with patting with tonic, the treatment, far from enlarging the pores, will leave them refined and the texture of the skin smooth and lovely.

Dear Miss Pierce: Do you think I am knock-kneed? I have tried every way that I can think of to reduce my knees, but to no avail. JOAN.

Dear Joan: The simple exercise of rising on toes and then squatting by deeply, bending the knees is a very good knee exercise. Do it ten times each day. You might also try patting the knees with a camphor and alcohol solution. Shave two 1-ounce cakes of camphor and add to a quart of rubbing alcohol. Allow the mixture to stand for a day in a tightly sealed jar. Then use a little of the lotion on a pad of cotton and pat over the knees once a day. The present length skirts cover the knees, so why worry. Don't wear fancy shoes or hose, because that will call attention to your legs, which it is best not to do. I hope these hints will help you.

Dear Miss Pierce: I read somewhere of a preparation for perspiring hands containing tannic acid. Can you give me the recipe? THIRTEEN.

One ounce glycerin, 2 ounces toilet alcohol, 3 ounces rose water and 2 drams tannic acid. Have the druggist mix for you. Apply at bed time and again before going outdoors in the morning. And build up your entire system by exercise, proper diet and rest.

Christian Science Churches

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from John iii:6: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light: And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them." (Ephesians v, 8-11.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man was not created from a material basis, nor bidden to obey material laws which Spirit never made; his province is in spiritual statutes, in the higher law of Mind." (Page 307.)

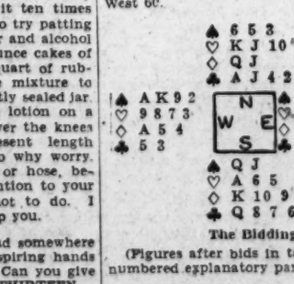
STEALING A GAME.

IT is the occasional making of games when there is no game in the cards, or the occasional defeating of game contracts of the opponents when there is game in the cards for them, that makes good players come out ahead over a given period of time. It is true that merely sitting back and never making a mistake will make one a winner in the long run, but if one can combine the ability to pursue an errorless path and occasionally indulge in some mild form of highway robbery, the plus scores will begin to mount up.

The victim of the robbery on the hand below was one of the leading experts of the game. It was perpetrated in a most unusual manner.

North—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable. East and West 60.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1NT (1)	Pass
3NT (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A semi-psychic notrump bid, made in order to start defending against the opponents' part-score, early in the bidding.

2—A justifiable bid. North can not tell that his partner has not a sound bid. Naturally, South can do nothing but try to make the best of it.

The Opening lead by West was the heart 3. Declarer playing the Ten from Dummy, and East playing small, which might have been the proper play. Declarer now took stock of the situation and saw that he must knock out the Ace of diamonds and manufacture an additional trick besides before the opponents realized their strength—all this, of course, assuming that 4 heart tricks would be made. He decided his best tactics would be to give the opponents a chance to play into his hands.

To forestall a spade lead, following the theory that the best defense is a strong attack, he played a small spade from the Dummy, the Queen from his hand, and West took the trick with his King.

The Declarer now hoped for a club or diamond return from West. However his hopes, seemingly, were short-lived, when West, after a moment's hesitation, returned a low spade. When the spade Knave took the trick, Declarer was rather stunned, but thankful. He now gave the opponents their Ace of diamonds, and after they had cashed 2 spade tricks he was able to take the rest, fulfilling the contract of three notrump.

The Queen of hearts dropped under the Ace, but even though it were twice guarded, Declarer could have made all the tricks, as, by cashing his Ace of clubs, which play is a form of the Vienna Coup, he would have East squeezed on the last rounds of diamonds. The amusing feature of this hand was that Declarer led spades because he feared the suit and wanted to be able to pick up a trick in another suit—and wonder of wonders, the ninth trick was given to him in the spade suit itself.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this day are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Influences operating on this November 5 would seem to indicate the occurrence of an event of no apparent importance, one that might pass almost unheeded This incidental happening may be of almost any nature, but its influences may be great in your life, and its development may operate either for or against you. Chance acquaintances should be avoided. Ulterior motives will prompt people in their actions on this day.

The child born on this November 5 will early show artistic talents that should be encouraged. Sketching, painting and reading will occupy much of its play periods. The child will enjoy music and should be taught to play some instrument. A nervous disposition and occasional fits of temper will be outgrown.

If November 5 is the date of your birth you are fortunately the possessor of a sunny disposition. Your responsibilities such as they are, you take lightly; worry is unknown to you. You are not an active person mentally or physically and your tendency is to allow yourself to drift along life's currents without doing much of your own paddling. Roused to a point of activity, you would succeed in no small degree in one of the arts. You would do well in the newspaper field or in any work where writing played an important part. You are a natural born story teller and mimic.

As a parent you are not always a great success. You are quite apt to be over-indulgent and not sufficiently interested in the child's development to properly discipline it. Yours is a policy of laissez-faire and hoping for the best.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

Might Cause Trouble.

Miss D. G. writes: I read in your column that streptococcus is one of the causes of arthritis. I have been laid up with a very bad streptococcus infection in my arm and leg for the last three months. This has left both very weak. I am 20 years old. Will this infection leave me with arthritis?

REPLY.

It might; or with heart disease.

Train for Poise.

P. A. L. writes: What are the causes of hot flashes? My face burns and gets terribly red. I am 23 years old. Is there a cure for it?

REPLY.

In your case the cause is self-consciousness, timidity, blushing. The only cure is training in poise.

It Is Harmless.

C. F. A. writes: Is there danger from the use of the juice pressed from walnut hulls?

REPLY.

None.

Not Inheritable.

J. J. O'D. writes: I have a friend whose parents died from anemia. Her brother has it now, but she doesn't know if she has it or not. If she marries and has children, will it pass on to them? In other words, is anemia hereditary?

REPLY.

There are several kinds of anemia. While they vary in seriousness, none is inheritable.

CATHEDRAL HOURS OF SERVICE CHANGED

Bishop Freeman Tomorrow Will Preach to I. O. O. F. Delegation.

Important changes in the regular order of daily services in Washington Cathedral effective tomorrow were announced yesterday at Mount St. Alban in behalf of the bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman. On Sundays, henceforth, morning prayer, Holy Communion and sermon will be held in the great choir, beginning at 10:30 o'clock instead of 11 o'clock, when the celebration of the Holy Communion alone has been held in previous years. The reading of morning prayer in the Bethlehem Chapel in the crypt of the cathedral at 10 o'clock will be omitted.

Evensong will be held in the great choir at 4 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, instead of in one of the crypt chapels. Members of the cathedral boy choir will sing, and an offering will be taken for the poor and unemployed and those in need in the District of Columbia. On Monday and Saturday, evensong will be held in one of the crypt chapels without music. There will be no change in the daily celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 o'clock in one of the crypt chapels, or in the people's evensong service on Sunday, which is held at 4 o'clock in the great choir and broadcast over radio Station WMAL. The cathedral choir of men and boys, under the direction of Edgar Priest, will render music at the 10:30 a. m. and 4 p. m. services on Sunday.

The preachers at the cathedral tomorrow will be the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor, at the service of morning prayer and Holy Communion at 10:30 o'clock, and Bishop Freeman at the evensong service at 4 o'clock. A large delegation representing the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in the District of Columbia will be present to hear Bishop Freeman's sermon.

Immediately following the services in the great choir tomorrow, there will be pilgrimages through the cathedral and the crypt chapels for the benefit of out-of-town visitors or residents of Washington who wish to participate. Those interested in the pilgrimages are requested to assemble in the Chapel of St. John in the south choir aisle at 12 noon and 5 p. m.

THE PROTEST VOTE.

In this period of depression a candidate is not without honor save in his own State. Every voter of average intelligence realizes that his congressman, the governor of his State and the President could not be responsible for a depression that has enveloped the entire world. Yet the average voter is disgruntled because of the depression, and millions of votes will register that disaffection against any candidate who happens to be holding office.

Straw votes indicate an unusual criss-crossing of party lines for this reason. Both candidates for the Presidency are weak in their home States, so far as this unofficial balloting is concerned. Moreover, the largest number of Democrats who have signified their intention of voting against Gov. Roosevelt are in New York. The largest number of Republicans who have gone over to the Democratic ticket are in California, the home State of President Hoover.

In New York, it seems, resentment against President Hoover is offset by resentment against Mr. Roosevelt as governor. The depression has reacted against State as well as national officials. The Federal Government had to raise taxes to meet a huge deficit; so did New York State. The Government still is confronted with a deficit in spite of President Hoover's efforts to balance the budget. But in proportion to its resources New York State has a much larger prospective deficit than the national Government.

Many of the ills for which the Democrats blame President Hoover could have been effectively handled by State legislation in New York. People of that State realize that their governor has not been able to prevent depression. Gov. Roosevelt suffers in his own State by reason of the fact that he has been governor during the depression, just as Mr. Hoover suffers throughout the country because he has been in the White House during these economic calamities.

Taking the country as a whole it has been evident for many months that Gov. Roosevelt would be the beneficiary of a tremendous protest vote. Millions who pay no attention to the status of the budget, who do not understand the arguments over tariff protection, who do not know whether governmental economies have been effected, and who have no conception of the gold standard or whether it was necessary to preserve it, will register simple dissatisfaction with conditions as they are. This invariably happens in a democracy. The great mass of people may not know what policies they wish to see inaugurated. Consequently, they vote for stability when they are prosperous, and for a change when difficulties arise.

Prospects are that thousands of faithful, experienced and competent officials will succumb to this tide of disaffection on Tuesday. But the will of the people must prevail. If mistakes are made, time will emphasize errors of judgment, and the tide of resentment will turn against those who ride its crest now.

GERMANY'S ELECTION.

The German reputation for practical efficiency does not appear to extend to the electoral system. The Reich is now preparing to go to the polls on Nov. 6 for the fifth time this year to elect new members of the Reichstag, and it is evident in advance that the result will only be another deadlock which will result in the indefinite continuation of the Von Papen-Schleicher rule. Political observers generally agree that there is no hope for Hitler increasing his legislative following, and that the only parties to gain will be the Nationalists and Communists.

Chances that alignments will be sufficiently altered to assure a combination strong enough to be entrusted with authority by President von Hindenburg are considered negligible. The Nazis are making an active campaign, Hitler flying from one meeting to another in his big plane, but he is unable to fire audiences with the same enthusiasm as formerly. His meetings, to which an admission fee is charged as a means of raising campaign funds, are not so well attended as in July.

It is forecast that when the new Reichstag meets the relative strength of the various parties will not be materially changed and as a whole will be overwhelmingly opposed to the regime of Chancellor von Papen. The dissolution of the Reichstag last month was caused by the attempt to overthrow the government by seeking the annulment of the emergency decrees. Since the legislature can not be dissolved twice in succession for the same reason, it appears likely that the chancellor will force the issue on the question of constitutional reforms, which would be equally unacceptable to the Reichstag. The indications are, therefore, that the next session will be but a repetition of last month's procedure, with the result that the cabinet of Chancellor von Papen will continue its domination under the authority of the powerful presidential emergency decrees.

BUSINESS PROGRESS.

Any one engaged in commercial or industrial work can sense the improvement in general business conditions, but it is reassuring to have specific figures from authoritative sources. Based on the average of 1923-25 as 100, the Federal Reserve Board reports that the volume of industrial production, including mining, increased during September, as indicated by the index, from 60 to 66. This is the greatest monthly increase to be recorded since the Reserve Board's survey was inaugurated in 1919.

The first report from the Central Banking and Industrial Committee, formed as a result of the meeting here with President Hoover in August, shows that an immense amount of active work has been done throughout the nation by business and industrial leaders to stimulate activity and employment. The Committee on Credits under Owen D. Young, is cooperating with particular interests in facilitating credit requirements for small businesses.

In the field of industrial rehabilitation Chairman A. W. Robertson of Pittsburgh has perfected organization in every Reserve district and reports substantial progress in the extension of capital expenditures by industries. Walter C. Teagle, at the head of the share-the-work program, has inaugurated a national campaign among employers of labor with a view to creating more work by spreading employment. Another general drive has been undertaken, not merely a circularizing campaign, but one of personal contact, to urge replacement of obsolete industrial equipment.

The latest report of the National Industrial Conference Board shows that of twenty-five major industries reviewed all but six record an improvement in employment in September over August. The lines less favorably affected were automobiles, electrical manufacturing, iron and steel, rubber and two branches of foundries and machine shops. An increase in weekly earnings is indicated in all but four industries.

CHILE'S NEW PRESIDENT.

President-elect Arturo Alessandri has held the executive chair in Chile before. He was elected for a somewhat stormy period in office twelve years ago. His plans to modify the parliamentary system were not very successful, but he has always held to the principle of presidential responsibility which twice caused him to present his resignation when he felt that he had lost the confidence of the congress or the country. He comes to office now in a most trying period that will test his powers of diplomacy and executive ability.

Chile has had five governments in five months, beginning with the seizure of power by Carlos Davila in an attempt to establish a Socialist republic. Neither his brief regime nor those that followed have been radical enough for the Communists nor sufficiently conservative to satisfy the propertied interests. Chile has suffered severely in the world economic crisis. Low prices for nitrate and copper have reduced industrial and national incomes and created much unemployment. The demands of radicals for government relief measures have been quite beyond official compliance.

One of the first problems to face the new regime will be that of official control of foreign exchange, which has been in force since last July. Control of all officially offered and available exchange was undertaken with the idea of reserving most of the available supply for those dealing in prime necessities. With the exclusion of so many lines from international trade the exchange supply dwindled, and instead of sustainting the peso, as was hoped, its value steadily declined. Finance Minister Julio Perez Canto openly opposes the official control of exchange, and the Central Bank has joined in agreeing that a change must be made.

One encouraging feature of Alessandri's accession to office is the public recommendation from Col. Marmaduke Grove that all Chileans accept the result of the election. He ran second in the presidential contest, though he was in exile under a decree of a former brief dictator. Chile has difficult economic and financial problems to solve, but all well-wishers will hope that the new president will be given time and opportunity to work them out.

TAX REFUNDS.

On several occasions during the present campaign the charge has been made that wealthy individuals who contribute to the war chest of the party in power are granted tax refunds from the Treasury to reward them for their generosity.

Every citizen acquainted with the tax system realizes the falsity of these charges, but millions of citizens who are not so well informed may be misled into believing that the Treasury officials are corrupt and dishonest. Any thought of political favoritism in making tax refunds should be discounted by the list of Democrats who have received such refunds. That list is headed by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is a director of several firms that have been granted tax refunds. It includes also John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for President, and Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, of New York, now running for the governorship of that State.

Refunds go to Republicans and Democrats alike when they have been overcharged by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The Government requires taxpayers to pay the amount assessed against them by the Bureau of Internal Revenue regardless of whether or not there is a controversy as to the amount due. After payment has been made the controversy is settled. If investigators find that taxpayers have been overcharged, the case undergoes the most thorough scrutiny before any rebate is finally allowed. In most cases the controversy between the Treasury and the taxpayer is carried to the Board of Tax Appeals and perhaps to the courts for adjudication. When the courts decide in favor of the taxpayer, there is nothing else to do but to make a refund. All of the larger refunds are submitted to a nonpartisan congressional committee for further scrutiny.

There is only one alternative to this system. That would be to collect no taxes in case of dispute. Under such a scheme large sums of money would be tied up, and delay and controversy would be encouraged. Prompt payment of the amount which the Treasury calculates to be due is the only practical method of taxation. Simple justice requires that refunds be made, when competent bodies find that the collection was larger than that allowed by the law.

CHESTNUT BLIGHT ENDS.

Science was unable to stop the ravages of the chestnut blight which swept from the Atlantic States millions of splendid trees. The insidious fungus growth which got under the bark of forest patriarchs and the pride of city lots alike spread death and destruction throughout New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and parts of Maryland. It was a severe loss, as the whitening skeletons amid the green foliage of many summer woods still testify.

Now nature has provided her own remedy for the trouble, or the blight has run its course, for it is announced that the chestnut tree is on the way back. New growth, apparently proof against the blight, is appearing throughout the afflicted regions, and another generation may again enjoy the fall crop and industry be provided with valuable timber. Colonial settlers of America used chestnut almost exclusively for their building and household needs. The tree grew everywhere. It made durable lumber and was easily worked, with the result that it not only went into the construction of buildings and fences, but furniture of all kinds.

By some curious good fortune the chestnut blight did not extend to the more southerly districts known as the Appalachian forest area. Here hundreds of thousands of trees continue to flourish, providing both nuts and timber. Hundreds of millions of feet of chestnut lumber are marketed by numerous sawmills throughout this section. The younger generation in the east do not realize what a treasure they lost in "the spreading chestnut tree," or how many uses it served besides shading the village smithy. It is good news that future generations are to make the acquaintance of this friend of their forefathers.

FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY.

Strict enforcement of the rules relating to the speed of automobiles passing street car stops is ordered by Maj. Brown, Superintendent of Police. Motorists who speed up when overtaking street cars that are slowing down for a stop, others who crowd upon street cars without allowing passengers room to get in or out, and still others who rush the lights are to be overhauled and punished. Police Judge Given is helping to stamp out the violations of signal light rules by imposing increasingly heavy penalties upon offenders.

The restraining hand of the law must hold back excited motorists who violate traffic rules and thereby endanger human life. Emergency rules take care of all life-and-death cases in which traffic rules are suspended. No other errands are so important as to warrant placing any human life in jeopardy. The police and the courts can hold down traffic fatalities by apprehending offenders and making their punishment exemplary.

Now that the cupola controversy is over local groups are finding the national election quite interesting.

YANKEE INVENTORS

From the New York Sun.

To the rest of the world the United States is the land of inventors. Not every American can invent, just as many Australians can not throw the boomerang; but the reputation of Yankee ingenuity remains unimpaired. In 1931, as recent reports from the Patent Office indicate, 47,799 patents and designs were granted to American citizens in the United States; this is one for every 2,596 persons.

For both 1930 and 1931 Connecticut led in the number of patents granted per capita of population, a fact which caused a New England periodical to wax jubilant and to refer to the famed resourcefulness of the citizens of the Land of Steady Habits. In 1931 Connecticut made a record of 1,454 patents and designs, or one to every 1,105 American citizens residing in the State. New Jersey was second with one to every 1,234; Illinois third with one to every 1,496; New York fourth, with one to every 1,507, and California fifth, with one for every 1,571 persons.

Commissioner Thomas E. Robertson, of the Patent Office, points out that when totals of patents and designs are considered, these figures line the States up in a very different order. On this basis citizens of New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and California received 25,586 patents and designs, or more than half of the total number granted. New York led with 8,355, Illinois was second with 5,100, Pennsylvania third with 4,357, Ohio fourth with 4,160, and California fifth with 3,614.

The majority of the patents are, naturally, granted to residents in the industrial centers. The apparent exception is the relatively large number of designs or patents granted to the citizens of California. This is attributed to the variety of California's industrial life, and to the fact that many persons in one way or another associated with industrial and technical work spend a large part of their time in that State.

Lady Nancy Astor certainly is different. Most Americans arrive from Europe with the last word on American politics.

In connection with a radio campaign some of the "sound" planks occasionally become confused with the static.

Gen. Sandino has also established an autonomous government in Nicaragua, so named, doubtless, because it can be quickly loaded in an auto if Marines approach.

If you were a candidate what kind of an American mentality would you appeal to at this stage of the game as not having been able to make up its mind yet?

We trust there will be no tendency to misinterpret or give an oracular twist to Owen Young's statement: "I am supporting Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Garner without qualification."

French Deputy Bergery said: "No one in the world thinks any longer that international debts will be paid." He was whistled down, but there is some question as to whether this meant opposition to the fact or its disclosure.

This country is not without some who regret that the London jobless marchers did not establish a precedent by breaking in and making the king and Parliament sign on the dotted line.

Senator Howell promises prompt investigation of the "attempt of large corporations to intimidate voters." This will at least be a variation from his persistent howl for agricultural nostrums.

There is prospect of one 100 per cent increase this year of which Washington can not be proud. That is in traffic fatalities.

The Hitlerites and Communists have stopped shooting each other long enough to join forces in fomenting the Berlin transit strike.

Speaker Garner is due to speak on the election next Tuesday morning. He will say: "Give me a ballot."

Japan and China are in a new contest—to see which can make a treaty first with Russia. The winner loses.

If 1,000,000 men have gone back to work since July is that an idle argument for the administration? Yes and no. PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

INDIFFERENCE.

"It isn't much of a world," said he,
And just that very minute
Came a flood of golden melody
From a joy-enraptured linnet.

"It isn't much of a world," said he,
And as he stood reviling
The earth and all it seems to be
There passed us people smiling.

"It isn't much of a world," said he,
And his feet were trampling over
The falling leaves of a maple tree
And the miracle of clover.

And a common daisy seemed to say:
"I've never ceased to wonder
At the sky above me day by day
And the warm, rich brown soil under."

And a garter snake went slithering by Half timidly, half gladly,
As if it lived to give the lie
To men who talked so sadly.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE: Today I received a pathetic letter from a girl who loved unwisely, and for your guidance in the years to come I wish to say to you the things I said to her.

As no two people in the world are alike, so no two are capable of the same degree of affection.

No matter how happily married a man and woman may be, one loves more than the other. And as a rule the one who loves more is to some extent imposed upon and slighted and neglected.

The man who feels too sure of his wife's love seldom exerts himself to please her, and the woman who feels too sure of her husband's love seldom respects his wishes or tries to win his approval.

When young people fall in love, one of them invariably suffers the same handicap. Usually it is the girl.

You read about young men who are madly in love with a cold-hearted beauty who is unmoved by their pleadings, but such cases are rare.

It still remains true that "love is of man's life a thing apart, 'tis woman's whole existence." And though the boy usually is the first to fall in love and make advances, the girl loves more when her love awakens. Nature gives your sex the greater capacity for love—doubtless because you need more to endure the things in store for you.

If the girl is the one who loves more, she needs the wisdom of the serpent. Her love breaks down her defenses, and she must at any cost conceal it. If she reveals the truth she is lost.

That shouldn't be true, but it is. When a youth discovers that a girl is "a fool about him," his respect for her is cut in half. It isn't in human nature to prize a thing too easily got or to value a coveted thing so highly after it is won. If he is sure of her, he isn't quite so sure that he wants her.

Then comes the tragedy. Since she has lost value, he no longer feels the same obligation to protect her. Keeping her chaste and pure doesn't seem so important. He begins to impose on her love—and the more she gives in her frenzy to keep him the less he cares for her. No man harms a woman until his love for her is dying.

It may be modern to be frank, but the girl who wears her heart on her sleeve is a simpleton.

The one way to keep a man is to keep him guessing. Love,

DAD.

PRO AND CON

"Truly Representative Conventions."
Topeka Capital.

In his joint debate with Gov. Ritchie on prohibition repeal, Henry Allen at Chicago stated the prospects of defeat of Democratic repeal as follows:

"Thirteen States can nullify it. Two hundred and ten State senators in thirteen States can set aside the entire work of national House, Senate and President so as to absolutely block repeal."

These 210 members of State Senates in thirteen States are but seventeen for each State. Senator Allen's theory is that since both houses must ratify the repeal amendment, this number of senators can defeat it.

Congress, however, will have much to say in the submission of an amendment to the States, and may not frame the resolution to place the authority upon the State legislatures.

Wet or Dry?
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Not only the coming congressional election, but referendums on the same date to be held in a number of States, will provide a test of sentiment on the modification and repeal of prohibition. The voters of Connecticut, Louisiana and Wyoming will express their opinion regarding repeal. Those of California, Arizona, Colorado, Michigan, New Jersey, North Dakota, Louisiana, Oregon and Washington will decide whether or not to retain their State enforcement acts.

By Way of Comparison.
Dayton News.

A recent Republican advertisement compared Hoover with Lindbergh, indicating that the Republican leaders are likewise pretty much up in the air.

A Short Cut to Higher Prices.
Kansas City Times.

The possibility of some short cut to bring depressed prices back to their old level is much before the public. Two measures, the Strong bill and the Goldsborough bill, directed to this end were before Congress at the last session. They required the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Reserve Banks to raise wholesale commodity prices to the level existing before the present deflation.

In the hearings before the House on these bills several economists, including Prof. Cassel, of Sweden, and Prof. John R. Commons, of the University of Wisconsin, spoke in favor of them, but the overwhelming economic and banking opinion was against them. Every one agreed that the purposes of the bills were desirable, but most opinion was that the object could not be accomplished in the manner proposed.

Knowledge Isn't Necessary.
Kansas City Times.

Taking note of international problems of vast moment, Senator Borah, of Idaho, remarks that "the man who says the depression was brought on by the present administration doesn't know what he is talking about." But the talk is expected to serve a political purpose, and, that being the case, it is not considered important that it should have any actual basis in fact; that, unfortunately, being the nature of far too much political talk.

Hectic Stage.
Buffalo Courier-Express.

According to the political thermometer presidential campaign days are finally setting new records for heat.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Suggests That Men Relieved of Supporting Their Wives Should Receive Smaller Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While the invention of so many labor-saving devices and the employment of so many women may not be the underlying causes of the depression, nevertheless they are certainly factors in prolonging it. However, both the labor-saving device and the economic independence of women are here to stay. We can not stem the tide of progress.

Why do not our leaders recognize this, and try to map out an intelligent plan to meet this situation? A more equitable distribution of the work could be brought about in various ways.

Since the men, in increasing numbers, are no longer financially responsible for their wives, why should they be permitted to draw wages and salaries often out of all proportion to the character of the work they perform? This matter of the men drawing big wages and salaries was right and just when their wives and families were dependent on them, but it is certainly not justified now. Therefore, let our great industrial, social and economic leaders get together and instead of letting the work, the wages and the salaries be monopolized by the few, strive to equalize all three, and thereby provide opportunity for every one, married and single. INTERESTED.

Mr. Hatch, of Laurel, Former Democrat, Tells Why He Will Vote for Hoover.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was a Democrat until four years ago; now it seems that the label "Republican" is being placed upon me through the force of prevailing conditions.

I have considered the merits of the candidates and have read and heard all their speeches. After careful consideration, I am supporting President Hoover for reelection.

I believe in a protective tariff. I favor restricted immigration. I favor "millions for the war disabled, and not one cent for political pensions." President Hoover's position is thoroughly known. Gov. Roosevelt's is doubtful, dependent, apparently, on the condition of the Treasury.

I favor a sound currency based on the gold standard.

I am unalterably opposed to the radical policies and methods of Senator Long and Senator Wheeler, who, in the past, have called themselves Democrats, and of Senators La Follette, Brookhart and Norris, who have called themselves Republicans. To my mind they are neither Democrats nor Republicans, but Socialists. They are now all in the Democratic party which is rapidly becoming the Radical party, with Socialistic tendencies. For all these reasons I shall vote for Hoover. EVERARD E. HATCH.

Laurel, Md.

Bootleggers Operated Before Prohibition, and Would Break Law After Repeal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why do we imagine that bootleggers would suddenly become obedient to Federal law if the eighteenth amendment should be rescinded? It is a vain supposition.

If the eighteenth amendment should be voted out of the Constitution the saloon, even though under some more euphonistic name, would come in with Government regulations, and that ought to mean that all drinkers and sellers of intoxicating liquors would confine their business with liquor to the use of this saloon But would they? Have they ever done so?

My father was collector of internal revenue of a certain State 50 or 60 years ago, with deputies and gaugers under him. They had other duties than collecting Uncle Sam's revenues; they had to make "raids," to find illicit distilleries, break them up, capture and arrest the lawbreakers, and turn them over for punishment. Federal units of soldiers were often taken with them. If the eighteenth amendment were repealed we would see that Uncle Sam would stay in the same business as formerly and now keeping prohibition officers at work to enforce a constituted law. L. H. McD.

Chattanooga, Tenn.

Thinks Gov. Roosevelt Should Declare Himself on Recognition of Red Soviet.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gov. Roosevelt's attitude as to the recognition of Russia shows he is not content to follow the precedent set by Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, and he iterates daily his fondness for breaking precedents.

Strange it is that to date only one patriotic organization and one lone priest has objected to his evasive attitude. Not a cardinal, bishop or minister of any denomination has voiced objection to such a policy of evasion. The efforts of Russia to do away with all religions should arouse every Christian or religious man or woman to a determination to keep the United States free as possible from all such propaganda.

Citizen Expresses Regret That Pay of Police and Fire Departments Is Reduced.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The distress of our country has caused many people to suffer from reduction of wages, but I regret that the Police Department and the Fire Department of our city have suffered from these discouraging reductions. Since the police and firemen are the guardians of the people and property of this city, I am sorry that they have had to suffer from this ill-wind. Imagine the condition our city would be in if deprived of the protection given all of us by these two departments of the city government. It makes one shudder even to think of such a condition. These two departments are our protectors and should not be trifled with.

LABOR SURVEY SEES RECENT TRADE GAIN

Business Upturn Ascribed to Thrifty Having Worn Out Their Old Clothes.

(Associated Press.)

The American Federation of Labor's monthly survey last night said that "business has gained this fall for the first time since the spring of 1931."

This upturn, the statement continued, was felt particularly in the textiles, shoes, clothing, foods and printing industries, "indicating that persons who have been at work and who have saved every penny have at last been forced to replace worn-out goods."

The survey said the revival was of a little more than seasonal proportions, "but was checked in mid-October and business did not go forward into a marked upward trend."

"We can not expect large gains in business while buying power is at so low a level," said the statement.

In September, the federation asserted, 560,000 workers found at least temporary employment, but 10,900,000 were still unemployed.

"This gain has little significance as relief for the unemployed unless the usual winter layoffs can be prevented," the review said. "For the last three years from 1,000,000 to 1,600,000 have been laid off from October to January.

"Many of the problems which check our recovery are world-wide and must be solved by international action. The world economic conference is scheduled to discuss them next year and already the United States has sent experts to prepare basic data, but unless our representatives are backed by intelligent opinion at home they can not make decisions which will contribute to recovery."

The statement said jobs must be created, basic wage rates raised and work hours shortened.

District Grocery Stores Plan Show

Novel Features to Attend Exhibit in Auditorium Beginning Nov. 9.

The annual Food Show of the District Grocery Stores will take place this year from November 9 to 19, inclusive, it was announced yesterday by Isaac Jacobson, president of District Grocery Stores, and will present many features and novelties to make it the most interesting event in the history of the organization.

More than $2,000 worth of prizes, including an automobile, dishwashing machine, electric hall clock, electric refrigerator, gas refrigerator, china and sterling silver sets, a gas range and a cabinet radio, will be awarded in various novel contests, according to L. Kotz, advertising manageer.

More than 50 exhibitors will be represented in the show, and samples of the many food products on display will be distributed to the audience. In addition, there will be unique entertainment features presented each night of the exhibition. The event will take place at the Washington Auditorium and will be under the direct supervision of Isaac Jacobson, president; S. A. Golden, treasurer, and Lewis Dennison, manager.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday authorized relief loans totaling $6,557,000 to Pennsylvania, Indiana, Virginia, Washington and New Hampshire.

In so doing, however, the directors informed Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania that his State itself must do more to relieve suffering than it has, if he expects the corporation freely to vote further Federal assistance. Pennsylvania was granted $5,462,265 for use in 63 counties during November. It previously had received $5,842,183 for October.

Marion County, Ind., in which Indianapolis is located, was loaned $250,000 to help it until November 30. This loan was asked, the announcement said, because a bond issue, authorized by the State Legislature, is in litigation and can not be sold until passed upon by the courts.

First New Hampshire Loan.

New Hampshire received its first Federal relief assistance yesterday in the form of a loan of $667,420 to the governor. The money is to last until January 1.

The Governor of Washington received $105,000 for Snohomish County and the Chief Executive of Virginia, $72,423 for Augusta and Carroll Counties and the City of Lynchburg.

The corporation announcement regarding Pennsylvania continued the controversy between the directors and Gov. Pinchot over the way money is to be allocated to Pennsylvania. Pinchot has asserted the belief that the $300,000,000 fund set aside by Congress for destitution relief should be allocated to the States in accordance with their population.

Gov. Pinchot's Stand.

Immediately after the bill was passed the Keystone State executive applied for $45,000,000, the full amount the corporation may lend any one State. He came to Washington personally and presented his arguments direct to the board.

The board has adopted the policy of granting Federal funds only as a supplement to local funds. It requires information as to what has been done and the exact needs in various counties of the State. Pinchot claims the only requirement of the law is that the governor of the State certify the need.

Pastor of Epiphany To Preach on Prayer

At the Church of the Epiphany tomorrow morning the rector will continue his series of sermons on "Prayer," the special theme at the 11 o'clock service being "Prayer, the Door of Entrance Into the Fuller Life." This theme will deal not only with the problem of suffering, but also with the emancipation from sorrow and the enrichment of our understanding of the doctrine of the communion of saints.

The services tomorrow will be holy communion at 8 a. m., church school at 9:30, holy communion and sermon by the rector at 11, Young People's Society at 6:30, and at the evening service at 8 o'clock the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Wills, who will have for his theme "The Prevailing Church." The public is cordially invited to these services.

Seattle Man Appointed To Fishery Commission

(Associated Press.)

The State Department announced the appointment yesterday of Edward W. Allen, of Seattle, as one of the two American members of the International Fisheries Commission of the United States and Canada. Allen succeeds Miller Freeman, who has resigned.

The International Fisheries Commission was established by treaty for the preservation of the halibut fisheries of the north Pacific Ocean and the Bering Sea. It also has two Canadian members.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

White-faced, attractive, flowerlike—not a movie heroine nor a debutante—but that member of the lowly cabbage family known as the cauliflower is highly popular among foods this week. One prolific source of these flowery vegetables is New Jersey, so the Meanderer was told by a dealer in a market in the southwest section of Washington. Fifteen cents buys a sizable head of cauliflower at his stand. And probably, while he sells the vegetable, this service-conscious dealer will tell the customer how the clear whiteness and the well-packed flowerets of the head denote its quality. Deduce, then, that the yellowish, loosely-filled-out head of cauliflower is not the best purchase.

"'Kounoupidi' is what we call them in Greece," the merchant, now an established Washingtonian, volunteered as he wrapped the cauliflower he had sold the Meanderer. And to promote accuracy in this little corner of The Post, he obligingly wrote out "kounoupidi" in the Meanderer's notebook. "But we wouldn't sell such little kounoupidi over there," he said. "Ours are big—all grow big—eight, ten inch across—big as those pumpkins." Of course, that was Spartan cauliflower, and what chance have mere New Jersey cauliflowers to compete with it?

Another food-wise market man contributed the information that the cauliflower is an international vegetable, and in France goes by the name "biancafleur." And while we are still in the realm of cabbages, one aged German dealer offered the German name "rosenkohl" for Brussels sprouts, another member of the cabbage family. Small wonder that noble music has come from Germany, when so humble a vegetable is given so euphonic a label.

Two ways of serving cauliflower are recommended by the vegetable merchant who has had so much to do with this commodity since his boyhood days in Sparta. He suggests putting the cauliflower into the roaster with a leg of lamb, after the meat has been partially cooked. Then "the lamb will take the cauliflower taste," he said. Cooking the vegetable until it is tender and then seasoning it with olive oil, salt, pepper, lemon and other desired condiments, was his second suggestion. He would have none of the typically American combination of a cream sauce or a cheese sauce with his cauliflower.

"Those tiny onions are delicious in string bean salad," was one discriminating shopper's comment on some bottles of pearl onions that the Meanderer found in a department store's offering of especially nice foods. The "tiny onions" are only 25 cents for a bottle of the same size that is priced higher in other food places. Guava jelly, Dundee marmalade, brandy hard sauce, and a Swedish cocoa were some of the other tempting things for shoppers in this big store.

All very well to hear it said that fruits come from Italy, but when the Meanderer saw the boxes which had held the candied fruits used in one well-known pastry shop it was time to believe and to realize the impressiveness of the fact. Sturdy wooden boxes labeled "Livorno," "Toscanna," brought to Washington all the fruits—and there are many—that are going into the fruit cakes now under construction for Thanksgiving and Christmas in the shop. Domestic glace fruits may sometimes have a crystallized surface but Italian candied fruit has a satin-smooth surface which is escepially desifable when the fruits are to be used in cookery. The Italian fruits that go into the shop's holiday cakes include citron, orange, lemon, raisins, pineapple, dates, figs and cherries. Then, of course, plenty of nuts are used, especially almonds. Honey, too, is an ingredient. And sherry wine! The most exacting fancier of wine-flavored cakes will be satisfied with the amount of the vintage in these cakes.

Another type of box comes to Washington from California filled with fruity sweets. It is sold in a Washington department store as a "Book of Sweets," because the box resembles a book. Another assortment of candied fruits is contained in an oblong glass dish that is useful after the contents have been eaten.

The Meanderer can tell those who want to know where they can buy good mushrooms for 30 cents a pound. Just call The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 52.

A gift which might interest even the child who "has everything" is suggested by the clever Mother Goose cookie collection, attractively boxed, in a fancy food shop in the heart of downtown. Likewise a milk chocolate way of pleasing children sold in the form of pirates, pieces of eight, soldiers, animals, &c.

Crispy, wafer-thin, rolled creations for use on the table of the hostess who has originality are indeed interesting as featured by one up-to-date department store. There are abbreviated little rolled wafers into which caviar, anchovies or other appetite teasers may be stuffed. Long, slightly sweet wafers of the same kind are intended for ice cream or whipped cream fillings, while cheese-flavored sticks are sufficient in themselves or may also have toothsome stuffing such as olive or egg or additional cheese mixtures. These ultra-thin wafers are perhaps the novel discovery of the week for the Meanderer.

Cucumbers from Florida, of high grade and selling at only 5 cents each; tomatoes of a lingering, home-grown variety that are still good, at 5 cents a pound or 6 pounds for 25 cents; Florida tomatoes at 10 cents a pound; turnips that are the best shown for years, in one market man's opinion; honeydew melons, 25 cents up, and cranberries at 2 pounds for 25 cents are among the fresh foods with appeal and low price in one local stand in the southwest section of town.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Filling for Cream Puffs.

1 cup cream or rich milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons sugar
2 egg yolks
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Heat the cream or milk in the upper part of a double boiler. Mix the cornstarch, salt and sugar, and pour over them the heated cream or milk. Return to the double boiler, stir until thickened, then cover and cook for 10 or 15 minutes. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and cook for a minute longer. Beat well, add the vanilla and butter. When cool place the custard mixture in the puffs.

Peach or Apple Dumplings.

Roll the pastry in a thin sheet and cut it in rounds. Place a whole peeled peach or cored apple in the center of each round of pastry. Do not remove the stone of the peach—is seems to give the dumpling an extra good flavor. Sprinkle sugar over the fruit, dot with butter, and bring the edges of the pastry together over the peach or apple. Bake in muffin pans, in a moderate oven. If the oven is too hot, the crust will brown before the fruit is cooked through. Serve hot with hard sauce or liquid sauce.

Apple Turnovers.

Cut apples in slices. Place on one-half a round of pastry. Season with butter, cinnamon, and sugar. Dampen one edge of the pastry and bring the other edge over it. Press the two edges together firmly, about half an inch deep, with a fork, so the juice will not ooze out. Prick the top crust so the steam can escape, and bake in a hot oven.

Green Tomato Pie.

4 or 5 medium-sized green tomatoes
½ lemon, sliced very thin
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter

Slice the tomatoes. Heat slowly in a saucepan with the sugar, lemon, salt and spice, until the tomatoes are tender. Add a little water if the tomatoes are not juicy. Melt the butter and combine with the cornstarch. Add this to the tomato mixture and cook until the cornstarch does not taste raw. Line a pie tin with pastry and bake this crust in a moderately hot oven until a delicate color appears. Put the tomato filling in this baked crust; moisten the edge, and press the upper crust firmly over the edge of the baked lower crust. Bake about 12 minutes in a hot oven, or until the upper crust is brown.

Rhubarb Pie.

1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon water
2½ tablespoons flour
3 slices orange

Line a pie pan with pastry dough and bake in a hot oven until delicately browned. Meanwhile cook the rhubarb, sugar, salt and water together until the rhubarb is tender. Remove 3 or 4 tablespoons of the juice, and when it is cool mix with the flour. Cut the orange into small sections and add to the rhubarb. Pour into the bake crust, moisten the rim, lay the top crust in place, and tuck in the edges carefully so that the juice will not leak out. Bake the pie in a hot oven (about 450 degrees F.) for 20 minutes.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

"He-Man" Sandwiches.

I have some friends who think there's nothing that surpasses a sandwich of raw chopped beef, sliced onions, and plenty of ketchup. I like it myself. But there's many a man who likes raw-beef sandwiches who never gets a chance to eat them. You know, the ladies—bless their hearts—don't always take to raw beef.

Here's another good combination. It's more civilized but it's still an excellent sandwich:

Put a thick slice of corned beef on a piece of bread. Cover with shredded cabbage which has been well-seasoned with ketchup. Cover with another slice of bread—and there you are.

Most men like corned beef; it seems to be a male instinct!

Cheese Spread.

One cup of grated American cheese and one-fourth cup of ketchup. Spread between slices of buttered bread—whole wheat or white bread.

Chopped olives may be added to this mixture.

"Western" Sandwich.

Fry some chopped onion in a skillet and add some chopped ham to the onion. Then break an egg in the skillet and scramble everything together—the onion, the ham, the egg. Spread on a slice of bread, cover with ketchup and add the top slice of bread.

Bacon Spread.

Mix together chopped cooked bacon, some ketchup and some peanut butter—until you get a mixture of good spreading consistency. Use on thin slices of whole wheat toast or on slices of rye bread for sandwiches.

Peanut Celery Sandwich.

Chop celery fine, add it to peanut butter or ground peanuts, and a little cream or milk. Spread this mixture between slices of whole-wheat or Graham bread.

Eggs and Celery Sandwich.

Chop hard-cooked eggs up fine and season them with salt and pepper. Add half as much finely shopped celery and enough mayonnaise to make the mixture easy to spread.

Beans and Chili Sauce Sandwich.

Use about 2 tablespoons of chili sauce to ½ cup of baked beans, mash the mixture till it is smooth, and spread on brown bread, or Graham bread.

Ground Peanut Butter.

Put shelled roasted peanuts through a food chopper, using the medium fine knife. Do not use the nut knife, because it grinds the peanuts too fine. Mix the ground nuts with just enough cream to moisten and make the mixture suitable to spread. Add salt to taste. Spread this mixture on Graham or whole-wheat bread.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LETTER FOUND AFTER A CURIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

My Dear Wife:

When you find this I will have gone out of your life. Do not attempt to locate me. It is all for the best.

* * * *

Your first thought, I presume, will be that I am in some great money difficulty or mixed up with another woman or something, but set your mind at peace. Nothing of the kind has happened. I love you as much as ever and no woman has come between us. All my financial affairs are as satisfactory as could be expected. Nothing is wrong at the office. My health is okay.

Something has happened, however, that drives me to the conclusion that it is best for me to leave you at once. It will be better for both of us. For me to remain with you longer would mean bitter disagreement, endless arguments, many cruel remarks and long and trying hours for both.

The thing to which I refer has come like a bolt from the blue. Twenty-four hours before it descended upon me I had no thought of its coming to pass. Our little home seemed reasonably comfortable and happy. You and I have had our differences and our squabbles, but in the broader view they seemed trifling. Somehow or other I looked forward to years of companionship with you and to a continuance of the comforts of an average home.

* * * *

But now all is ended. I am going away. My dream of domestic contentment has been blighted. It is perfectly clear that the coming year with you would be full of misery for us both. There would be no end of criticism and disagreement and conflict. Very likely we should come to blows. It is certain that we should make spectacles of ourselves and greatly embarrass our dearest friends and neighbors. The more I think it all out the darker the prospect.

* * * *

You may feel sorry at first, but after a few weeks you will realize that what I have done is the only way out for both. Do not try to locate me. Consider me as one dead. And very shortly you will find that tranquillity and happiness that would be impossible had I stuck it out. Farewell, my sweet. And forgive me.

Your devoted husband

P. S.—I forgot to say what it was that convinced me that life together would be impossible. It's those new contract bridge rules.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY.

Jack Spratt on bridge stood pat,
His wife learned new rules all,
And so the bridge game ended with

WOULD YOU CALL IT A RACKET?

SKEPTICAL Steve says that the decision to change all those contract bridge rules will certainly be a great thing for the experts who write the "How to Play Bridge" books, inasmuch as it will make useless the ones now held by the public.

Under the new bridge rules a player gets 1,500 points for a grand slam when not vulnerable and 2,250 if vulnerable. But the change comes too late to help either political party.

Whenever you hear a man rant about his long years devoted to the public service you are pretty sure to be looking at a fellow who would have had to scratch hard to make a living outside of politics.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ANOTHER presidential campaign double-header is set for tonight. This time Gov. Roosevelt gets the break in being heard first. His address from Madison Square Garden begins at 9 o'clock.

At the conclusion of his speech, around 10:30 o'clock, President Hoover will speak from St. Paul, remaining on the air until about midnight.

Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, Democrat, however, will stage a curtain-raiser ahead of both presidential candidates (WJSV, 7:45 p. m.).

The Harvard-Army game will be broadcast this afternoon by WRC at 1:45 o'clock. St. Mary's-Fordham will be heard through WJSV at the same time.

The Catholic University-Lake Forest scrimmage will be broadcast over WOL at 2:15 o'clock.

NOTE to Messrs. Bellows and Gammons, Station WCCO, Minneapolis:

"WCCO is now heard so clearly in Washington that I expect to listen to President Hoover's address direct from WCCO tonight instead of over the chains. Let me know the next time you broadcast Eugene Ormandy and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, and remember me to my old Swedish friends up there.

"Louis W. Hill and Jefferson Jones."

As the political pot reaches the boiling point don't forget to tune in on "The Postilion" at 10 p. m., WMAL, for early-morning Washington Post news.

FRANCES GUTELIUS, concert pianist, will play a recital over WMAL at 8:45 o'clock tonight. Her program will feature "Intermezzo in C Major" (Brahms), "Toccata" (Saint-Saens), "Mazurka in D Flat" (Chopin) and "Flight of the Bumble-Bee" (Rimsky-Korsakoff).

A curious hodge-podge was caused last night when a campaign speech by Dr. J. R. Brinkley, from Station XER, across the Mexican border, and a musical program from CKAC, Montreal, interfered. Dr. Brinkley, who is running for Governor of Kansas and whose station there was closed down by the Radio Commission, spoke from Topeka and his talk was relayed to Mexico by wire.

Dr. Brinkley has a way of talking about himself in the third person, as if he were eulogizing some one else, and then suddenly switching to first person. He has a deep, sonorous voice, but that didn't get him anywhere against the staccato of the French singing and the voice of the French announcer which came booming in from Montreal as Doc Brinkley would fade out.

Altogether it was an amusing performance and one which will doubtless be repeated, as Brinkley will probably be on every night until the election is over. The stations are on a frequency of 730 kilocycles, 410 meters, at about No. 58 on our dial.

HERB GORDON and members of his New Yorkers radio orchestra, now playing nightly at the Madrillon, celebrated their return to Washington with quite a party for the newspaper people last night.

Arthur B. Reeve, creator of Craig Kennedy, the scientific detective, will join the G. E. Circle over WRC with a series of Saturday talks on "The Ten Best Mystery Stories," beginning tonight at 6:45 o'clock.

A special National Achievement Day program, in which 4-H Clubs throughout the United States will participate through their local stations, will be presented during the National Farm and Home Hour over WRC this afternoon at 12:30 o'clock.

The musical portion of the program will feature the United States Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson conducting.

THE Funnyboners, appearing at Loew's Fox Theater this week, will broadcast from WJSV at 6 o'clock tonight.

It is estimated by the National Electric Light Association that each receiving set provides revenue of $6 a year in electric energy consumed, allowing for additional lighting on account of longer-hour burning.

Moonshine and Honeysuckle, serial drama of the Southern mountains, heard every Sunday over WRC, will appear in book form. Lulu Vollmer, the author, is gathering the stories of Clem Betts and his hillbilly friends in a novel soon to be published.

LANNY ROSS, radio tenor, has just completed a two-reel version of the Broadway musical show, "Spring Is Here." He plays the role taken by Glenn Hunter in the stage presentation.

Rivers Delivers Speech At Hoover-Curtis Club

Visiting the headquarters of the Hoover-Curtis Club, Thirteenth and P street northwest, Francis E. Rivers, Eastern director of Republican clubs, yesterday delivered a brief address to officers and members of the local Hoover-Curtis Club.

He emphasized the principles of the Republican party, and commended the work of the club, particularly in connection with absentee voters in the District.

POLITICAL CLAIMS FOR LABOR SCORED

Engineers' Group Official Says That Leaders Do Not Speak for Rank and File.

Authority of certain labor leaders to speak for or obligate the rank and file of labor was challenged in a formal statement last night by G. W. Laughlin, Washington representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

In a statement issued through the Republican national committee, Laughlin declared:

"Listening to the radio speech made by Daniel Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Organization, last evening, one would think that he was speaking for the labor men of the United States.

"Mr. Tobin was not speaking for labor and has no authority to speak for organized labor of America. He is chief of the labor division of the Democratic national committee and spoke purely in the interest of election of Mr. Roosevelt."

With regard to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Laughlin said "he has no authority to speak for, nor to obligate, railroad labor men. His attitude toward the President * * * and the Secretary of Labor is his individual opinion."

Officials of International Building Trades Organizations, in a letter to Secretary Doak yesterday, said:

"We have no hesitancy in saying that your term of office has been indicative of every intent to further the interests of organized labor and these intents have been most particularly demonstrated."

The letter was in reply to a statement by Whitney that the Labor Secretary "was not free to serve the interests of labor."

Whitney, in a statement issued last night through the National Progressive League, declared "Mr. Hoover's 'share the work' scheme for cutting wages is Communism in its worst form."

The President's plan, said Whitney, seeks "to enforce the communistic principle of equal division upon those who have the least to divide, to the exclusion of those who have wealth and income from wealth."

COLUMBIA

"THOSE WE LOVE." World Wide picturization of the play by Abbott and Lauren, adapted to the screen by F. Hugh Herbert, featuring Mary Astor, Kenneth MacKenna, Lilyan Tashman, Hale Hamilton and Tommy Conlon. Directed by Robert Florey. Reviewed Friday night by J. F. Brady.

That the eternal triangle, which here again forms the basis of a screen story, has lost none of its power to hold interest is demonstrated in "Those We Love." There is sufficient punch, heart interest, pathos and drama in this subject to strike home a powerful lesson.

Mary Astor and Kenneth MacKenna carry the burden of the story and offer excellent portrayals of their respective characters as lovers, happy bride and bridegroom, mother and father. Then came the trials precipitated by the intrusion of the other woman. Miss Astor, calm, beautiful and refreshing, is a lovable character in this picture, and Mr. MacKenna, a model husband, until, torn by the temporary loss of his wife and the beguiling influences of Valeria, the other woman, played by Lilyan Tashman, he succumbs.

Tommy Conlon, as Rickey, the beloved son of the happy couple, gives a fine performance.

"Those We Love" is one of the few pictures of this type which really puts over its lesson. It is impressively given. The high dramatic points in the story are well met, although one may question why a husband should want to cry when he is told he is to be a father—unless the tears be for joy.

Here is a story which should show to the unsuspecting husband how dangerous it is to allow a lady to encroach too far upon his hospitality when his wife is not at home, and also teach a wife that she should always allow a husband, left alone for some weeks, to explain any suspicious circumstances which present themselves.

The action certainly gets off to a glorious start by bringing back to the screen some wonderful views of Armistice Day—highly appropriate at this time. This particular day is the one on which our Fred (MacKenna) has his first novel, "Those We Love," placed on sale; and it is the day on which he meets "his public," the girl May (Miss Astor), the buyer of his first copy. Later these two are married and she, to help build the future fortune, teaches music while Fred continues to increase his number of novels. Then comes their first-born, Rickey. Some twelve years later love is still going strong, but then comes a temporary separation of the family, the boy to camp, the wife to another city to continue work on a music publication, and the husband to do his writing at home. Then comes the other woman.

It must be said that Lilyan Tashman, as the other woman, Valeria, does her best to wreck the love of Fred and May. And Miss Tashman's best, you may recall, is plenty good!

Supporting the feature picture are a number of interesting films, including Paramount News; a good comedy, "Sunkist Beauties," and an excellent travelogue on the "Amazon River."

Trip to Paris Awaits Some Reader of Post

Sharpen your pencils and get busy!

You readers of The Post who have always had a longing to write a movie ending of your own, see what you can do in twenty words with "One Way Passage," now playing at Warner Brothers' Earle Theater.

To the reader of The Post who submits the most logical twenty-word interpretation of the ending of "One Way Passage," in which Kay Francis and William Powell are playing the title roles, a trip to France, with a stop in New York and an airplane ride to the latter city, will be awarded.

A trip to France—two way passage—but write the ending in twenty words for "One Way Passage." No employes of any firms involved in this offer will be eligible for the contest. Address "One Way Passage Editor," The Washington Post, not later than midnight November 17.

"ONE WAY PASSAGE." Warner Bros. picturization of a story by Robert Lord, adapted to the screen by Wilson Mizner and Joseph Jackson, starring Kay Francis and William Powell, with Aline MacMahon, Frank McHugh, Douglas Gerrard, Warren Hymer, Frederick Burton and Herbert Mundin. Directed by Tay Garnett. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

There is about this realistically staged and well-acted subject much of the same art of fascination and suspense that Houdini used to inspire with his escape tricks. When Houdini was shackled in arm and leg irons, handcuffed, straitjacketed, sealed in a sack and submerged in the river, the onlookers always were sure he never could free himself. But he always did. It is much the same with William Powell, as the international crook, being escorted back to the hangman at San Quentin in custody of Steve Burke, copper, aboard the S. S. Malao, bound from Hong-Kong to San Francisco, via Honolulu.

Mr. Powell, frequently on the long sea journey, seems on the verge of extricating himself from the toils of the law and successfully effecting a getaway. But something, seemingly, unfailingly intervenes to thwart his plan for the time being. In the end, however, we are led to believe that he does a Houdini and evades not only the noose but the stone walls of the prison, as well.

I say, "we are led to believe" because the final scenes of the picture are just indecisive enough to give free rein to the spectator's imagination as to precisely what has occurred and just provocative enough to lend zest to the contest being sponsored by the Earle and The Washington Post, to the winner of which will be awarded a "two-way passage" to Europe, with traveling companion and all expenses paid from Washington back to Washington.

As far as enjoyment of the film is concerned, the treatment of its closing sequences impairs it not at all. The love story of the master crook and the beautiful young tourist, to whom the slightest shock will mean death, is sufficiently romantic, sufficiently seasoned with excitement and humor and sufficiently complete to afford joyous and engaging entertainment.

William Powell and Kay Francis, as Dan Hardesty and Joan Ames, are as congenially cast as they have ever been upon the six earlier occasions of their costellar association. An authenticity and convincing quality of actuality are communicated to a majority of the scenes by reason of the fact that after a few brief introductory incidents in an all-nations bar on the Hong-Kong bund, and barring a final momentary flash of Agua Caliente celebrating New Year's Eve, the developments of the story all take place aboard an ocean liner.

No little of the play's appeal must be attributed to a particularly well-drawn and well-played group of secondary characters—for the most part crooks and bartenders. Foremost among these are Aline MacMahon, the Countess Berilhaus, who turns out to be a very elegant confidence woman who has adapted her noble name from the less-distinguished but more picturesque monicker of Barrelhouse Betty, by which she is known to American police, and Frank McHugh, as another international crook with a mighty thirst and an infallible ability to keep one leap ahead of the law. Warren Hymer, as Burke, the detective, has one of his best assignments and plays it right down to the water line. Frederick Burton, Herbert Mundin and Douglas Gerrard contribute their share to a fable that reflects a shrewd sense of theater, thoughtful preparation and fine skill on the part of both director and photographer. You will, I am confident, find it interesting and diverting and spiced with a wealth of amusing comedy.

Lending an unaccustomed distinction and the brilliance of a luminous career to the brief vaudeville program is that magnificent grand dame of the operatic and concert stages, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, one of the most revered figures before the American public. Even if a once glorious contralto voice has lost something of its former vibrance and color, Mme. Schumann-Heink, at 71, still retains the indomitable spirit, the enthusiasm and the deep affection for her public that always have characterized her every professional activity. In the new field of vaudeville she finds it possible to sing those songs she most loves and the public is most eager to hear.

Next in favor on the stage were Paul Tisen and his Gypsy Orchestra, with Norma Gallo, a remarkable acrobatic dancer, and Kathryn Adolph, soprano—an act that never fails to score decisively. Betty and Jerry Browne, in some clever clowning, and the Famous Lucky Boys, six gymnastic comedians, completed the bill.

Supplementaries include a Betty Boop cartoon comedy, the Universal News, Jack Halley in a comedy, "Then Came the Yawn," which was literally true; "Rambling Around Radio Row," with Art Jarrett, Sylvia Froos, Rudy Wiedoft and numerous others, and a real overture by Fred Clarke and his orchestra.

RIALTO

"FALSE FACES." World Wide picturization of a story by Kubec Glasmon, starring Lowell Sherman, supported by Lila Lee, Peggy Shannon and Burton Churchill. Directed by Lowell Sherman. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Among the cinema's elect there are a few whose mere presence in a picture makes it worth while, even though the narrative may have an entertainment value not far above zero. Lowell Sherman is one of those few whose work, for the most part, transcends the story he is portraying, and when he is also the director, the picture takes on added interest.

"False Faces" is an "expose" of the plastic surgery racket. Dr. Silas Brenton, cast out of the Bronx Hospital for violation of professional ethics, goes to Chicago, where he is struck with the idea that in remodeling faces and other portions of the human anatomy there is to be made a mint of money. Forthwith, he establishes his offices and builds up quite a trade until a combination of ill-advised operations precipitates an investigation on the part of the local medical society. Haled into court on charges of criminal negligence, Dr. Silas so eloquently defends himself that a "not guilty" verdict is returned. And then—well, see "False Faces" and find out for yourself what happens!

It is not a particularly imposing tale for such an eminent cast as is here assembled, for individually they have done far better things; but that potential capacity here stands the personnel in good stead, giving to the story a treatment considerably above its intrinsic worth.

Mr. Sherman, of course, is the dominant character, his expressive eyes, his completely disarming smile and his consummate suavity, even under the most trying circumstances, all combining to make this another personal triumph.

What the subsidiary attractions may lack in number is more than adequately compensated for by the inaugural issue of the "America's Greatest Composers" series, featuring Morton Downey, Vincent Lopez and Dave Dreyer. Mr. Downey was recently here in person; Mr. Lopez in "The Big Broadcast." Untitled in the usual fashion, this offering presents a gossamer story studded with numerous songs and band numbers, sung and played with customary skill by these splendid artists, making a highly diverting subject that will please every musical taste.

A release of the Universal News rounds out the bill.

IT'S RAINING IN PAGO PAGO!

The cartoonist's impression of the Rev. Davidson laying down the law to Sadie Thompson, while Sergt. O'Hara looks on through the downpour. Walter Huston, Joan Crawford and William Gargan are seen in these roles in "Rain," at Loew's Palace this week.

LOEW'S PALACE

"RAIN." United Artists picturization of the stage play by John Colton and C. Randolph, based on a story by W. Somerset Maugham, adapted to the screen by Maxwell Anderson, featuring Joan Crawford and Walter Huston, supported by Beulah Bondi, William Gargan, Guy Kibbe, Walter Catlett and Matt Moore. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Previewed last Tuesday midnight.

Not even in the original Jeanne Eagels stage production was Pago Pago in the rainy season so realistically depicted as in this articulate screen version of the famous play, "Rain," made as a silent picture by Gloria Swanson under the title of "Sadie Thompson." This is a valuable asset to the present production, at sharp variance in so many respects with its predecessors. The constant beating of the incessant rains upon the roof of Joe Horn's little trading post on the world's frontier was a potent factor in jangling the nerves of the mixed group forced by cholera to await the lifting of the quarantine against their ship. This is the first time it has ever quite so effectively become a vital element of the drama.

In the supposedly equally vital matters of character building and exposition, the present "Rain" has been content to ignore many of its most fruitful opportunities. The result is that, in its present version, the famous play of a fanatical reformer, a shady lady from the wrong street in Honolulu and the inescapable blight of the Tropics becomes merely another revelation of the evil potentialities of sex under trying conditions, instead of the penetrating baring of character it should be.

For all that, it is interesting and, insofar as its revised form will permit, well and convincingly played. Joan Crawford looks the part of Sadie Thompson somewhat better than she acts it, although there can be no quibbling about the vigor of her tirades against the meddling missionary up to the time she "gets religion" under his vindictive guidance. Many scenes of platitudinous dialogue she permits to drag themselves out in dreary monotony. Walter Huston, too, is handicapped by lines that seem not wholly consonant, even in so rock-ribbed a bigot as the Reverend Davidson. However, it must be said that in this thankless part, Mr. Huston never allows himself to drift for a single instant out of character, even in the minutest particular. His suicide, therefore, arouses scant pity. It arouses scant pity, as a matter of fact, even for Mrs. Davidson, a role that has been cut to such a fragment of its original worth as to permit so excellent an actress as Beulah Bondi hardly to become known to her audience. A similar process of denaturing has been applied to the now unimportant role of Dr. McPhail, instrusted to Matt Moore.

Two characters have been left virtually intact in Joe Horn, the lazy trader, and Sergt. O'Hara. "Handsome," superlatively well played by Guy Kibbe and William Gargan. Walter Catlett has a comic bit in the early sequences of which he makes the most.

"Rain," I presume, could not be made an uninteresting drama. To those who view it for the first time, the present version probably will come as a sterling utilization of skillful dramaturgy and thrilling events. Those who entertain vivid memories of the original stage play, will find much of its punch and power vitiated by an enforced modification of much that was deemed too pungent for screen use. Miss Crawford's personal following will discover her in one of her most picturesque endeavors. And after all, that is probably what really matters.

The program is augmented by the customary short sound subjects, including a new issue of the Metrotone News.

RKO-KEITH'S

"LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE." RKO-Radio picturization of a screen play based on the comic strip by Harold Gray, featuring Mitzi Green, Buster Phelps and May Robson, with Matt Moore, Edgar Kennedy, Kate Lawson and Sidney Bracey. Directed by John Robertson. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McKavitt.

You know the feeling of exhilaration you get by stepping out of a hot, ill-ventilated room into the fresh air? Isn't it a grand relief? A similar sensation will be experienced upon viewing "Little Orphan Annie" after having witnessed so many shows that parade cheap, glittering tinsel and tawdry love. The entire family, including the star boarder, will receive the pixie-faced cherub, Buster Phelps, and the dancing-eyed Mitzi Green with open arms.

Before we go a step farther we want to declare that we believe little Buster Phelps turns in the best performance of any child-actor yet seen on the screen this year. For pure and unadulterated natural acting, this Phelps youngster takes the blue ribbon for sustained fidelity to his role. The lad never falters. His several close-up shots are gems of photographic artistry.

Now about Mitzi Green. She has never given the public a poor bit of work. This picture is no exception. The young lady is a delightful mimic. Her imitation of the Four Marx Brothers will be a joyous picture to store away for a dull day.

The supporting cast is excellent. The once popular stage star, May Robson, distinctly demonstrates that she has not lost the art of intelligent impersonation. All lovers of the cartoon Little Orphan Annie will surely not wish to miss this movie. You will find the same wholesome atmosphere in the screen presentation that is found in the cartoon.

The remaining screen offerings this week are both varied and good. There is a "Scrappy Comedy," an animated cartoon featuring "The Great Bird Mystery" that will excite the kids no end. There is a Wallace Organlogue with the Eton Boys singing some funny parodies; a startlingly interesting scientific short, "The Battle of the Centuries," depicting the habits of the wood-eating termites and their fights with ants. This is drama as powerful as that seen in the oft-mentioned mongoose and cobra duel. Furthermore, if this last short is not the cream of the crop, then the final comedy, at least, shares laurels with it. Clark and McCullough are in great form, perhaps better than usual.

If you have been promising to take Junior and Jane to a show for good school marks here is the chance of a lifetime to please them thoroughly. It should be needless to state that the rest of the family, also, will find great pleasure in this splendid RKO-Keith bill.

METROPOLITAN

"TIGER SHARK." First National picturization of the story, "Tuna," by Houston Branch, adapted to the screen by Wells Root, starring Edward G. Robinson, with Richard Arlen, Zita Johann, William Ricciardi, Vincent Barnett and J. Carroll Naish. Directed by Howard Hawks.

Affording Edward G. Robinson a new vehicle for the display of his versatile gifts as a character actor, this stirring drama of the tuna fishers of the southern California coast offers many unique qualities of interest. It embodies in its logical action much of the thrill of an adventurous calling on the high seas: it brings vividly into its developments the dangerous business of pursuing a livelihood in surroundings rendered perpetually hazardous by the constant presence of great schools of man-eating sharks. The tragedy that befalls many who value both life and danger lightly is made a moving part of the story.

Apart from these unusual trappings of grandiose drama, the story reduces itself to the terms of the conventional domestic triangle drama, involving Mike, the tuna boat captain; "Pipes," his best friend, and his wife. From this simple love triangle is evolved a situation that terminates in stark tragedy. Ably assisting Mr. Robinson in apprehending the play's greatest possibilities are Richard Arlen and Zita Johann, the former contributing a more compelling portrayal than the latter. Vincent Barnett and William Ricciardi lead the supporting ensemble.

Ruth Etting in "A Modern Cinderella" and a new Paramount Sound News complete the bill, now entering its second week.

LOEW'S FOX

"SHERLOCK HOLMES." Fox picturization of a screen play based on William Gillette's play concerning Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous character, starring Clive Brook, supported by Miriam Jordan, Ernest Torrence, Reginald Owen and Herbert Mundin. Directed by William K. Howard. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

The eternal Holmes walks this time through an adventure that Sir Conan Doyle probably never imagined, certainly never penned, but which, for all that, is well worth watching and a shiver or two.

Impressionistic photography (too impressionistic at first), to furnish an eerie atmosphere, plus at least one very slick surprise and considerable action, make this a much more mysterious and interesting Sherlockian episode than many heretofore filmed.

Official credit to Conan Doyle and William Gillette notwithstanding, this still seems an entirely new Sherlock Holmes-Professor Moriarty duel to us, although portions show signs of being lifted from this and that chapter of the great detective saga.

Moriarty escapes again, in the very shadow of the noose, threatening death to the judge who condemned him, to Col. Gore-King of Scotland Yard, and Sherlock Holmes, who trapped him. The judge dies. Gore-King is to be second, Holmes third. Add to this the introduction of American racketeering to London, a bank robbery, kidnaping of Holmes' lovely fiancee, and maybe you can deduce the rest. We couldn't.

Clive Brook is at his best again playing the imperturbable, clever, courageous and colorful Sherlock, a little wooden, perhaps, rather than languid, but excellent, nevertheless. If Reginald Owen were a trifle plumper, he would seem equally ideal as Dr. Watson. Ernest Torrence, missing from our screen too long, is an ominous Moriarty; Ivan Simpson, Mirian Jordan, Alan Mowbray and little Howard Leeds give good accounts of themeselves in supporting roles. But it is Herbert Mundin, as a delicious and innocent pub keeper, who almost steals the picture.

The stage show is chock full of "names," introduced pleasantly enough by Charles Judels. Little Dorothy Jordan, as dainty and pretty as on the screen, dances gracefully if a little arm-flutteringly about the stage with four young men. Little Ann Pennington dances with her old-time enthusiasm, but without that characteristic long, long hair. The Roxy Gang quartette, blest with a particularly beautifully voiced contralto, sing selections from grand opera, light opera and modern popular music, to the deserved delight of the audience.

Our personally nominated hit is "The Funnyboners," harmonizing in their very own, nutty, more than nice way—and imitating other radio favorites as faithfully as they play themselves. Then, too, the Gilbert Brothers have one of those acrobatic turns which make us say, "Well, I never—look!"

Phil Lampkin, not only practically our favorite conductor, but rapidly becoming our favorite comedian, gets very breathless leading the overture; a newsreel, an interesting naturalist feature, and an amusing cartoon complete an almost too complete bill.

Few Set-Ups Found on National Grid Card for Day.

Michigan and Indiana Clash; California to Play Trojans.

BY ALAN GOULD.
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The Nation's gridirons will be scanned as closely as the political landscapes tomorrow when a dozen of the major contenders for championship honors take the first of the big November barriers in the great college football handicap.

Of the principal pace-setters so far, only Colgate's "Red Raiders" in the Northeastern sector, Michigan's juggernaut in the "Big Ten," Nebraska in the Big Six, Texas Christian in the Southwest, Tennessee and Auburn in the Southern Conference seem reasonably certain to keep their front-line places. This is mainly for the reason most of these teams play non-title or intersectional contests, while their rivals take on heavier assignments.

Michigan Expected To Beat Indiana.

Indiana hardly seems equipped to stop the march of Michigan toward the Western Conference championship, but stranger things, of course, have happened so far this season. Only the hardiest of experts now go out on the well known limb without tying a rope around their waist.

Nevertheless Wisconsin figures to overpower Illinois, Purdue is genuinely "feared" by Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago Maroons and Ohio State looks to have a good chance to turn the tables on Northwestern in other Big Ten features.

The Eastern battlefront will echo to some of the heaviest football firing as a quartet of undefeated arrays, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania, Brown and Holy Cross provide the headline scrimmaging. More than 50,000 spectators probably will see the conquerors of Notre Dame invade Franklin Field the favorites to hand Pennsylvania its first setback. Brown has a slight edge on Holy Cross.

St. Mary's Invades New York.

Intersectional warfare in this area will be concentrated in the big metropolitan ball parks. Slip Madigan's St. Mary's Gaels gallop into the Polo Grounds with good prospects of knocking over Fordham, while Georgia's battling Bulldogs hope to trample the fading Violets of New York University.

Notre Dame expects to regain a winning stride against the University of Kansas at Lawrence and probably will. Nevertheless, the Ramblers have generally had a tough time in the corn belt, notably against Nebraska, and a prospective record crowd of 36,000 will be out to see what the Jayhawkers can do to make it tougher.

California has a good chance to upset Southern California's all-winning record, but the Trojans, on home grounds, look like favorites in a game that should draw close to 75,000 to the huge Olympic Stadium.

The chief prospect of a break in the Southern Conference leadership rests in whether Alabama's battered Tide can upset Virginia Poly's fast-stepping array. Without Full Back "Hurry" Cain, Alabama will be handicapped in this assignment.

N. Carolina Beats Florida U., 18-13

Daniel Runs Opening Kick-Off to Touchdown at Chapel Hill.

Kenan Stadium, Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—John Daniel, University of North Carolina half back, raced 95 yards through the University of Florida 'Gators here this afternoon on the opening kick-off to lead the Tarheels to an 18-to-13 win.

Before 5,000 persons, the smallest crowd for a Carolina home game in years, the Heels rolled up three touchdowns.

The 'Gators, outscored but not outplayed, got an even dozen first downs, but Carolina got only four.

In the second quarter, after penalties had forced Florida back to its half-yard line, a punt was short and a play later Croom passed to Thompson for a gain of 27 yards and Carolina's second score. Both men had been substituted as half backs. A few minutes later Underwood intercepted a Florida pass on the 'Gator 44-yard line and on first down Croom went off his right tackle for Carolina's last score.

Coach Chuck Collins started Kahn and Brandt, a pair of juniors, in the Tarheels' line.

Keegin Leads Eastern to 7-0 Win

Ends 43-Yard Drive by Plunge Across Western Goal.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

GALLOPING JOE KEEGIN, star half back at Gonzaga last season, made his debut in the high school series yesterday and favorably impressed the football loving populace by his work in the Eastern backfield. Keegin scored the only touchdown of the game on a short drive through tackle, and Joe Mills added the extra point with a drop-kick, giving Eastern a 7-0 victory over Western. The smallest crowd of the season, approximately 2,000, saw the game.

Keegin's scoring feat was not particularly commendable, for Eastern's line opened up a hole large enough for the powerful Katrinka to waddle through; but the smiling Irishman's ball-carrying throughout the game was the best seen in the series this year.

Keegin was a marked man two minutes after the teams came to grips. He started the Lincoln Parkers on their goalward march with a 23-yard run to Western's 20-yard line after the teams had exchanged kicks.

Keegin Makes Up Ground.

"Zip" Adams was tossed for a 6-yard loss on the next play, but Keegin made up the lost distance and more in the bargain, stepping through a broken field and over the goal line. The play was called back, however, and the ball put in play on the 15-yard mark, where, according to Umpire Towers, Keegin stepped out of bounds.

Eastern pushed through the opposition to the 1-yard line where it was halted, temporarily before Keegin catapulted through for the score.

Western's solitary scoring threat came in the third period. The drive collapsed on the 27-yard line, Keegin intercepting a pass, after the Red had amassed four consecutive first and the burden of the offensive was then shifted to Joe Carter.

Carter, in three tries at the line, made first down on the 1-yard line, but the Dakotans then braced magnificently. Deliberate offside play by Jacobsen, end, cut into the waning seconds, and G. W., in three attempts by Carter, could make only half of the needed distance. But on fourth down McCarver smashed through right tackle, to score the touchdown by inches, and the gun revealed that it was the last play of the half.

Johnny Baker added the extra point with a placement kick.

Pressing on the third quarter, George Washington carried the play deep into Dakota territory, but was forced to yield the ball on downs once on the 20-yard line, once on the 37-yard line, and another time on the 26-yard line.

"Zuzu" Stewart, helmetless and colorful Colonial guard, abetted the scoring of the second touchdown when he blocked Jacobsen's punt in the fourth quarter to see the ball recovered on the Dakota 15-yard line by Capt. Chambers. Fenlon then called for a double reverse, taking the ball himself on the end of a triple pass that confused the Dakota defense and enabled Fenlon to reach the 2-yard line before he was brought to earth. McCarver made the distance in his first try at the line. The placement missed by Baker was his first failure in ten consecutive tries.

Colonials Start Drive To Touchdown.

Desperate as the game waned, North Dakota deigned not to kick and yielded the ball on G. W.'s 40-yard line when Stewart tossed Hansen for a 3-yard loss. It marked the start of a 60-yard drive to the Colonials' third touchdown.

McCarver burst through the center of the line for 9 yards, and a pass, Fenlon to Chambers, put the ball on the 15-yard line. A penalty set the Colonials back 5 yards, but Fenlon then scampered through left tackle on a cross buck for 20 yards and the touchdown. Again Baker added the extra point.

The 12,000 had seen the cotton-haired Hansen, like some wraith in the floodlights, rip off consistent gains in the first quarter, but, before the game was over they were to thrill to two individual masterpieces of ball carrying.

Taking a punt by Kriemelmeyer in the fourth quarter, Hansen sifted through the entire G. W. team for 80 yards and an apparent touchdown only to discover he had stepped outside on his 26-yard line. It doesn't go into the records, but it was a beautiful run. Then after G. W. had scored its second touchdown, Hansen, living up to all advance notices, dashed back 52 yards to the kick-off only to see his passing attack founder on the reefs of a bristling G. W. secondary defense.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The Pimlico Futurity, with its rich prize of $40,000 and the additional possibility of bringing the winner the mythical crown as champion of the 2-year-olds, appeared tonight to be anybody's race.

Twenty-three youngsters, including most of the outstanding colts and fillies who this year made their debut on the turf, were entered, but there was no outstanding favorite.

A quintet from the entry list was most talked of.

Kerry Patch Won Belmont Futurity.

Kerry Patch, Lee Rosenbergs chestnut colt, had his backers. As the highest money winner in the race because of victory in the Belmont Futurity, he was highly regarded.

The Darb, a C. V. Whitney entry, also was given a good rating, particularly since his sterling race last Saturday to win the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes.

Repaid, Quincy Stable colt, also ranked among the favorites, particularly as he has shown marked ability in negotiating the difficult distance of this race, a mile and a sixteenth.

Caterwaul, also a C. V. Whitney entry, whose winnings rank second to those of Kerry Patch for Pimlico Futurity entries, comes in the favored group, along with Dynastic, of the Greentree Stable.

Five Will Carry 122 Pounds.

Bright Shadow, Iseult, Euryalus, Golden Way, Pompet, Ballos, Pomponius, Technique, Sun Captor, Notebook, Inlander, Bold Lover, Swivel, Sabula, Barn Swallow, Wave On, Sarada and Silent Shot.

Top weight of 122 pounds was given to Kerry Patch, Sarada, Inlander, Sun Captor and Golden Way.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 4.—It looked tonight as though football fans who are all keyed up over an opportunity to see Cliff Montgomery, ace of Columbia University's team and candidate for All-America quarter back, in action against Navy tomorrow afternoon, are in for a disappointment.

The squad of Blue and White gridders came to Annapolis this afternoon and engaged in a final workout on Thompson Field, and Lou Little, their head mentor, promptly announced that Montgomery will not be in the starting line-up and may not get in the battle at all.

It was known that Cliff has been nursing an injured knee and ankle since the Cornell tussel last Saturday. As far as the star is concerned, he says he is all right to play, but Little decreed that he would not take any chances, especially with the hard game with Brown and other engagements in the offing. At any rate Montgomery did not participate in the jogging practice session today, and Little stated that Lineham would take up the duties of field general.

Rip Miller decided to forego outdoor work for his varsity squad, contrary to the usual order of things on the eve of a game. Instead he kept the players in the gymnasium and gave them a lecture on the plans of campaign to be waged against the invaders.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 4. With Gov. William G. Conley and a party of State officials in the stands, West Virginia's Mountaineers will run up against Georgetown here tomorrow in the football treat of the year for Morgantown. The game has been designated as the feature of "West Virginia Day."

Georgetown remained an unknown quantity here tonight, and few of the betting fraternity knew how to wager. The Hilltoppers changed their plan of football last Monday, when Jack Hagerty succeeded Tommy Mills as coach, and changed Georgetown from a Notre Dame team to a Warner outfit. West Virginia scouts took notes on Georgetown while it was Notre Dameish, and now have only a vague idea of how to advise Coach "Greasy" Neale.

The Mountaineers, however, remain a slight favorite to win, a contention based largely on the fine showing of the raft of sophomores on the team last week against Marquette. Eck Allen, shifty-hipped second-year man, scored 30 of West Virginia's 34 points against Marquette and is being heavily counted upon tomorrow to down Georgetown. Local interest surrounds the appearance of Al Kelly, speedy Georgetown back, who has appeared here many times in track meets.

As subsidiary features to the football game tomorrow, the university will play host to high school students from 80 nearby schools, numbering 1,500 students in all, and also will stage a cross-country race between George Dever, West Virginia's great runner, and Bill Hardman, Navy's leading hill and dale runner, both of them unbeaten. The race will finish in the stadium.

2 Umpires Bought By American League

Chicago, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Umpires W. R. Summers and L. C. Coles have been purchased by the American League from the International League, President Will Harridge of the major circuit announced today.

Fee Collier Returns To Mohawks Tomorrow

Two new faces will be seen in the Mohawk starting back field tomorrow at Griffith Stadium when the local eleven plays host to the Brooklyn Bulldogs. Pepco Barry, who was not on speaking terms with the team's signals last Sunday, will be seen at one of the half-back posts, and Fee Collier, cagey quarter back, who rejoined the team last week, are the newcomers.

IRISH HARRIERS BOW.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 4 (U.P.)—Michigan State's undefeated cross-country team defeated Notre Dame, 19 to 39 here today. The meet was the last home engagement for the Irish.

Leading Rival Defeated by Canzoneri

Petrolle Punished as New Orleans Boy Retains Crown.

Fargo Veteran Fades Before 20,000 in Garden Bout.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, a masterful little champion, finally met the challenge Billy Petrolle has been flinging to the lightweight division for years, and all but demolished the veteran tonight before a roaring crowd of 20,000 that jammed the big battle pit.

Brilliant as any of the lightweights of legend, Tony battered the old-timer from Fargo, N. Dak., so badly that there was no question as to the victor at the end of their fifteen-round battle.

Canzoneri failed to floor the challenger, but he did everything else the ring laws permit to win a unanimous decision.

Canzoneri, once a newspaper boy on the streets of New Orleans, never has appeared to finer advantage than he did in driving the "Fargo Express" to its worst smash-up in a long career.

Petrolle Target for Rival.

From the first round through the last, with just a breather at the start, a temporary stay in the eighth and tenth rounds, Tony made a target of the courageous warrior who has been whipping all comers in a thrilling come-back campaign, even to the extent of tipping slugging Jimmy McLarnin over twice one night in this same ring.

The champion's left raked Petrolle's face with jabs and hooks, right-hand smashes and uppercuts thudded on his jawbone, and battle-scarred Billy his face an incongruous caricature of lumps and welts and small cuts, barely could wobble through the last three rounds:

West Coast Heavy Falls Victim to Attack in Third Round.

Boston, Nov. 4 (U.P.).—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, knocked out Les Kennedy, of Los Angeles, in the third round of their scheduled 10-round bout at Boston Arena tonight.

Carnera weighed 260 pounds, Kennedy 205. The men were poorly matched Carnera's great weight giving him a tremendous advantage over the Californian. They traded light blows in the opening round, but in the second Carnera waded in with left and right crosses. He found Kennedy's jaw early in the third for the knockout blow.

EAGER to start another winning streak, but realizing that they must play their best football to score a victory, Catholic University's shifty-hipped Cardinal squad comes home today to meet Wake Forest at Brookland Stadium. The battle between the high-scoring locals and the raw-boned North Carolina team, which is nationally known for its ability to keep opponents from scoring, commences at 2:30 o'clock.

Wake Forest worked out yesterday at Brookland and clinched the published reports that they are as close-knit a team as probably will be seen here this year. Their ability to stifle the scoring attempts of the teams they have met this year is well known. Wake Forest has yielded only nine points this year—and those to Duke.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

RATED by many critics as the best team in the South, Vanderbilt's mighty Commodores march into Griffith Stadium today to meet Maryland University in the Old Liners' biggest game of the season. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, with Vanderbilt a favorite to continue its great winning streak by handing the green—but willing—Maryland team a handy beating.

Curly Byrd, leader of the Maryland forces, said yesterday: "Vandy has the most powerful and versatile material against which any team I ever coached has played. In Dixie Roberts it has the hardest running back I have ever tried to build a defense to stop," which is a broad statement in view of the fact that during his 21-year-old regime at College Park Byrd has coached and sent teams into battle against Syracuse, Rutgers, Penn and Yale.

Maryland to Rely On Three Stars.

Against this imposing enemy Maryland will pit its tricks and technique, mostly composed of Earl Widmyer's great speed of foot, the passing of Dick Nelson and the rediscovered drive in the legs of Ray Poppelman. Maryland has no particular optimism concerning the outcome of the game, but promises a real battle and refers doubters back to Maryland teams of old which hauled off and handed Yale and others defeats while operating from a strict underdog status.

Numbered among the powerful Vanderbilt players, in addition the big and elusive Roberts, are Tex Leyendecker, tackle, and Pete Gracey, center, all three of whom are regarded as certain all-Southern choices this year. Roberts, except for his kicking, is claimed to be a better all around back than John "Hurry" Cain, of Alabama, about the best football player Washington has seen this year.

Widmyer Will Play, But Not Start.

While the Vandy players were sightseeing at Mount Vernon and other historic spots yesterday, Maryland put the last finishing touches on its

WHITE LIES BEATS PROJECTILE BY NECK IN PIMLICO SPRINT

Garner Aids Choice With Good Ride

Cuts Through on Rail and Staves Off Challenge of Projectile.

Gadabout, 41-1, and Wahoo, 7-1, Piloted Home by Meade.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 4.—White Lies, a daughter of the sturdy John P. Grier, has displayed her staying qualities on a number of occasions, and today they served her well to gain a neck decision over the flying Projectile in the Annapolis Handicap, feature at this course. Poppyman was hardly in the battle for the first money, but held the show end safe.

It was one of several thrilling finishes that marked the day. Without Mack Garner in his best riding mood it is doubtful whether or not the little filly would have scored. Breaking in fourth place, but ahead of Projectile, White Lies had to overcome much early interference to find racing room. In the meanwhile, Danny Meade, the day's star rider, was winging along in front on Happy Knot, as usual a long shot. It was not until the stretch turn was reached that Garner made his move with White Lies. He was watching for a place to come through the leaders. The group in front bore out slightly swinging into the stretch and Garner was ready to take advantage of the break, shooting along on the rail and taking the lead.

It was at this point that Projectile came into view. He also had had a tough trip through the field from seventh position. Bejshak worked him into an express train finish, but White Lies was responding now to Garner's whip. Projectile slid up but was too late.

Another crowd of 10,000 witnessed the card under ideal conditions.

Bostwick Rides to Victory.

G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, wealthy boy who would rather ride horses than drink tea, in the clubhouse, turned the boos that followed his mediocre flat riding earlier in the week into cheers today as he piloted Creek, the property of Tommy Hitchcock, famous polo star, to victory over the steeplechase course of 2½ miles. Outlaw was second ahead of King's Crier. Bostwick kept Creek under stout wraps for the first mile and when he called upon the son of White Eagle the horse responded, fencing boldy and moving up to the leaders. Irish Bullet, which set a fast early pace was bothered by Rideaway after the favorite lost its rider at the ninth fence and Creek took the lead at the next fence, never to be headed, crossing the finish line six lengths in front of Outlaw. Flavius was the only casualty besides Rideaway. He, too, lost his rider at the ninth jump. Two jockeys were hurt. Bauman was sent to the hospital for observation and Smoot suffered bruises on the hands and body.

Longshot Danny Meade added another to his string in the second race when he pounded Gadaround home at an $84.70 mutuel ahead of True Sweep, another one passed up in the betting. Third money went to Walter H. Meade brought the winner from ninth place to take the lead entering the stretch and then rode him hard to stall off True Sweep and Walter H.

The nearest thing to a dead heat of the season in Maryland came in the third race. Blondish, odds-on favorite, won by the barest of noses from Sir Kendall. Sir Kendall, with Bobby Jones up, passed Blondish, with Johnny Gilbert in the saddle, entering the stretch and the pair hooked up in a thrilling duel. Both boys and horses were giving everything. Blondish moved up slightly at the finish but the race could have been called even from the sixteenth pole to the jockeys' board.

Except for a short interval at the start, Contribute led those that sought the purse in the fourth—a 6 furlong sprint—all the way. The Son of Purchase had a length and a half advantage over All Rowes, under the guidance of Meade and a $40 place proposition. Pennate was third. Renaissance, the heavily backed favorite, failed to make a move after being in trouble soon after the start.

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

Old Bill Bennings' exclusive good thing, Wahoo, certainly showed the boys a thing or two here yesterday—and at a $16 mutuel. Had to shake off the grip of an assistant starter, was shut off at the first turn and then came around the field to win by six lengths with Danny Meade trying to hold him. That was my third winner. White Lies and Blondish were the others. Steeplechase Jockey Bauman was not seriously injured as rumors around the course had him. Only sprained his back in that fall off Flavius. Well, the youngsters go today for that $40,000 added and I'm taking Golden Way and I hope he don't try the hard way home. BILL.

FIRST RACE—WELCOME GIFT showed me a lot of speed at Laurel, and this looks like the coming-out party. STEPSISTER is another overdue to leave the maiden ranks. LIGHT RIPPLE for the show.

SECOND RACE—TETRARCHAL exhibited fine form in that sprint victory, and meets no better over a distance of ground. Seems to hold the edge over RENEWED and GLORIA MARIS.

THIRD RACE—WATCH HIM should be ready to show his best efforts in this. Trials have been promising. LATE DATE looks like the wake-up horse in this field. MOUNTAIN ELK held on well the other day and is dangerous.

FOURTH RACE—The lightly weighted CANRON is a fighting finisher and will be right there today, or miss my guess. MICROPHONE and FAIRBYPAIR hooked up in the stretch the last time and should battle it out for the place.

FIFTH RACE—GOLDEN WAY suffered a lot of interference in his brilliant race to be third at Laurel. Mack Garner will be in charge of this one today and I expect him to keep out of trouble today. SWIVEL and REPAID for the rest.

SIXTH RACE—VALENCIENNES is ready to run a good race. That last at Laurel doesn't go by a million miles. Trials have been excellent. MR. SPONGE and CON AMORE are the other money horses.

SEVENTH RACE—TRY IT may draw Hanford again and cut the leaders down in the stretch. PRINCE TOKALON and RACCOON for the rest.

CREEK, taken in hand for the first mile, disposed of IRISH BULLET when going to the twelfth fence, and fencing boldly when in front was never seriously menaced. OUTLAW moved up stoutly when called on, made a good effort going to the fifteenth fence, but weakened steadily the last half mile. KING'S CRIER, a strong factor the entire trip, finished gamely. HUFFY could not threaten the leaders when put to a drive. IRISH BULLET had plenty of speed for a mile and one-half. He was bothered by the fifteenth fence and tired badly thereafter. The others were outrun. RIDEAWAY and FLAVIUS landed badly and lost their riders at the ninth fence.

SECOND RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:36. Off at 1:43. Winner, R. Greene's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GADAROUND, $84.70, $21.80, $10.90; TRUE SWEEP, $23.50, $17.10; WALTER H., $6.00.

GADAROUND, taken to the outside after being outrun to the first turn, worked his way to the leaders steadily, wore DAUDET down and holding on tenaciously outstayed TRUE SWEEP. Latter, outrun early and forced to lose much ground, came strongly when straightened into the home stretch. WALTER H., in the thick of contention the entire trip, held on stoutly. ATLANTEE, slow to get going, finished resolutely on the outside. DAUDET and ARROWSWIFT were used up racing for pace. BOBBING was shuffled back early in the race. ABSOLUTE broke slowly and attempted to improve his position next the inner rail, but fell back steadily. STATECRAFT had brief early speed. ROCK POINT broke slowly and lacked speed.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 2:14. Off at 2:15. BLONDISH, hard urged while holding command, shook off DONYA, lost command when straightened into the home stretch, but came again and was up in the last strides. SIR KENDAL, hustled along to reach the winner, moved into the lead in the closing furlong, but faltered suddenly approaching the finish. DONYA, prominent all the way, was cut off nearing the finish and almost lost third money. JOCKEY GHENN could not threaten the leaders seriously. HOME SHORE was on the outside all the way. CHLOEDAIR had no mishaps. PURPLE SAGE was bumped and fell directly after the break.

CONTRIBUTE, quickest to get going and displaying good speed, raced SAND COIN into submission early, sprinted into a winning lead, but had to be urged hard nearing the end to stall off ALL ROWES. Latter, going in her best form, came to the outside at the finish and closed a strong rush, but was always outrun. PENNATE, finished gamely. SAND COIN weakened after racing in the thick of contention. CAERLEON showed a good test. RENAISSANCE could not improve his position. SEA FOX had early speed. MY PURCHASE broke slowly. INSTIGATOR quit.

WASHINGTON'S only really and truly local football game of the season will be played this afternoon at American University Field, when A. U. meets up with Gallaudet at 2:30 o'clock.

While neither team has done much in the way of winning games for the past three years, today's game is being looked forward to by a number of local football fans, who place a high premium on strictly local competition.

Gallaudet has got won a game in about two years and no longer has the services of Bilbo Monahan, who is playing with the Memphis Tigers in professional football this year. And so the Silents are rated as underdogs to a team that has won one game in two years.

Coaches Young and Menke, at American, have experimented with the Eagles all week and have made several changes which should increase the power of the team. In one case they have moved George Borsari, their lone triple-threater, from half back to quarter back, where now he can also run the team, besides carrying it. Fred Johnson, former center, was moved to the back field in place of Chet Bowers.

Marion A. C. Plays Celtics in Alexandria

Leading the race for the Independent League championship, the Marion eleven steps out of its class tomorrow to meet St. Mary's high powered Celtics in a game at Alexandria. Undismayed by the number of college stars in the Celtic line-up the Marions are drilling earnestly for the fray and with high hopes of emerging victorious.

The green-jerseyed gridders, hailing from the southeast stomping grounds of the old Apaches, boast one of the strongest defensive clubs in the city. In four games their goal line remains uncrossed.

Intercity Volley Ball League Meeting Tonight

An intercity league of volley ball teams will be formed tonight at the Y. M. C. A., as representatives gather from Washington, Baltimore, Hagerstown, York, Lancaster, Wilmington and Richmond. Washington will have two teams in the league, which will start within the next two weeks and continue until spring.

Delegates will be entertained by a game between Washington and Richmond before the meeting. Among the locals, who will appear, are J. G. Loehler, Charles Samples, D. H. Smith, J. C. Stanier, Bill Lansford, J. C. Hunt, Joe Glebel, F. Cutts, H. H. Purse and W. O. Hanson.

G. W. Freshmen Play West. Maryland Plebes

George Washington University's big freshman team plays its first game of the season today at Westminster, Md., against the Western Maryland Plebes, and are all agog over the fact that they are a slight favorite to score a victory for the school for the first time since the freshmen series started in 1929.

The Colonial plebes are dominated by Bomba, 200 pound full back, and Deming, 228 pound tackle, both of them rated good enough now to step on the varsity squad. Sid Kolker, former Tech High captain, is a regular tackle. Two local boys play with Western Maryland—Frank Cumberland and Jim Draper, the former a Central and the latter a Western product.

Hitting the Headpin

DesNoyer's 126 game and 348 set topped the individual scoring in the Interstate Commerce League at Arcadia. The Engineers rolled 575 for high team game and Traffic took set laurels with 1,608.

A new season's record of 621 for game was established in the Building Contractors' loop at Arcadia by the A. W. Lee quintet. The team finished with a total of 1,701. Edwards' 147 game and Joe Callan's 390 set won the individual prizes.

Robinson's 114 and 384 scores led the Jewelers League at Lucky Strike. Art Metal roped in the team prizes with 484 and 1,364.

Snyder rolled the high set in the Arcade-Sunshine Laundry loop at Lucky Strike, 314, but Hand was credited with high game, 118. Dry Cleaners took the team laurels with 505 and 1,431.

Miss Bechtold's 131 game and 328 set were high in the C. & P. Ladies' League at Lucky Strike. North Exchange, No. 1, rolled 496 and Columbia Exchange, No. 1, pinned a 1,375 set to lead the teams.

ARLINGTON DRILLS.

Arlington A. C. gridders will drill today at 4 o'clock on their home field in preparation for tomorrow's game with the Brentwood Hawks. All players are requested to report promptly.

Stocks Advance 3.1 Points On Forced Short Covering

Let-Up of Selling Pressure Aids Rise; Turnover, 969,185 Shares.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Stocks were readily influenced by moderate short covering today and the market got back a liberal percentage of the ground lost earlier this week.

Some brokers associated the share market's recovery with the fact that selling pressure had evaporated when the averages failed to violate their October lows, a display of resistance which probably caused a number of shorts to withdraw.

Stock prices closed somewhat under their highs of the day, the range of net advances being roughly 1 to 5 points against a slightly larger maximum. Issues speculatively identified with a possible change in the prohibition laws were prominent throughout the session. Owens Illinois Glass expanded 5, National Distillers and I. S. Industrial Alcohol more than 2, and Crown Cork about 1½.

Scarcity of floating supplies favored the advance, especially in shares which had obviously been subject to considerable selling for the short account. American Telephone climbed well over par with a 4-point rise; equal strength was shown by Allied Chemical, while American Can, Consolidated Gas, Case, American Tobacco "B," Westinghouse, Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, New York Central, Northern Pacific, International Harvester, National Biscuit and Du Pont gained 2 to 3 net. Union Pacific's 6-point excursion was cut to 4¼. Gold mining issues, so lustrous yesterday, were dull. Sales aggregated 969,185 shares.

Two of the larger chain store systems reported October sales volume in excess of September; in one instance the total was the largest so far this year. Weekly mercantile reviews were somewhat at variance on the current state of trade, Bradstreet's emphasizing the dampening effects of a political campaign and of sinking commodity prices, while Dun's said the undercurrent of business revival was "becoming stronger each week." The latter review added that gains which were believed to be only seasonal manifestations "now give evidence of being permanent achievements in a definite forward movement." Bradstreet's was encouraged by the nominal number of bank closings, which are running at about 4 per cent of a year ago.

There has been little speculation this week as to what tomorrow's car loadings report will show, although a decrease is taken for granted. Nevertheless, October traffic was comparatively satisfactory and last month's earnings reports, soon to appear, are expected to reveal comfortable gains over September.

Stocks.

Short covering sent prices 3.1 points higher. Lessening of selling pressure also acted as a factor in the advance. The turnover dropped slightly to 969,185 shares. There was a scarcity of offerings. Phones climbed well over par. Steel gained 2 points net.

Bonds.

Flurries of rail and industrial buying enabled bonds to climb two-tenths of a point. Traders continued cautious, however, and the turnover dwindled to $6,810,000. Richfield Oil provided the day's heaviest dealing.

Curb.

The market brightened and gains followed the big board. Moderate advances were recorded up to 3 points; one, Aluminum, gained 6½ points. The volume of trading still held at 150,000 shares.

Wheat.

Buying helped wheat to recover up to 1½ cents from the low point of 41⅞ cents. Other grains also advanced. Canadian exports reached 3,000,000 bushels. December wheat sold at 43⅜ to 43¾ cents.

Cotton.

Prices advanced on better trade demand. Improved securities' values also aided recovery. December closed at 6.14, with the general market up 13 to 17 points. A private report estimated the crop at 11,175,000 bales. Liverpool recorded scattered buying and trade calling.

London—Transatlantic issues and industrials, which showed fair gains, were the best sections on the stock exchanges in a quiet market. Gilt-edged securities lost part of their early improvement, while speculative issues drooped, due to lack of support. The closing was quiet.

Paris—Indecision, likely the outgrowth of the international situation, created calmness on the Bourse. Rentes declined while others gained fractionally. International issues receded moderately. Trade also was irregular.

Berlin—Prices were cheerful on the bourse, although trading was light.

U. S. TREASURY RECEIPTS.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for November 2 were $9,269,093.68; expenditures, $10,213,830.07; balance, $752,011,913.26. Customs duties for two days of November were $1,976,086.37.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN ON BUYING OF RAILS

Market Remains Cautious; Trade Volume Drops to $6,810,000.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The recently drooping spirits of the bond market were revived somewhat today as flurries of buying came into some of the rail and industrial specialties.

At the same time caution continued to be the watchword of most traders and investors and there was little bidding for large blocks of securities. Total sales dwindled to $6,810,000, par value, compared with the previous day's low average of $7,262,000. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans advanced two-tenths of a point.

The recovery of several of the more speculative rails was attributed partly to a rally in commodities and to covering by a number of traders who had gone short in these volatile liens. The oils reflected improvement in the the petroleum industry and the announcement that the Consolidated Oil Corporation had raised its bid for the Richfield California properties to approximately $27,400,000.

Carrier liens that advanced 1 to 2 or more points included some of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash.

The heaviest trading of the day was in Richfield Oil 6s which, with a turnover of 246 bonds, advanced 3½ points. The 6s of Pan-American Petroleum of California, a Richfield subsidiary, were up 5 points. Gains of around 2 points were recorded by issues of Shell Union, Sinclair, Shell Pipe Line and Skelly.

Armour & Co. 5½s were relatively active at a gain of 3½ points. Gains of 1 to 2 or more points were also shown by loans of American & Foreign Power, American I. C. Chemical, American Metal, American Water Works, International Telephone, Nassau Electric, National Dairy Products, Paramount Publix, Purity Bakeries and Utilities Power & Light. There were numerous small losses, however, in all categories.

United States Government obligations were slightly easier. Foreign bonds were irregular. Moderate gains were recorded by some of the Germans, Japanese and Belgians. The Argentines were weak, while the Canadians, Australians, Austrians and Cubans drifted lower. British 5½s closed unchanged after selling fractionally lower during most of the session.

September Oil Production Up to 65,036,000 Barrels

(Associated Press.)

The production of crude petroleum in the United States during September was 65,036,000 barrels, an increase in the daily average output of 2,000 barrels as compared with August.

The Department of Commerce yesterday reported the daily average of crude runs (crude-oil run to refineries) in September totaled 2,130,000 barrels, or 40,000 barrels below August, when the total runs were 66,220,000 barrels.

The total of stocks of all oils as of September 30 was reported at 613,142,000, which compared with 620,908,000 for August, and 521,430,000 barrels the same month last year.

The daily average exports of motor fuel in September amounted to 91,000 barrels, an increase of 15,000 over the daily average in August.

Net withdrawal from refinable crude stocks in September was 1,270,000 barrels, as compared with 3,375,000 in August.

Crude petroleum imports for September were 1,893,000 barrels, as compared with 1,862,000 for August, and refined products, 1,244,000, against 1,527,000 barrels.

Crude petroleum exports for September were 2,113,000 barrels, compared with 2,839,000 in August, and refined products, 3,783,000, against 5,650,000.

Natural gasoline stocks at the end of September totaled 3,502,000 barrels, compared with 3,690,000 at the end of August. The production of natural gasoline in September was 117,300,000 gallons, compared with 118,400,000 in August.

Although stocks of natural gasoline held at the plants were reduced in September, the net withdrawal was reported considerably below the average for the preceeding six months.

Southern Hedging Revealed in Cotton

Week's Dealing Also Shows Trade Buying on Dip Offerings.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The trading in cotton futures here during the past week has consisted largely of Southern hedging on the one hand and trade buying on the other. Business otherwise has been restricted either by political uncertainties or a disposition to await further developments in other directions, and the trade buying has been chiefly on setbacks or scale down orders.

It has been insufficient volume to absorb the current offerings, but prices have sagged gradually lower, making new low ground for the present movement. December contracts at the low level of the week sold at 5.99 or below the 6-cent mark for the first time since early last August, and at this price represented a decline of 367 points from the high price touched late last summer.

The decline of about 75 points from the high price touched on the mid-October rally, appeared to have improved the technical position of the market, however, and also to attract rather a more active trade demand. This was supplemented by considerable covering and some commission house buying which caused rallies during today's trading. Uncertainty as to the showing of the Government crop report scheduled for publication on November 9 may have been a factor in restricting general business during the earlier part of the week, but according to a canvass made of New York Cotton Exchange members today, very little change is expected in the figures.

Iron Ore Shipments Drop.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Shipments of iron ore from upper lake ports fell heavily in October, totaling 926,561 tons compared with 3,094,424 in October, 1931. Shipments for the season to November 1 amounted to 3,317,716 tons, compared with 23,047,192 in the like 1931 period.

Wholesale Food Prices Cut Again

Other Commodities Make Better Showing, Despite Downward Trend.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Nov. 4.—The wholesale food price index, as compiled by Bradstreet's Weekly, followed last week's sharp decline of 6 cents with another of 3 cents. The index for November 1 is $1.64, or 1.8 per cent lower than a week before. Since seasonal influences remain constant at this time, the adjusted index shows a corresponding drop from 52.9 to 52 per cent of the 1928-30 average. This is just slightly above the year's low of 51.6.

Commodity prices other than foods made a somewhat better showing, though most actively traded commodities were on the declining side of the list. Altogether, among 87 commodities of all kinds reported by Bradstreet's Weekly, only 5 advanced, 27 declined and 55 remained unchanged. These figures compare with 7, 25 and 55, respectively, for the previous week.

	1932	1931	1930
November 1	$1.64	$2.09	$2.73
October 25	1.67	2.12	2.75
October 18	1.73	2.15	2.74
October 11	1.73	2.16	2.75

September 27	1.78	2.16	2.71

Collateral Borrowings Decrease $55,099,384

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange reported today that collateral borrowings of members at the close of business October 31 totaled $324,702,199, a decrease of $55,099,384 from September 30.

A year ago the total was $796,268,768. The record high was $8,549,383,979, reached on September 30, 1929.

CURB MARKET RISES FOLLOW BIG BOARD

Trading Is Still Professional and Turnover Holds to 150,000 Shares.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The curb market brightened today, in sympathy with big board equities.

Selling had abated in the previous session, and when shorts tried to cover, they were compelled to bid up prices rather briskly in popular trading issues. While fair gains were recorded throughout the list, the volume remained small, and the proceedings were still largely professional. The turnover of about 150,000 shares duplicated that of Thursday.

Electric Bond & Share closed nearly 3 points higher, with a substantial turnover. The issue had recently been a bear target. Elsewhere in the utility category, gains were more modest. American Gas & Electric moved up about a point, and Niagara Hudson ¾. In the oils, Gulf rose 1½ in a rather thin market, but Indiana closed unchanged.

Aluminum Co. was a high flier in the industrial division, closing at 50½, up 6½ points. Crown Cork "A" rose a point, in sympathy with an upturn in some of the issues on the big board which have been promoted as likely to benefit from a change in the prohibition law. Deere rose a point, but then lost part of its gain. Farm implements were helped by a stiffening of the wheat market. The Celanese preferred issues were again strong. These issues have more than trebled in quoted value since the textile business began to pick up a few months ago. Newmont Mining mounted 1½.

Dollar and Pound Sag After Selling in Paris

Paris, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—The dollar fell about four points today, while the pound dropped from 84.63 to 83.72. The dollar was quoted at 25.4175, against 25.455 yesterday. Bankers ascribed the dollar loss to the sale of dollars against sterling in an effort to keep the pound up.

The newspaper L'Information said that what is keeping the dollar down appears to be a fear of new financial difficulties which might arise from the election programs of both Republicans and Democrats in "looking toward aid or substitution of the state in public utilities."

United Aircraft to Call Shares for Payment

Chicago, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Directors of United Aircraft & Transport Corporation in New York today authorized redemption January 1, 1933, of 30,000 shares of the corporation's 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock series A, at redemption price of $55.75 a share including the currnet quarterly dividend.

The board also declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent on preferred shares not called for redemption.

Argentine Shoemakers Think of World Markets

Special to The Washington Post.

Buenos Aires, Nov. 4.—To most people it would seem an ambitious thing to propose the sale of Argentine women's shoes in London, but on the basis of fact this seems quite possible. It is also a proof of the great advance that has been made in local manufacture.

For a time French shoes held the feminine market in London, only to give way to Italian workmanship. A survey recently completed by Argentine manufacturers finds that the product of Argentine factories is much better than the Italian from the standpoint of workmanship and design.

If one inspects the beautiful creations that are turned out here for the pretty feet of Argentine women, the conclusion can only be that world competition can be met. It indicates the changes that are taking place in this old world.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON GENERAL BUYING

Heavy Canadian Overseas Sales Reported; Price Up More Than 1 Cent.

Chicago, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Brisk right-about-face action lifted wheat more than 2 cents a bushel today from the commodity's record low point, 41⅞ cents.

Plain signs that for at least the time being the wheat market was in a decidedly oversold condition led to more general buying today than has been witnessed since the latest extraordinary down swings of grain values began a week ago. Helping to hoist wheat prices were upturns in securities and cotton, together with indications that Canadian government-sponsored support of the Winnipeg market had been renewed, and that overseas purchases of Canadian wheat were on a gigantic scale, 3,000,000 bushels yesterday instead of between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000, as heretofore announced.

Although reacting somewhat from top levels and showing late symtoms of fresh unsettlement, wheat closed relatively firm at substantial net gains, 1¼ to 1½ net higher than yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ to 1 up; oats, ¼ to ⅝ advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Buying From East.

Speculative purchasing of wheat came largely from Eastern sources, and broadened out in particular when the fact became evident that there had been a notable let-up in pressure to sell, and that recent persistent execution of stop-loss orders on the part of future delivery holders had virtually ceased. Liverpool reported the wheat market there was steadier, and that sensational declines had brought forward more buyers. Even more of an incentive to purchase here, however, was the fact that cash purchases in the United States were paying increased premiums for wheat, and that selling of future deliveries was a risky venture.

Change of trade sentiment as to wheat was also promoted by drought complaints from large sections of Kansas Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and Nebraska winter crop territory. Some estimates indicated that Kansas might not have more than 9,000,000 acres of winter wheat this year, and that the condition of much wheat already sown was far from good. There were also suggestions of rust developing in Argentina owing to unusual humidity.

Corn and oats borrowed strength from wheat, but export demand for corn appeared to be held in check by enlarged rural offerings.

Provisions advanced with hog values.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

December Closes at 6.14 as General Market Rises 13 to 17 Points.

New York, Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Cotton was higher today on a more active trade demand which was later supplemented by commission house buying on the better tone of the stock market and talk of a firmer technical position. December contracts sold up to 6.21 but met rather freer offerings at this figure and closed at 6.14 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was 5 to 7 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and trade buying. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were among the early buyers and some demand was also reported for Far Eastern account.

Active months worked 20 to 23 points above yesterday's closing quotations with March selling up to 6.26 but a little more cotton was then encountered with some increase in offerings from the South. Closing quotations showed reactions of 5 to 8 points from the best.

A private crop report placed the indicated yield at 11,175,000 bales and estimated ginnings prior to November 1, at 8,700,000.

A canvass of New York Cotton Exchange members indicated that local traders are expecting very little change in the Government report, anticipating a crop of, about 11,410,000 bales on the average.

Liverpool cables said that scattered buying and trade calling had absorbed light hedging in that market and reported a maintained demand for cotton cloth from the home trade and India. Exports today, 65,032, making 2,254,791 so far this season. Port receipts, 94,059. United States port stocks, 4,328,827.

Notre Dame Gridmen Hit "Comeback Trail"

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 4 (U.P.).—Notre Dame's Irish—37 of them—left early tonight for the first stop on what they hope will be the "comeback trail" after their Pittsburgh defeat.

Coach Hunk Anderson's charges will face Kansas University at Lawrence Saturday.

The Irish mentor plans to start his first team, "if I can find which one is first."

defense, after stressing attack all week. Earl Widmyer, hurt somewhat in the V. M. I. game last week, will not start the game, but should see service before many minutes have ticked away.

Roberts holds the center of popular interest this afternoon. It was this bruising back field star who routed Maryland last year, down in Nashville, after the Old Liners had held the Commodore team to a 12-12 score at half time. Roberts romped to four touchdowns in the second half to turn the deadlock into a 39-12 victory for his side.

WAKE FOREST TEST TODAY FOR CATHOLIC

cons have held both North Carolina teams to 0-to-0 ties, and have beaten South Carolina, 6 to 0, and Delaware, 7 to 0. Tulane beat South Carolina, 6 to 0. Duke scored its touchdown against Wake Forest on a 65-yard run, and gained its other three points by a field goal, after the Wake Forest line had resisted four successive drives to the 5-yard line.

Once again Catholic University will depend on Tommy Whelan to come through with its scoring punch. If Wake Forest can be thwarted in any way, Whelan is the boy to do it, and his very presence in today's game gives the Cardinals a slight edge.

C. U. will have comparatively green material at two important posts—quarter back and left end. Charley McVean, regular signal caller, is out of the game for two weeks with a bad knee. His place today will be taken by a former St. John's boy and old high school rival, Gene Augusterfer. Johnny Ball, willing reserve end, takes Vincent Fraatz's place at end.

Today's will be the first game in four years Fraatz has not started a game for Catholic University.

Bulwarks of the Wake Forest line are Jumbo Swan, 220 pounds, and Rube Chetty, 200 pounds, both of them tackles. Swan is 6 feet 2 inches tall and Chetty 6 feet 5. The backs C. U. must watch are Wilson and Peters.

A fairly even battle was waged in the final period, with play surging over midfield into one team's territory, though not very far, and back again. A desperate Western aerial attack went awry and the game ended with the ball on Western's side of the field.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

KILLER whales, strange as it seems, are not the huge Moby Dicks of the deep that can flip a ship out of water with a sweep of their tails. They are little 15 to 20 foot orca whales, insignificantly small beside the whalebone whales. The little killer whales will attack and kill the largest whales in the sea.

They attack at the larger fish's jaws, ripping him with their sharp teeth. No large whale can fight them off or resist their attack. Some whales will not even defend themselves against the killers, but roll over on their backs when the orcas appear, and wait for the end.

It sometimes happens, however, that a large sperm whale, generally in old age, will become mean. Moby Dick, of the well-known work of fiction by that name, is the classic example of such a whale. True incidents of these animals—for a whale is an animal—are known. In 1819 a whale attacked the whale ship Essex and sank her. The crew took to lifeboats, and seven of them were rescued several weeks later. Another sperm whale attacked the Ann Alexander in 1851, sinking her. The crew was picked up by a passing ship.

The little killer whales, too, will attack men, but because of their size they can not endanger ships.

WARDMAN CONTROL BEING SOUGHT FOR TWO CAPITAL MEN

Stetson and Hellen Would Be at Helm With Baltimore Man, Court Told.

Assurances that two prominent Washingtonians, Frank B. Stetson, vice president of the National Savings & Trust Co., and Arthur Hellen, an attorney, together with George C. Schriver, president of an investment firm of that name in Baltimore, will be placed in charge of the Wardman Real Estate Properties here if the recent auction sale of the properties is confirmed by the District Supreme Court were given yesterday to Justice F. Dickinson Letts, in that court.

Backs Ratification.

The assertion was made by Edward K. Hanlon, a New York attorney, who is seeking confirmation of the sale for the majority bond holders who have grouped themselves into the protective committee, which claims to have more than 5,000 of the note holders in its ranks.

Mr. Hanlon also said, in answer to arguments advanced by attorneys for minority note holders, that his group was in possession of notes worth on their face $10,000,000. The issue in default was only $11,000,000. The properties brought $2,800,000 at the forced sale, and they are encumbered by mortgages totaling approximately $5,000,000.

Hearing Is Adjourned.

Answering the charge that Halsey Stuart Co., investment bankers, who floated the bond issue, controlled the protective committee, the attorney said that company formed the committee for the mutual protection of all. He asserted that as soon as the sale is ratified, if that action is taken, the properties will be turned over to the Washington Properties, Inc., which will, in turn, be controlled exclusively by the three men.

Following the opening statement by Attorney Hanlon, Justice Letts adjourned the hearing until Wednesday of next week, when the taking of testimony will begin.

Entering of Cleric's Home Is Investigated

Police are investigating an unofficial complaint that the home of the Rev. Dr. D. Wellington Curran, secretary of the Washington Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, had been broken into a number of times, because it was not given adequate attention by police.

Capt. Ira Sheetz, of the Tenth Police Precinct, has ordered the complaint investigated and records indicated that there have been a number of minor complaints around the clergyman's home at 4114 Fourth street northwest, and that the premises had been robbed several weeks ago. The robbery is being probed by Detective Sergt. Robert L. Jones.

Armed Man Takes $44 From Store Manager

Virgil Atwood, manager of a Sanitary Grocery at 1211 Fourth street northeast, was held up by a colored man yesterday morning and robbed of $44.50. The robber, carrying a heavy revolver, fled from the store and, commandeering a taxicab, escaped.

The man entered the store after telling a taxi driver who had taken him to the neighborhood to wait and threatening Atwood forced him to give him the money. A customer who entered while the robbery was in progress was afraid to interfere. The store, according to officials of the company, has been held up four times in the last four years.

Family of Three Overcome by Gas

Heater Fumes Cause Mother and Two Children to Become Ill.

Mrs. Marie Jones, 34, and her two children, William, 20 months, and Eleanor, 17, were overcome by what was thought to be carbon monoxide gas escaping from a hot-water heater in their home at 913 I street northwest yesterday afternoon.

The family were in the kitchen, when the two children became ill. Soon after Mrs. Jones was stricken and became unconscious. A neighbor discovered the trio and called the Emergency Hospital and the fire rescue squad.

Members of the squad administered oxygen and revived the group. Mrs. Jones and her infant son required no further treatment, but the daughter was taken to Emergency Hospital.

CITY POLICE TO HALT PICKETING OF COURT

Washington Reds Planning to Stage Scottsboro Case Demonstration.

To prevent picketing of the Supreme Court by Communists Monday, when a decision in the Scottsboro case is scheduled to be given, the Metropolitan Police Department will reinforce ranks of the Capitol police.

The announcement that aid would be given to the Capitol police was made by Superintendent of Police Ernest W. Brown, after a conference yesterday with Capitol Architect David Lynn, Capt. Stephen J. Gnash of the Capitol police and Inspector Frank S. W. Burke.

Meanwhile, the International Labor Defense reaffirmed its determination to form a picket line at the Capitol in spite of the refusal of Capt. Gnash to grant a permit. The National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners yesterday sent protests to Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis and Cardozo against the refusal of Capt. Gnash to permit the picketing.

A vehement denial that the American Federation of Labor would take part in the demonstration was made by William L. Green, president of the federation.

"Under no circumstances," he said, "would the American Federation of Labor be associated with or join with Communists or communistic organizations in the realization of any objective."

"On behalf of the American Federation of Labor I denounce this attempt of the Communists to add respectability to their undertaking by using the name of the American Federation of Labor."

His denial followed a statement that the American Federation of Labor would join the Communists in the demonstration.

Police Experimenting With Powerful Light

A new type of searchlight, reputed to be able to cast a beam a half-mile, is being tried out by the United States park police on a police cruiser.

Capt. P. J. Carroll, of the park police, said yesterday that the light is an emergency portable one, and will be used on the cars if trials are successful, to supplement the other equipment.

Boys' Halloween Prank May Cost Man His Eye

A victim of Halloween rowdyism, Axel H. Oxholm, director of the National Committee on Wood Utilization, will be examined today by eye specialists of the Episcopal Hospital, who performed an operation in an effort to save his sight.

Oxholm was injured when a group of small boys attacked his home at 4624 Langdrum lane, Chevy Chase, Md., and struck the man, breaking his eyeglasses with a rock. Fragments of the glass pierced one eyeball and badly scratched the other. Maryland police are investigating the attack.

COFFIN WILL BEAR APPEAL TO HOOVER

Will Get Request Today for Guards at Virginia Voting Booths.

A copy of a resolution recently adopted by a mass meeting of "non-partisans" in Norfolk, Va., will be borne on a coffin by five residents of the Virginia seaport toward the White House today at 9:30 a. m., "to impress upon the President the seriousness" of its requests.

Stationing of two Marines at each voting booth in Virginia "to try to preserve the sanctity of the ballot and the will of the people" is one of the requests.

Calling of a special session of Congress "to pay the soldier bonus at once, to help break the depression and lessen the suffering of 2,500,000 unemployed veterans" is another of the resolution's pleas.

According to the measure, officials of the State of Virginia "are planning to have an illegal congressional election, as they left the name of W. B. Shafer, jr., off the ballot for Congress" and this factor is declared to represent an incentive for "minor election officials to disregard all decent election laws."

Shafer is delegated by the resolution to carry the resolution on a coffin to the White House and arrived last night. Accompanying are four other "pallbearers." Alfred W. Price, tidewater service officer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Robert Andrews, former Marine; C. J. Nelson, former Marine, and the Rev. Hubert Harrison, former Army chaplain.

It was reported that a line broke when the keg was being raised by crane to the fourth floor of the building.

The memories of "good old Dunk," the Washington Zoo's first and most beloved elephant, which died in 1917, and of James E. Cooper, famous circus man, who donated the pachyderm, were honored yesterday.

Members of the Circus Fans' Association, James E. Cooper Troop, gathered in the Zoo restaurant and eulogized Cooper, who was a native of this city and who started the zoo with the gift of Dunk on April 30, 1891.

Speakers were Dr. William A. Mann, curator of the zoo; William Blackburn, head keeper and close friend of the late circus man, and Melvin D. Hildreth, prominent attorney, who is national arbitrator for the Circus Owners of America.

Burglars Search Store For Money; Rob Phone

Money in any amount and not groceries evidently was sought by burglars who entered the store of Samuel H. Gorewitz, 1935 I street northwest, Thursday night.

Mr. Gorewitz reported to police yesterday that the burglars gained entrance by hacking a hole through the wall from an adjoining vacant store. They ransacked his store in an apparent search for secreted money. Finding none, they smashed the money box of the telephone booth and left without taking a thing from the store.

WMAL Loses Plea For Added Power

Conflict With Stations in Indiana and Canada Forbids Grant.

A denial of the application of Station WMAL to increase its night power to 500 watts was recommended by Chief Examiner Ellis A. Yost in his report to the Federal Radio Commission yesterday.

The reasons given were that additional interference with Station WGBF at Evansville, Ind., would be caused by the increase from 250 watts to 500 watts at night. Station WMAL is separated from WGBF by a distance of only 575 miles, whereas the recommended separation for two such stations is 800 miles.

Also it is pointed out that the distance from Station WMAL to the Canadian border is 300 miles. Section 123 of the commission's rules and regulations precludes any station from operating with power greater than 250 watts at night on a Canadian-shared channel, within 500 miles of the Canadian boundary.

TRAFFIC TOLL

A total of 5,373 arrests for traffic violations were made during October, with parking violations constituting a large majority of the arrests.

Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, commenting on parking violations, stated that although some violations might seem trivial, they were contributory causes of accidents.

An increase of 37 deaths and 208 injuries due to traffic was noted up to date, in contrast to the corresponding period of 1931, although the total number of accidents indicate a decrease of 402. The figures are:

	1931	1932
Deaths	68	105
Injuries	3,028	3,216
Accidents	7,139	6,737

Jurors and Witnesses Get Wage Reductions

District jurors and witnesses in criminal cases yesterday felt the hand of the depression when United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder paid out the October bills on the reduced scale dictated by the economy act. Both jurors and witnesses suffered a 25 per cent cut in their daily wages, the jurors dropping to $3 a day and witnesses to $1.50.

The $5 daily allowance for out-of-town witnesses was abolished. This class now gets only actual traveling expenses with no subsistence while here. The savings resulting are expected to run about $900 a month.

Oldest Inhabitant Museum Boasts 1808 Baby Carriage

Ancient Perambulator Was Built in Richmond by Isaacher Hughes and Served Five Generations in its Owner's Family.

What is believed to be the oldest baby carriage in this country is reposing in the museum of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants of the District, according to officials of the Smithsonian Institution.

The carriage, built along the lines of a spring wagon, has seen much use, having been built by Isaacher Hughes in Richmond, Va., in 1808. It was used by eleven of his children, and then four more generations of the Hughes family kept it in service until 1921.

Then James F. Hughes, an employe of the Government Printing Office, placed it in the museum of the oldest inhabitants. The interest in the carriage was revived by a recent study of Mrs. Elsie A. Parry, of New York, who is compiling a history of baby carriages in this country. The Hughes carriage was the oldest on her list.

The oldest carriage in the Smithsonian Institution was made about 1860 and officials said the records of earlier carriages are scarce.

SPEAKER SUGGESTS GENERAL DONATIONS

Noyes Declares Chest Need Demands Sacrifice on Part of Everyone.

Speaking at a meeting of employes of Community Chest organizations last night at the United States Chamber of Commerce, Chairman Newbold Noyes declared that this is a year in which everybody will have to sacrifice something in order to help out the thousands of people who have nothing. He called attention to the need that exists in Washington today and said that every person who has an income or a job, however small, would have to help if these thousands of people, many of them asking aid for the first time, are to be helped.

The occasion was the annual "family party" of staff members and employes of the Community Chest and its member organizations.

Miss Gertrude H. Bowling presided and introduced E. C. Graham, president of the Community Chest, as the first speaker. Mr. Graham made a straight-forward talk to the "family," telling them that not only must every possible effort be put forth to obtain the Chest goal, but also that the utmost economy must be exercised in the expenditure of funds so raised.

Mr. Noyes pledged his efforts to the job ahead and asked the cooperation of all present. Short talks were made by Joshua Evans, jr., chairman of the budget committee; H. S. Fitz, captain of the advance guard; Joseph D. Kaufman, chairman of the publicity unit, and Elwood Street, director of the Chest.

A verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner's jury yesterday in the fatal shooting of James B. Bradley, Washington Times reporter, who was found with a bullet wound through his head in his apartment at 2627 Adams Mill road northwest, Wednesday.

James E. Klegg, a friend of Bradley, testified that the dead youth had been subject to fits of despondency and had brooded a great deal over the death of his father and mother. He also was worried over financial matters, it was said.

Two of Bradley's roommates described the events preceding the finding of Bradley. The youth was found following a party in the apartment, and was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he died.

GIRL, 4, IS INJURED FATALLY BY TRAIN; BROTHER, 2, SAVED

Children Are Said to Have Walked Onto Track at Hume Spring Crossing.

Probably unaware of any danger, little Margaret Mae Faulkner, 4 years old, leading her 2-year-old baby brother by the hand is said to have walked onto the track of the Washington & Old Dominion Railway Co. just as the train was approaching the Hume Spring crossing yesterday afternoon.

Brother Is Saved.

Motorman C. O. Crosson said he saw the children, but was unable to stop his car. A bystander is said to have snatched the baby boy from the path of the car, but the little girl was knocked beneath it.

A witness took the child to Alexandria Hospital, where her limbs were amputated, one above and the other below the knee.

Girl Dies of Injuries.

Efforts to save the life of the child proved futile, and she died early last night.

Although the children were said to have been not far from their home when they strolled from a strip of woods onto the track, considerable difficulty was experienced by officers in locating their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Faulkner, and they arrived at the hospital only a short time before the child died.

Fireman Is Promoted; Another Joins Force

A promotion and an appointment were ordered in the Fire Department yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Fire Chief George S. Watson.

Private J. I. McDonald was promoted to the rank of sergeant to fill a vacancy created by a retirement, while Raymond H. Sheets was named to replace McDonald in the private ranks.

Sun Bather Under Span Causes Accident Scare

Fire rescue and other relief apparatus rushed to Chain Bridge yesterday afternoon when the alarm "Man overboard" was received. Arriving, the rescue forces were met with the call from the unwitting subject of the alarm—a half-clothed and sleepy man lying on the rocks below:

"Say, can't I take a sun-bath without the Fire Department being called out?"

Slayer Gets Three Years.

Pleading guilty to a charge of manslaughter, Jesse Jackson, colored, was sentenced yesterday to serve from three to ten years in jail by Chief Justice Wheat in District Supreme Court. Jackson killed Mary Johnson, also colored, July 17. He was indicted for murder but was allowed to plead to the lesser offense.

For years you've seen the porker's skin in only tan or brown shades. Now we have found a way of dyeing it grey. And you should see what a good-looking glove it has turned out to be. It's soft and supple and slips easily on the hand . . . because it's made in swagger sizes A, B, C and D to fit long or short fingers. Of course, if you're loyal to tan or brown we have them, too.

Eddie Cantor Appreciates Vote Victory Over Jolson

The final count of votes in the Cantor-Jolson election contest, held in connection with the eighth annual industrial exposition of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, showed the widespread preference of Washingtonians in favor of "Cantor for President."

Announcement of this result was conveyed to the winning candidate in an appropriately worded message sent by Thomas P. Littlepage, president. In acknowledging this message the successful candidate wired the chamber as follows:

"Please convey to the voters of Washington, D. C., my congratulations for having selected the best possible man for their needs. By the way, what are their needs? Have selected my entire cabinet today, Mickey Mouse. If you don't hear from me for the next month I've gone fishing, using four or five photographers for bait.
